HOUSE VOTES ON STATE INCOME TAX BILL TODAY

Governor Calls for Poor Relief.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The showdown on an income tax for Illinois is scheduled for tomorrow in the house of representatives and a counting of noses tonight led farm bloc leaders to predict they will have 81 votes, four more than a majority, for the measure when the subject comes to a vote as a special order of business. It passed the senate several weeks ago.

HOMER TICE.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

For the moment this impending battle overshadowed the importance of the third special session which convened at 4 p. m. to hear Gov. Emmerson's message which keynoted the urgent need of relief for Chicago's poor. Bills to provide this through state tax warrants were presented in both houses and sent to second reading immediately.

Hope to Speed Bills.

The plan at present is to attempt to pass the bills in the house first, where they will be under the guidance of Minority Leader Igoe. James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston] sponsored them in the senate and a determined effort will be made to speed the entire program through this week with a third reading in the house Wednesday and a similar final roll call in the senate Friday. This, if accomplished, would almost set a record for legislative procedure.

The income tax, praised and condemned by rural and urban assemblymen, respectively, has the veteran assemblyman, Homer J. Tice [Rep., Greenview,], as its chief protagonist in the house.

Mr. Tice's nose count indicated, he says, that the 81 votes are assured, providing a strong attendance is present tomorrow morning. There may be a move for further postponement of the troublesome roll call if a number of chairs are vacant.

Would Assess Graduated Tax.

The impost would assess a graduated tax upon all persons earning income in the state, the exemption for unmarried persons being $1,000 and $2,500 for heads of families. The exemption for each dependent child is $300.

Just how serious is the condition of Chicago in its attempt to provide for the poor and unemployed was emphasized by Gov. Emmerson in the message read to both houses at dusk. The "meat" of it is incorporated in these three paragraphs:

"In Chicago and Cook county today are hundreds of thousands of persons who are destitute, lacking the bare necessities to preserve life, for whom there is no employment and no means of helping themselves. A civilized people cares for its members in distress. In a few days the sources of voluntarily subscription and the ordinary local government aid in Cook county and Chicago will fail entirely.

Treasuries Are Bankrupt.

"The situation is further complicated by the failure to collect taxes in Cook county which has bankrupted the municipal treasuries and even interfered with the functions of state government.

"The problem must be met. We must care for them ourselves, who, through no fault of their own, need food and shelter and clothing. As governor of the state of Illinois it is my duty to call to your attention this deplorable situation. The constitution vests in you, the legislative body of the state, the power to enact appropriate legislation to meet this condition.

"The proclamations convening the general assembly in the first and second extraordinary sessions were, perhaps, not sufficiently inclusive to permit the legislation now imperative to relieve this situation. But the work of the second special session necessarily is little advanced. By including these subjects in this proclamation it will be possible to adjourn that session sine die and transact the business of that session under the third proclamation. One or two other matters of some degree of urgency have been included in this proclamation

TRIED OUT

Confesses He Beat Woman, 2 Men to Death

Three brutal hammer murders—two of which were committed since Jan. 1—were solved early this morning by the confession of Paul Harrison, 27 years old, a jobless mechanic, who explained his deeds were prompted by a mysterious "feeling." Police said they believe it possible that he also hammered two other victims to death since the first of the year.

The victims named by Harrison were Dr. James Shaffer, a dentist, who was slain in his office at 3801 Broadway on Jan. 23; Earl Davis, 22, a watchman, hammered to death in the garage at 3740 Sheridan road early last Sunday, and Miss Norma Newby, 27, of 2701 Flourney street, who was beaten to death in March of last year in the Elk Grove forest preserve.

May Solve Two Other Killings.

The hammer slayings which authorities hope to fasten on the manical killer are those of Charles Pagel, 9954 South May street, killed on Jan. 9 in the Aplin hotel, 27 East Harrison street, and Charles Tyrell, killed on Jan. 13 in a rooming house at 617 North Dearborn street.

Solution of the slayings came in a series of dramatic events. Yesterday afternoon Harrison was seized sleeping in a flat at 4312 West Madison street. Under his mattress police found a written confession that he had killed Davis. When arrested, Harrison pleaded that he had taken poison to expiate his crime and wanted to die.

Hammer Found In Room.

Grilled throughout the night, and made to re-enact the Davis murder, Harrison asserted steadily that he had killed Davis in a scuffle. He struck him with his fist, he averred and Davis' head cracked against the floor. Medical examination disproved this statement, however. It showed Davis had been slain with a hammer. In Harrison's room Sergts. Frank Kehoe and George Meagher found his mechanic's kit. In it was a bloodstained hammer.

Harrison was taken to the detective bureau early this morning, where Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne, homicide expert, and Sergts. Kehoe and Meagher quizzed him. They concentrated their questioning on Dr. Shaffer's murder because it occurred but a short distance from the Davis killing, and because Harrison admitted he knew Dr. Shaffer.

"Yes," finally admitted Harrison. "I killed him. I don't know why. He was a friend of mine. One day I went to his office. I had my tools with me. I don't know what happened, but I was seized with a strange feeling—and I struck him. I killed him and fled."

Ditchburne suggested. "If you did those two jobs so easily, you must have committed others." Harrison paused a moment. "Yes," he said again. "I killed a woman in the Elk Grove forest preserve."

That slaying was that of Miss Newby. Harrison could not remember her name, but recalled that of Frank J. Murray, her friend, who was suspected of the crime for a while. Murray had insisted throughout that Miss Newby was kidnaped from him and his auto stolen. His story was substantiated March 17 when his car was found at Jonesville, Va. Harrison referred to the car.

"I left it in Virginia some place," he said. "I remember I struck a man there on the head with a hammer, and left him for dead, but he didn't die."

Early this morning Harrison was still being questioned.

WOMAN KEEPS HER MOUTH SHUT WITH A PURPOSE

George Ward, 540 Brompton place, chief chemist for the Portland Cement company, and his wife were inspecting some chairs in the General Furniture company store at 1101 Belmont avenue last evening when three bandits entered the place.

They motioned the Wards over to a divan and told them to be comfortable. Guarded by one bandit, Mrs. Ward appeared nervous, but said nothing.

Meanwhile, the other gunmen menaced Meyer K. Nelson, 910 Lafayette parkway, the manager, and Carl Edwards, 718 East 76th street, the clerk, and stole $10 from the till. During all this the bandit guarding the Wards continually reassured them no one would be harmed. Mrs. Ward at no time made any effort to talk. It was not until after the bandits left that Mrs. Ward opened her mouth and took out several rings, valued at $700.

Pay Cut Bill Just a Little Senate Waif

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Dignified chairmen of senate committees hopped about upon a hot griddle today as each sought to dodge the onus of passing upon the bill introduced by Senator William E. Borah, Idaho radical Republican, to cut the salaries of federal employes.

Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.] was the first to try to duck from under when he protested that the appropriations committee of which he is chairman and to which the measure was originally referred was not the proper body to consider it. He suggested the committee on civil service.

Senator Borah Objects.

"I can't agree to that," objected Senator Borah, who is safely out of it as chairman of the committee on foreign relations.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, also out of it since he is a Democrat, mentioned half a dozen committees to which the bill might be referred. He finally settled on the finance committee.

That brought the finance committee chairman, Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], to his feet, declaring: "The finance committee has all it can possibly do already."

"Then I think that's the proper place to send the bill," interjected Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.].

Senator Norris, radical Republican of Nebraska and chairman of the judiciary committee, forestalled any attempt to send the measure his way by stating his positive belief that Senator Jones ought to keep it.

Only one senator expressed a real desire to get hold of the bill and that was Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Penn.], chairman of the committee on military affairs.

Affects All $5,000 Up.

"Does it affect the salaries of the army and navy?" he inquired.

Senator Borah replied that his measure affected all federal salaries of $5,000 and up except those of the President and the judiciary.

"Then the bill should be passed on by the military and naval affairs committees," said Senator Reed, doubtless already figuring on how he would protect his generals.

Senator Borah became restive.

"I move that the discussion go over until tomorrow," he said. "But let me tell you, the senate can't shift responsibility." And he retired, to seek comfort and safety in his foreign relations committee room.

NIPPONESE LAUNCH NEW ATTACKS ON CHINESE CITY AS 4 POWERS PROTEST

America, Britain, France and Italy Make Demand.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Following an interchange of views today on the Chino-Japanese war, a concerted protest was made by the United States, Great Britain, France, and Italy against the Japanese attack on Shanghai.

PAUL CLAUDEL.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

In separate notes concurrently dispatched to Tokio, the four principal western powers recorded their disapproval of the conduct of the Japanese forces, particularly with respect to the invasion of the international settlement at Shanghai and the bombardment of Nanking.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson declined tonight to make public the text of the American representations or to discuss this latest move of the powers.

Leap Into Band Wagon.

It is understood, however, that the representations agreed upon in the exchanges between Washington, London, Paris and Rome were in effect a demand for the withdrawal of Japan from the international settlement and a warning to respect the rights of the nationals of the four powers in China generally.

The authors of this move are hopeful that it will give Japan pause and result ultimately in the retirement of Japanese forces from China proper.

France and Italy are reported to have leaped for the band wagon because of the consideration that if the United States and Great Britain should succeed in saving China from Japan, the English speaking powers would enjoy a favor in China denied the Latin powers.

That all the principal western powers are now arrayed against the infringement of international rights at Shanghai by Japan and are sending forces to protect their nationals was established during the day. Both France and Italy informed the American government that they are taking their stand with the United States and Great Britain in this emergency.

France Denies Secret Pact.

Following a call on Secretary of State Stimson, Paul Claudel, the French ambassador, said the major powers were united in the common purpose of protecting their nationals at Shanghai. Secretary Stimson also discussed the situation with London officials via trans-Atlantic telephone and later received Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador.

"France," M. Claudel said, "is in the same boat with the other powers, and we see eye to eye."

Taking notice of recent speculation regarding a suspected Franco-Japanese alliance, the ambassador asserted that "talk of an agreement between France and Japan is just crazy." He added that the French ambassador in Tokio had made representations similar to those of the United States and Great Britain against the violation of international rights in Shanghai and that France was sending a cruiser with marines and troops from French Indo-China to Shanghai to reinforce the forces in the French concession. In addition, he said, the French consul general in Shanghai is coöperating with the foreign consular body. Similar assurances were given this morning to William R. Castle Jr., the undersecretary of state, by Jules Henry, the counselor of the French embassy.

Count Alberto Marchetti said after a call at the state department that the Italian ambassador in Tokio had lodged representations with the Japanese foreign office. His government is prepared to send forces to Shanghai for purposes of protection, he said.

Reserves Offer Services.

Publication of the news this morning that military and naval reinforcements were being sent to Shanghai brought scores of telegrams to the navy and war departments from reserve officers desiring to offer their services in event of war with Japan. Many of the volunteers stated they would be ready to go on short notice. No call for officer personnel has been sent out by either service, officials said.

The latest advices tonight were that Japan has failed to comply with the demands of the American and British

THE FAR EAST WAR SITUATION IN A NUTSHELL

WASHINGTON.—In the face of a joint protest from the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy against the Japanese invasion of the Shanghai neutral zone, it was learned here that a new Japanese attack has been launched, openly flouting the note of the powers.

SHANGHAI.—Japanese marines seal Hongkew area of international settlement against foreigners and then open new battle. Foreign authorities had been previously advised of plans.

TOKIO.—Japanese government orders attack on Chinese in Shanghai today. Ministers of war, navy, and foreign affairs urge cabinet to send army to China.

NANKING.—Japanese warships in Yangtze river shell Nanking and forts near city. American residents in peril.

MANILA.—One thousand American doughboys sail for service in China.

WAR BULLETINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 2.—(3:30 p. m. Tuesday.)—As soon as the fog clears in Shanghai Japanese bombers from the airplane carriers Hosho and Akagi will bombard Chapei, Nanshi and the Woosung forts. There are ten thousand Chinese troops in Chapei, 8,000 in Nanshi and 3,000 in Woosung. The Japanese will also bomb the arsenals and railway stations.

NANKING, Feb. 2 (Tuesday).—Japanese bluejackets were landed from warships here today and concentrated at the Japanese wharf.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 2 (Tuesday.)—Leading Tokio stock shares dropped between ten and twenty points this morning. The exchange will be closed this afternoon.

TOKIO, Feb. 2 (Tuesday).—(AP)—The navy office announced today that Admiral Prince Hiroyasu Fushimi, member of the supreme war council and head of one of the collateral branches of the imperial family, had been appointed chief of the naval general staff. He succeeds Admiral Shoshin Taniguchi, who resigned this morning on account of illness.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Dr. John Hawk, American mission official, filed a vigorous protest with the United States consulate today after Japanese marines tore down an American flag flying from mission property.

He demanded compensation from the Japanese government and asked that Japanese marines be ordered to return the flag and put it back at the place from where it was torn.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Tuesday, Feb. 2.—Early this morning Japanese naval forces fired upon the General hospital building on the eastern bank of Soochow creek, near the postoffice. The building was flying several large Red Cross banners.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2 (Tuesday).—Lieut. Yonemaru, an officer of the Japanese naval forces, attempted to take his life by stabbing himself in the chest with a sword at 3 o'clock this morning after writing a note to Rear Admiral Shiosawa, Japanese naval commander of squadron here. He is expected to live.

PEIPING, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Japanese military leaders were reported today to have delivered ultimatums to Chinese authorities in Tientsin, Chefoo, and Tsingtao, demanding cessation of anti-Japanese agitation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 2 (12:38 p. m. Tuesday).—A third fleet will be formed by the Japanese navy for the purpose of controlling all warships not in the first and second fleets. Prince Fushimi will be appointed chief of the naval staff this afternoon. The change in the general staff is believed due to a strong determniation to uphold Japan's rights.

Foreign Consuls Notified of Plan for Battle.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2 (Tuesday).—(AP)—The Japanese guns planted on Dixwell road, in the Hongkew area, opened fire on the Chapei sector of Shanghai at 3:55 p. m. today.

(Pictures on back page.)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2 (Tuesday). (U.P.) Japanese marines began a wholesale offensive against Chinese positions in the Chapei (native city) and north railroad station sectors at 2:15 p. m. today, the Japanese marine headquarters officially announced at 2:30.

The Japanese were using machine guns and field guns to bombard the Chinese defenses.

At 2:50 p. m. new conflagrations had started in the Chapei district, which was already devastated by the bombing and fires of last week's fierce battle.

Japanese seaplanes appeared over Chapei at 2:25, but there was no bombing at that time. Crowds in the city expressed more curiosity than fear.

A new Japanese warship was arriving in the harbor at the time the offensive started.

Foreigners Are Excluded.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Japanese bluejackets virtually sealed the Hongkew area of the international settlement against the entrance of foreigners today.

Japanese sentries on duty at the entrance to all roads refused to allow foreigners to enter. Reports circulated that Japanese forces were concentrating on the northern border of Hongkew for a new attack on the Chapei native section of Shanghai.

Rear Admiral Shiosawa, Japanese commander-in-chief, charged that the Chinese had violated the "truce" and were repeatedly firing on Japanese bluejackets. He notified the foreign consuls that he was planning to take counter measures.

He said the Chinese activity reached a climax last night when a Chinese shell splashed in the Whangpoo river near the admiral's flagship, Ataka.

Japanese warships threw several shells within the city walls last night, killing one Chinese policeman. Bluejackets were brought ashore at the Japanese wharf this morning.

NANKING IS SHELLED

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2 (Tuesday).—The Chinese-Japanese war situation took a sudden turn for worse late last night and early today when Japanese warships anchored in the Yangtze river began raining shells on the city of Nanking, imperiling hundreds of Americans and other foreign residents. Under cover of the bombardment of the city and of the Lion Hill forts, five miles from Nanking proper, the Japanese landed bluejackets and prepared to take over control of the city. The Chinese government, fearing such action by Japan, moved its headquarters from Nanking to Honanfu, 500 miles in the interior, last Saturday.

Meanwhile the outlook in Shanghai was for another day of terror. Japanese marines early today opened a withering machine gun offensive against the Chinese within the Hangkew section of the international settlement. Buildings in the foreign area were sprayed with bullets.

Three Warships Bombard City.

The bombardment of Nanking was accomplished by the Japanese cruisers Tsushima and Tenryu and the destroyer Hasu. The shelling began shortly after 11 o'clock last night. Chinese reports from Nanking say Chinese regular troops, part of the 30,000 which reached there to protect the city yesterday, resisted the landing of Japanese marines after the bombardment.

The Chinese have two ancient cruisers at Nanking, but they were reported to have taken no part in the action, nor did the forts reply to the Japanese fire. Great Britain has several gunboats near Nanking and the States has one destroyer there.

Japanese sources, however, claimed the Chinese fired first. Japanese reports also said the warship had fired only "blank ammunition."

The Japanese naval commander at Nanking protested against the Chinese trench construction adjacent to the river bank several days ago, but he assured the Chinese that he had no hostile intentions. He also assured the British and American naval commanders at Nanking that he would not fire on the city unless attacked.

Fear for Foreigners.

According to reports from Nanking last evening, the section of the city adjacent to the water front showed great activity, due to the transportation of war materials across the Yangtze in consequence of the transfer of the seat of government from Nanking to Honanfu.

That Nanking expected a hostile Japanese move was indicated by the hurried construction of bombproof shelters, the enforcement of martial law and the extinguishing of electric lights throughout the city.

The fact that a large foreign population resides at Nanking caused serious apprehension for their welfare. In addition to the American consul general, Willys R. Peck, his wife and children and the consular staff, the American minister, Nelson T. Johnson, and his wife were expected to reach Nanging today from Peiping. There are about 200 other Americans there.

Many Missionaries in Nanking.

There is a large American missionary community in Nanking, including the University of Nanking and the Agricultural college of Nanking. Most of the Americans live at hospitals and other institutions.

Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and other government officials removed the government's archives Saturday when they left Nanking for Honanfu. The only government officials left at Nanking are Gen. Ho Ying-chin, war minister; Gen. Ku Cho-tung, commander of the national guards, and Dr. Lo Wen-kan, foreign minister.

T. V. Soong, finance minister, is believed to be in Shanghai. C. T. Wang, now head of the national diplomatic commission, arrived in Shanghai this afternoon from Nanking aboard a British steamer.

Martial Law in Shanghai.

The international settlement here and the French concession went on a definite war basis today. Walls throughout the city were placarded with a proclamation forbidding loitering on the streets, the holding of meetings or demonstrations, delivery of speeches, and the publishing of circulars or documents likely to cause alarm or a breach of peace.

No persons except policemen or defense forces will be permitted to carry arms unless they possess licenses. Any one who disobeys will be subject to immediate arrest and punishment.

The curfew regulation was strictly enforced last night. Shanghai's famous night clubs were closed. The only street activity was the work of a small army of Chinese laborers engaged in constructing barbed wire and sandbag barricades.

Demand Japan Move Guns.

Shortly before the enforcement of the regulations settlement authorities requested the Japanese to remove a number of machine guns which had been installed on the roofs of Japanese cotton mills located in the sector patrolled by American marines and British troops.

It was also reported that the municipal council requested a company of Japanese marines to withdraw from the Anglo-American patrolled sector in the northeastern section of the settlement. It was feared the presence of the Japanese forces would invite a clash with Chinese forces and thus endanger neutral residents.

American marine officers admitted tonight that the presence of Japanese marines guarding Japanese properties located behind the American lines created a delicate and dangerous situation. In the event of a clash with the Chinese the American forces are likely to be sandwiched between the opposing forces.

U. S. Property Hit By Shell.

Property of the American Texaco company, located near Woosung, about twelve miles east of Shanghai near the mouth of the Whangpoo river, was struck by a Japanese shell when a Japanese gunboat bombarded a small Chinese village called Kaochow.

It was stated that a small fire was started at the Texaco plant, but it is thought to have been extinguished before spreading to the large oil tanks. Shortly after the incident the American destroyer Parrott tied up at the Texaco wharf.

Say Attack Was Unprovoked.

Officials of the Texaco company said the Japanese attack on their plant was entirely unprovoked. They said some Chinese children were shooting firecrackers just as a Japanese destroyer passed. The destroyer immediately blazed away with machine guns, they declared.

Another official Japanese communique last night said the Chinese had burned a Japanese glass factory in the Chapei area of Shanghai and that the Japanese proprietor of a brewery was killed and his assistant wounded by Chinese soldiers.

The Japanese are holding five large passenger ships here ready to evacuate their nationals from Shanghai and other points along the Yangtze.

The international diplomatic and political situation became more strained and complicated today with the news that the British and American governments are dispatching large additional forces here.

While the British and American forces are coming here for the definite purpose of protecting foreign citizens, the move is also interpreted here as an Anglo-American gesture to enforce the neutrality of the international settlement and perhaps to evacuate the large foreign population.

Foreign officials here are determined to prevent the Japanese from using the international settlement as a base for launching a drive against the Chinese troops.

Result Is Uncertain.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

NANKING, Feb. 2 [Tuesday].—Under the cover of a two hour bombardment of the Lion hill forts five miles from Nanking proper, the Japanese today landed bluejackets from their ships in the Yangtze river.

The landing party encountered detachments of the 30,000 veteran Chinese troops shipped into Nanking during the last two days, who had set up strong defensive positions behind sand bag barricades in the water front area.

For half an hour machine guns sputtered. What success the Chinese had in their attempt to repulse the attackers could not immediately be established, nor was it possible to determine the number of casualties.

U. S. Warships in Line of Fire.

The United States destroyer Simpson, on duty in the Yangtze to protect the 200 American residents of Nanking, was reported to have lifted its anchor and changed its position to get out of the line of Japanese fire.

Chinese eyewitnesses said the warships altogether fired 20 shells and scored several hits on the forts. While the firing was in progress a party of Japanese marines was landed on the waterfront and went into action against the defenders. The Chinese forts did not reply to the Japanese guns.

The confusion of the bombardment was intensified when all lights were suddenly extinguished and the city was plunged into intense darkness, relieved only by searchlights at the airdromes sweeping the sky in a fruitless search for Japanese bombing planes.

City Thrown Into Panic.

Plunged into utter panic by the shelling, residents of the waterfront district abandoned their homes and possessions and streamed through the darkness to that part of the city which lies within the ancient walls two and a half miles from the river.

The bombardment, laid down by the cruisers Tsushima and Tenryu and the destroyer Hasu, began at 11:15 o'clock last night and ended at 1 a. m. today. At 2:30 a. m. the situation was quiet but the utmost tension prevailed. Armored cars and tanks patrolled the thoroughfares.

Charge Shore Patrol Started It.

Chinese accused a Japanese dock patrol of starting the hostilities. They declared the patrol had fired on a Chinese detachment near the waterfront railway station and that immediately thereafter the guns of the ships boomed.

Shortly after 1:30 a. m. the American consul general said that he did not intend to evacuate the American residents. Foreign consulates generally were shocked at the new turn in events, and some of them prepared to move their nationals out of the city.

A total force of seven Japanese ships of war is lying off Nanking. This includes four cruisers and three destroyers. The cruiser Tenryu is armed with 5.5 inch guns and the destroyer Hasu has 4.7 inch guns.

A Tragedy of War.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1.—At 9 o'clock this morning there arrived at the Missions building, owned and staffed by American missionaries, a pitiful handful of refugees surviving from four family groups, exceeding fifty persons, which early today attempted to escape from Chapei, the native district of Shanghai. Of the original group 21 have been killed by Japanese bullets and eight detained by the Japanese at their marine headquarters.

This group, all Christian families, lived in a cluster of houses in the compound adjoining the rear wall of the Foochow Christian church of Chapei. The gates of their compound had been padlocked and barricaded by the Japanese, and they were unable to escape that way. So the men of the group worked all night removing bricks from the rear wall of the Foochow church.

Twenty Are Executed.

Early this morning they emerged upon the street in front of the church, and were immediately challenged by a contingent of about 60 Japanese marines. When one Chinese man, the head of a family, staggered backwards with his hands in the air he was shot and killed by the Japanese, in the presence of his wife and children.

Twenty-eight old and young men of the party were taken to headquarters, where, after a brief military hearing, 20 were stood against a wall and shot to death. Eight were detained as suspicious characters.

Japan Extends Drive Up Yangtze River

Map shows how Japan is extending her invasion of China up the Yangtze river valley from Shanghai. Japanese warships yesterday shelled Nanking, former capital of China. The American consul has requested warships to protect Americans at Nanking and Wuhu. The Japanese naval commander this morning notified foreign authorities he was planning "counter measures" against Chinese in Shanghai.

CRAFTY OLD ENEMY OF NEW CHINA BACK HOME TO FIGHT JAPAN

PEIPING, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Marshal Wu Pei-fu, that foxy old enemy of the Chinese republic, returned from years of exile in a remote Buddhist monastery today to unite with his former rivals against a common foe.

Marshal Wu, who was accompanied by a bodyguard of 1,200 men, said his sole object was to "unite all Chinese in one front against foreign aggression." It was generally believed he would be given command of Marshal Chang's troops, who were driven south of the great wall in Japan's drive on Chinchow. In his heyday, Marshal Wu was one of the powerful war lords of North China and ranked on a par with Marshal Chang Tso-lin and Gen. Feng Yo-hsiang. He virtually controlled Peiping [then Peking] from 1920 to 1924, and several times pushed Marshal Chang back into the fastnesses of Manchuria.

U. S. WAR GAMES BEGIN AS FLEET VANISHES AT SEA

65 Warships Will Try to "Capture" Hawaii.

BY CAPT. C. M. AUSTIN.
[U. S. Navy, Assistant Chief of Staff.]

U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, AT SEA, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Admiral Richard H. Leigh, commander of the battle force, led the blue fleet to sea today to attempt the capture of the Hawaiian islands.

Sixty-five naval vessels, accompanied by an air armada of 200 planes, sailed from Los Angeles and San Diego to give safe escort to a theoretical group of 25 naval transports, carrying to the shores of Oahu, Hawaii, a theoretical command of forty-odd thousand troops under Maj. Gen. Malin Craig, U. S. Army.

Some of the transports are blueprint ships and many of the soldiers are paper men, but even so, 27,250 officers, soldiers, and sailors have sailed for the Hawaiian war games.

A Joint Army-Navy Game.

Thus opens the American maneuvers of 1932. They possess unusual interest, for the operation is not a naval affair only, but is a major joint army and navy exercise. Soldiers, guns, and equipment of the army, together with detachments of the marine corps, form the blue expeditionary force. As in the days of 1917-'18, the navy must see the army safely across the sea and, once there, the army takes up the fight against the opposing black force.

The studies made at the war and navy departments and at the army and navy war colleges of the situation that might confront this country in the undesired and unfortunate event of war are the basis of our maneuvers.

The weighing of pros and cons, in the quiet of the office, produces decisions and plans that, however well thought out by their makers, need some practical demonstration before they can be finally accepted as sound.

On the soundness of those plans, on the skill of the operators called upon to execute them, and on the completeness and efficiency of the material involved depends national safety in time of war.

"Shanghai or Bust."

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The United States army transport St. Mihiel was bound for a secret rendezvous today with the United States fleet and, ostensibly, a game of mimic warfare in the Hawaiian islands.

But there were many among the 900 doughboys and officers of the American army aboard the transport who felt their destination lay beyond the shores of the "paradise of the Pacific."

"It's Shanghai or bust," yelled one lanky buck private to a group of friends who had gathered on the dock at Fort Mason here to bid him goodby.

NANKING, OLD CAPITAL OF CHINA, ENCLOSED BY WALLS 40 FEET THICK

Nanking, the capital of Kiangsu province, and until a few days ago the capital of China, is a walled city on the south bank of the Yangtze river, about 200 miles north and west of the war torn city of Shanghai. It has a population of about 380,000, of whom approximately 1,000 are foreigners, and is one of the most important missionary centers in China. Although Nanking has dwindled both in political and commercial importance and in population since the days of the Ming dynasty, it has become one of the most modern of China's smaller inland cities due to the recent progressive régime of the Manchus.

The name Nanking means "southern capital," just as Peking, now Peiping, means northern capital, and it has already been the seat of a kingdom seven times before the rulers of the Ming dynasty made it the seat of an empire. The Republicans made it the capital of their provisional government when they captured it in 1911, and it was in Nanking that Dr. Sun Yat-sen, one of the best known of Chinese statesmen, took the oath of office as president of the republic of China in 1912.

Nanking can be reached by train from Shanghai on the Shanghi-Nanking railway or by river steamers. The city is enclosed by tremendous walls which are 40 to 60 feet high, 20 to 40 feet thick and 22 miles long. They enclose a large area much of which is vacant land, grown up with bamboo groves or used by poor Chinese laborers for gardens. Nanking has modern educational facilities, including institutions started by American missionaries. The city was centuries old when Christ was born.

MORE THAN 1,000 U. S. DOUGHBOYS SAIL FOR CHINA

MANILA, Feb. 2.—[Tuesday]—(AP)—Amid scenes reminiscent of world war days, the transport Chaumont sailed for stricken Shanghai at 2:45 a. m. today [2:45 p. m. C. S. T. Monday] with more than 1,000 troops of the crack 31st U. S. infantry regiment aboard.

It pulled anchor to follow the major portion of the Asiatic fleet, which sailed yesterday with a force of bluejackets and marines to protect American lives and property. The military and naval forces were dispatched under orders from Washington.

Events of the last few days have created a martial atmosphere in Manila unknown since the memorable days of 1917 and 1918.

Stirs Memories of War.

Although the cruiser Houston, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, commanded by Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, and two divisions of destroyers had slipped away hurriedly without creating much of a stir, the sailing of the Chaumont brought back wartime memories.

With but 12 hours sailing notice, there was feverish activity as the regiment prepared to board ship. Complete field equipment had to be packed and loaded.

Hours before sailing time the 1,056 officers and men were aboard, but loading of supplies continued amid apparent confusion. Wives, sweethearts and friends dodged pierward among army trucks to say their farewells as the loading operations proceeded under flood lights.

Carry Heavy Clothing.

Many of the regular officers and ten extra lieutenants were supplied with heavy clothing for the rigorous winter climate they expected to experience in China. In contrast to this, it has been below 65 degrees in Manila but few times this winter.

The auxiliary ships Finch and Bittern, normally used as mine layers, sailed Monday night and probably will be used as transport units in China. The destroyer tender Black Hawk, the oil tanker Pecos, and the aircraft tenders Avocet and Heron were ready for a speedy departure if needed.

Col. Lorenzo D. Gasser, whose record includes service in the Philippines and in France in the world war, commands the 31st infantry.

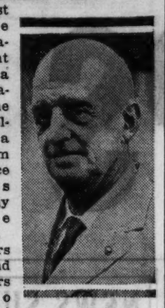
The cruiser Houston, 10,000 ton treaty cruiser, four destroyers, and the yacht Isabel lifted anchor yesterday at 1:30 p. m. Running at forced speed, they were expected to reach Shanghai within 35 to 45 hours, except the Isabel. Three hundred marines, fully equipped, were on the Houston.

An advance flotilla of three destroyers slipped quietly out of the harbor at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Four others already had reached Shanghai.

Leaders Urge Japan's Cabinet to Rush Army to Shanghai

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

TOKIO, Feb. 1.—Protests by the United States, Great Britain and France against the use of the Shanghai international settlement by Japan as a base for operations against the Chinese were followed today by a statement from the foreign office that there was no reason for any change in the Japanese policy.



W. CAMERON FORBES.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

The ministers of war, navy, and foreign affairs recommended to the cabinet that a full army division be dispatched immediately to the Shanghai area.

These troops, it was said, would replace the 5,000 Japanese bluejackets now at Shanghai. Final decision about whether they would be sent rested with the cabinet.

"Will Stand No Nonsense."

A foreign office spokesman, commenting on the American, British, and French protests, said "Japan is determined to show China that she will stand for no nonsense."

The Tokio government, he explained, does not consider its cause unworthy, and therefore has no guilty conscience. He declared the government of China to be corrupt and said Japan was willing to do her share to thwart "the greedy war lords who are responsible for a large share of China's troubles."

This statement came after United States Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes had filed an unwritten, but nevertheless formal, protest against the use of the international settlement as a Japanese base.

Regards Protest Seriously.

The foreign office took this protest as a more serious step than the "diplomatic representations" that hitherto have come from Washington. The American government contended that the Japanese were aggravating the situation at Shanghai by utilizing the settlement.

A similar protest came from Sir Francis Lindley, the British ambassador, and Count de Martel, French representative, conferred with Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa.

Government officials announced that the full strength of the Japanese army in Manchuria would be directed against Harbin despite the fact that soviet Russia has indicated it might protest if Japanese troops entered that city.

Not Meant for Children.

Replying to protests of Secretary of State Stimson as cabled by Ambassador Debuchi, a spokesman for the foreign office said that in the bombardment of the Chapei section of Shanghai bombs were aimed at buildings where Chinese soldiers were known to be billeted and were not meant for women and children.

Some noncombatants may have suffered despite every effort to avoid civilian casualties, he admitted, but this often could not be helped, especially where Chinese soldiery might take refuge under protection of the citizenry.

The Japanese newspaper Hochi Shimbun said army and navy circles had been aroused by Foreign Minister Yoshizawa's request to the American, British and French ambassadors to persuade the Chinese to withdraw from Shanghai.

"If the withdrawal of Chinese troops is necessary," the paper represented this clique as saying in substance, "Japan herself can bring this about by her own naval forces. If our navy is not sufficient we can send enough troops. Yoshizawa's request only invites the three powers' intervention. If the request were fulfilled it would make China worse."

MISSIONARIES REPORTED SAFE TO BOARDS IN U. S.

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—All missionaries in China are safe thus far, according to information in the hands of the foreign mission bureaus of various denominations in New York, but the situation of the Chinese in Shanghai is appalling.

A cablegram received this afternoon by the Methodist Episcopal Church board of foreign missions said that a million persons were homeless.

Weather Likely to Keep Mr. Ground Hog Out Today

Today is ground hog day, and the weather bureau yesterday forecast considerable cloudiness and probably rain for the day. Therefore it seems probable that the ground hog won't see his shadow this morning and will stay out, indicating an early spring. Warmer weather was forecast for today. The thermometer rose to a maximum of 32 above in Chicago last evening, ending the cold snap. There were snow flurries in the morning and last night.

STOP WHITTLING AT LIBERTIES OF PEOPLE: RITCHIE

Demands More Home Rule and Less Taxes.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland today addressed a joint session of the Kentucky legislature. His address was one of a series of invitation speeches made by potential presidential candidates in the coming campaign.

GOV. ALBERT C. RITCHIE. [Harris & Ewing.]

Mr. Ritchie first discussed what he termed discrepancies in our policies.

"We pass a tariff ostensibly in the interest of of American industry and the American farmer," he said. "It nearly ruins our ability to do business with the world at the very time world markets are what we need, and it encourages American manufacturers to migrate abroad and they employ foreign labor when our home labor is out of a job.

U. S. Tries to Help Farmer.

"We try to help the wheat farmer, and buy millions of bushels of wheat in the vain hope of stabilizing the price, and then we are afraid to sell it for fear the bottom will drop out of the market altogether. So we exchange some of it for Brazilian coffee, and thus put government in competition with private business.

"We encourage the cotton planter to grow more cotton, and when he does and then finds no market for it, the best we can do is tell him to plow up and destroy every third row of it.

"We oppose the interference of government with business, and then nearly every business group runs to government for aid and subventions and subsidies of its own.

Confident of Future.

"We talk about the arbitrary powers and the excessive cost of government, and then by giving government more and still more powers we whittle down the liberties of the people and the responsibilities of the states, and raise the cost of government still higher, and tax ourselves almost to death."

Mr. Ritchie looks forward to the future with confidence, saying, "All the things which created the wealth and resources of our past we still have. The foundations on which real prosperity and real contentment must build are still here. He must indeed have little faith in his country or little vision who cannot foresee a future greater and more comprehensive than ever."

But he gives warning that "a disposition to put the brand of backwardness on those of us who believe that we should hold fast to those principles of government which have stood the test of time, or who believe in maintaining the integrity of the constitution and the vitality of the bill of rights, or in abandoning noble experiments that have failed, or in fighting for those rights of personal liberty and self-government which we know have worked and brought us to our high estate."

"Take, for instance, national prohibition," he added; "there was a time when it was regarded as a sort of quasi-treason to question this in public. That time has gone.

Prohibition Moral Issue.

"Prohibition is a moral issue converted into a political issue. My concern is not whether the nation shall be wet or dry, but how can government best deal with the problem in order to reach that goal which ought to be the objective of us all—temperance.

"In this country of diversified peoples and diversified conditions, this cannot be done by imposing a hard and fast prohibitory limitation which will apply everywhere. Our greatest progress towards temperance was made before we mixed morals, politics and legislation together and tried to do by governmental force what can only be done by education and popular sanction and consent.

"Our real progress came when we were leaving the question of prohibition to the states, where it ought to be, and before we put it in the constitution, where, as a matter of sound government, it ought not to be.

Turn Question Back to States.

"I can see no way out except by turning the question back to the states with the federal power limited to its sound constitutional function of seeing that the interstate phases of the subject are controlled so as to give effect in each state to the popular will.

"What the country needs is a formula of home rule which will end the strain which the 18th amendment has put upon our social and economic structure everywhere—north, south, east and west—and which will everywhere point the way out of the wilderness, in the cause not only of law and order, but of true temperance as well."

DEMOCRATS SEEK TO AVOID BATTLE ON GOVERNORSHIP

Courtney for Prosecutor Heads County Slate.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Democratic harmony on the governorship to avoid a battle at the April primaries was regarded as "in the making" by party chiefs last night following the unanimous approval of a county slate at a meeting of the Democratic county committee. State Senator Thomas J. Courtney heads the slate for the place of state's attorney. He is minority leader in the senate, and he had been listed as a strong possibility for the place of attorney general on the state slate when it is picked.

By putting him at the top of the county slate for the prosecutorship, the attorney general place is left open, and overtures are to be made to Michael L. Igoe to accept this position on the state slate. Mr. Igoe, minority leader in the house, national committeeman and south park commissioner, is a candidate for governor.

Five Candidates Considered.

The Democratic slate makers do not expect to complete their task for a fortnight. Five governorship candidates considered are Judge Henry Horner of the Probate court, who is rated as in the lead; Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel; Clayton F. Smith, recorder and managing chairman; Mr. Igoe, all of Chicago, and Bruce A. Campbell of East St. Louis and Belleville.

Mr. Igoe was not at the meeting, being at Springfield for the special session. The general talk was that some of his south side friends are urging that he run for attorney general.

In the county slate strategy yesterday which put Courtney on for state's attorney, John E. Conroy and John E. Traeger were put on for county positions. They are members of the board of assessors, which is wiped out by the Kelly bill recently passed at Springfield to remodel the assessing machinery of Cook county, and the conjecture had been that they might have been an important part of the Igoe movement.

May Slate Hughes.

The plans contemplate the placing of Edward J. Hughes on the slate for secretary of state. He was elected last election to the board of review, which is abolished by the Kelly bill. Walter W. L. Meyer, the other Democratic assessor, is to be taken care of with a position, it was announced, probably an appointive one. Thus the Democratic county officeholders who were legislated out of their jobs through the Kelly bill for a new setup of assessing machinery are taken care of in the slate making.

Petitions were sent out last night and on Saturday, first day for filing, they will be filed for the entire county slate which the Democratic organization is to support in the April primaries. The slate is:

State's attorney—Thomas J. Courtney.
Circuit court clerk—John E. Conroy.
Appellate court clerk—Sheldon W. Govier.
County commissioner [to fill Cermak vacancy]—John E. Traeger.
Sanitary trustees—Ross A. Woodhull, John J. Touhy, J. L. Friedman [all incumbents].
Recorder—Clayton F. Smith [incumbent].
Superior court clerk—Frank V. Zintak [incumbent].
Coroner—Frank J. Walsh [incumbent].
Surveyor—Henry Riedl.

Courtney, whose selection to head the county ticket is regarded as a step towards party harmony on state candidates by the Cermak forces, did not develop for the place until late Sunday night. Judges John P. McGoorty, Michael McKinley, Frank M. Padden, Joseph Burke, and other jurists had been most prominently mentioned. As minority leader in the state senate Courtney has advanced as a "fighting leader" who sticks to the last ditch, and the leaders regard him as a strong campaigner.

Mr. Govier, slated for Appellate court clerk, has been an alderman for fifteen years or more, representing the Pullman ward, and in his campaigns has been a strong vote getter.

Indorsements for Congress.

Indorsements for congress in the Cook county districts were given out as follows:

1. Open.
2. Victor L. Schlaeger.
3. Congressman Edward A. Kelly.
4. Congressman Harry P. Beam.
5. Congressman Adolph Sabath.
6. Congressman J. T. Igoe.
7. Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz.
8. Leo Kocialkowski.
9. Open.
10. Charles V. O'Grady.

Vincent Bendix, manufacturer and inventor, has been brought out as a Democratic candidate in the Tenth district, now represented in congress by Carl R. Chindblom, a dry. This may lead to a readjustment of the congressional slate in the Tenth.

For delegates to the Democratic national convention which meets next June in the Stadium, the following slate was indorsed:

Dist.	Delegates—	Alternates.
1—	Michael Kenna	Louis Levy
	Joseph Tittinger	John Budinger
2—	James M. Whalen	Barnet Hodes
	Edward J. Kelly	F. J. Loughran
3—	Emmett Whealan	Michael J. Flynn
	Peter B. Carey	Daniel P. Bergin
4—	J. B. McDonough	W. J. Lynch
	Henry Sonnenschein	Dr. J. H. Luczak
5—	Moe Rosenberg	Michael Konkolewski
	James B. Bowler	Henry Minsky
6—	Albert J. Horan	Andrew T. Berg
	John Toman	E. J. McCabe
7—	Pat A. Nash	Ning Eley
	Clayton F. Smith	P. J. Cullerton
8—	John J. Touhy	M. Rosinia
	W. J. La Buy	M. F. Kavanagh
9—	Joseph L. Gill	Mrs. Geo. E. Brennan
	Francis X. Busch	John M. O'Connor
10—	J. Frank Lyman	Philip J. Finnegan
	William Schlake	Joseph H. Voss

West side business men yesterday urged Ald. Wiley W. Mills to run for Democratic committeeman of the 37th ward in opposition to Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district, now on trial before Chief Justice Harry Fisher.

The Deneen Republican group took up slate making yesterday and will continue today. State's Attorney John A. Swanson is to be indorsed and the Deneen slate may contain Harry Hoff for county recorder and Isaac N. Powell for Appellate court clerk.

The mutiny led by W. R. James, president of the west parks against the Harding-Crowe-Emmerson-Nelson slate seemed to have died out yesterday, following a conference at the home of George F. Harding. Some of the west siders are expected to support State's Attorney Swanson.

Salvador Executes Three as Red Revolt Leaders

SAN SALVADOR, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Three men described as the leaders of the communist revolt of recent weeks were executed today in Genfal cemetery. They were Augustin Farabundo Marti, Mario Zapa Ta and Alfonso Luna, and were condemned to death Jan. 30 by the military tribunal.

2 Men and Woman Executed at New York Gang Card Party

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Members of the Vincent Coll gang, with their wives and children, gathered for a party in a second floor of a house in Commonwealth avenue, the Bronx, tonight.

The grownups—six couples—were seated at the table or standing beside their chairs when there was a violent ringing of the doorbell. One of the five children playing about opened the door.

Four men rushed in. There was a flare of automatics. Two of Coll's lieutenants were dead, a woman was killed, and two other men and a woman were wounded. The latter probably will die.

Coll Aids Slain.

Those killed were Patsy Del Greco, Fiorie Basile, and Emily Tanzella. Those wounded were Mrs. Lena Vingaro, Louis Basile, and Joseph Bavonia.

It was over in a minute. The invaders dashed down the stairs, leaped into two waiting autos and escaped.

They had not found the victim for whom they probably were looking, as Vincent Coll, 23 year old gang leader recently acquitted of the Harlem baby killing, who lived next door to the massacre house, had not arrived at the dinner.

The police began a hunt for adherents of the "Dutch" Schultz gang. Coll and Schultz had been competitors for the beer running business in the Bronx.

Coll Plans Upset.

Police a few weeks ago broke up plans for a Coll offensive when the gangster, his bride, Lottie, Del Greco, a man called Michael Basile, and a man called Louis Biscano were arrested. This roundup, resulted from a telephone call to a Bronx number in which four detectives heard the message, "Tell the boys to be ready for tonight."

The police have known for some time that Coll's henchmen have been making special efforts to "get" Schultz. Underworld reports to the police were that the Schultz gang retaliated by plotting to kill Coll and that $50,000 blood money had been offered to the gangster who succeeded in putting Coll out of the way forever.

The feud between Coll and Schultz has already cost many lives. Schultz and Coll were once allied in the Bronx beer racket but now they are sworn enemies.

WOMAN LEAPS IN LAKE; BATTLE ICE TO FIND BODY

Coast guard under the command of Act'g Captain Carl E. Howell yesterday afternoon battled thick shore ice in the lake off Diversey parkway in a vain effort to recover the body of a woman which was being carried out into the lake by the current just south of the Lincoln Park Gun club. The woman was seen to leap into the lake from the bridge across the lagoon inlet by two park employés who said she was about 35 years old, was about 135 pounds and wore glasses. She was dresed in a red skirt, brown cloth coat and black stockings. When the coast guard arrived at the scene the body could be seen under the ice, but was carried out into the lake faster than the thick ice near the shore could be broken.

Goes Riding with Stranger, Loses Her Money and Gems

Mrs. Lucille Hennek, 2408 Lunt avenue, reported to the Marquette police last night that she had been robbed of $10, a $1,000 ring, and a $350 bracelet by three men near 14th and Paulina streets. She said that she went riding with a man whom she did not know and that they were joined by the other two, who were armed, near the scene of the robbery. After taking her money and jewelry the trio thrust her out into the snow and rode away, laughing.

Boy's Short Cut Claims His Life as Ice Breaks

Taking a short cut to the Bass school, 6554 South May street, Paul Erickson, 11 years old, 6328 South Ada street, was drowned yesterday when he broke through the ice in Ogden park lagoon. His brother, Raymony, 9 years old, was rescued by Fred Gilmore, 30 years old, 1216 West 63d street, a chauffeur on his way to work. Gilmore vaulted the fence, the gates of the park having been barred to keep the children off the thin ice, and saved Raymond. Paul Erickson, the father of the boys, is a news stand operator at 63d and Loomis streets, a block from where the accident occurred.

UNPAID TAXES HELP EXPLAIN FINANCE MUDDLE

Many Large Bills Are Still Delinquent.

The records show that relatively few of the largest taxpayers of the loop have failed to pay a part of their 1929 real estate taxes, due May 15 last. But there are other owners of substantial properties who have protested their taxes in court and have not paid anything.

This is one of the reasons why the local governments have been unable to borrow money on tax anticipation warrants. Waste and extravagance in the spending of tax revenues is another reason. Another is the fact that some of the local governments have authorized the spending of more money than they could reasonably hope to get from taxes.

Taxes Must Be Paid.

But it is recognized that the essential services of the local governments must continue, and that eventually every real estate owner will have to pay some taxes. It is true that the 1928 and 1929 taxes have been declared illegal by County Judge Jarecki, and that decision has been appealed to the state Supreme court.

Whether the decision is affirmed or reversed, property owners will eventually be called upon to contribute their share of the taxes. The special session of the legislature will pass the Schnackenberg bill which will give property owners credit on subsequent bills for any excess payments made now on the taxes held to be void.

Pays Part of Bill.

The Marshall Field estate is one of the largest real estate holders in the loop. It has paid a substantial part of its taxes and is contesting the part which it believes is unfair and inequitable. But, according to the collector's records, it has not paid any part of the taxes on one piece of property.

The list which follows, taken from the tax records, shows loop properties on which 1929 taxes, due on May 15, 1932, are recorded as unpaid. The properties are referred to by items in tax volumes rather than by technical legal descriptions. The records do not show the street numbers. The list follows:

Salesman Named Foreman of February Grand Jury

John P. Larkin, 7047 Vernon avenue, a salesman, was chosen foreman of the February grand jury which was impaneled yesterday by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court. The judge gave the jurors only the routine instructions. Nothing was said of the judicial investigation, which caused a controversy last week between Attorney Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, and Judge Fisher. Mr. Loesch had made a speech referring to one municipal court judge as a "cash register" judge and to other judges as "mountebanks."

Chicago Lady Lost 12 Pounds of Fat

Suppose you were way overweight—had a double chin, large hips and bust, heavy arms and legs—and you're about ready to despair—when suddenly you discovered an easy way to banish fat—wouldn't you be happy? That's the thrilling experience of Mrs. Bessie Helstrom, 6109 Kenwood Ave., Chicago, Ill., who writes: "Before taking Bonkora I weighed 168 pounds. Without dieting I lost 12 pounds in 5 weeks and can now wear dresses 2 sizes smaller. My youthful energy has been restored." Before breakfast take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. Don't starve—eat all you want. Go light on fatty meats and starchy foods. From free chart with each bottle, merely choose foods you like best in correct combinations. Bonkora, a combination of Nature's choice herbs and salines—is safe and harmless. Takes off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues.

Those who have tried everything and are about ready to despair of ever losing weight, are the ones who especially should try Bonkora. If the first bottle does not prove you'll be healthier—if you don't start to lose weight—return it to Battle Creek and your money will be refunded. One bottle of Bonkora—a month's treatment—only 98c.

Men Walk Out of County Board Debate on Budget

Such matters as the Chinese-Japanese imbroglio and the price of hog feed this summer occupied the attention of the county board yesterday in its preparation of the 1932 budget. The board had intended to hold a night session, but the men commissioners walked out one by one during the day. At 7:30 p. m. there were only the four women commissioners left with Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, and Chairman Maurice Kavanagh wearily rapped his gavel and called an adjournment.

"Don't ask me why I'm leaving," said Commissioner Charles H. Weber, one of the last males to depart. "I will say, however, that I like to get a word in now and then."

"At the rate we're going," remarked Deputy Controller Michael O'Connor, "completion of the budget this week will be an utter impossibility."

Asks Cut in Food Budget.

One of the main questions of debate was the appropriation for food supplies for various county institutions for the coming year. J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, declared the United States government figures showed that food in December, 1931, cost 17 per cent less than in December, 1930, and suggested that all food appropriations be cut 17 per cent.

At Oak Forest, the county poor farm, $279,963 was spent for food in 1931. An appropriation of $300,000 had been asked by the superintendent for 1932.

"I suggest that the appropriation be cut to $230,000 this year," said Mr. Jacobs. This figure was based on the reduction of food prices in general and also took into consideration the fact that 133,594 pounds of pork had been sold by the farm last year, netting $10,687. Other produce had sold for more than $22,000.

Woman Commissioner Objects.

Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, a commissioner, objected.

"Will farm produce bring in $32,000 next year?" she inquired. "Think of the war in China. If the war spreads, food prices will go sky high this year. As for raising hogs, you've got to feed the hogs, remember. Don't forget that. It will cost more to feed the hogs."

Commissioner Kelly was moved by this argument. He suggested that the appropriation be increased to $250,000 and his motion was seconded by Mrs. Fleming. The appropriation was set, tentatively, at $250,000.

In the discussion of another proposed reduction, Mrs. Fleming again opposed a slash. She and Miss Mary McEnerney engaged in a short discussion of present price levels, as follows:

MRS. FLEMING—It's a mistake to think that everything has come down. Lots of things haven't.

MISS McENERNEY—That's right. You watch the sales and see. Nothing you really want to buy has come down.

Urges Saving on Jury Cost.

The county may save at least $150,000 if it can get the coöperation of the judges in decreasing the number of jurors called for service each day, Deputy Controller O'Connor told Sheriff Meyering when the latter appeared before the board.

"More jurors are summoned to the county building each day than can possibly be used by the judges," Mr. O'Connor declared. "Th jurors' room is usually crowded with men summoned for jury service and then not used by the judges. These men hang around and play cards all day and the county is forced to pay them $5 a day. A feel sure that $150,000 can be lopped off the $700,000 spent for jurors' salaries last year if the judges can be persuaded to cut down the number of men called."

The sheriff said he would seek the coöperation of the judges.

Pare Nurses' Appropriation.

The commissioners disregarded the request of the Cook County School of Nursing for $1,189,000 and tentatively set an appropriation of $1,020,000 for the school, it was revealed. Expenditures of Miss Laura R. Logan, dean of nurses, for high priced furniture and linens in her living quarters are now under investigation by a county board committee headed by Commissioner Weber.

During discussion of the nursing school item, it was learned that the board of directors of the school will hold a meeting today as a result of the charges against Miss Logan.

Deputy Controller O'Connor also complained that the $85,000 appropriation for phone service in the county building was too large. He declared there were twice as many telephones in the building as were needed. The phone service cost $96,000 last year and the board tentatively allowed the $85,000 figure to stand.

HOUSE VOTES ON STATE INCOME TAX BILL TODAY

Governor Calls for Poor Relief.

for your consideration and such action as is deemed desirable.

"You have no easy task. The difficulties of government are multiplied in times like these. The solution is largely in your hands and I am hopeful that you will, by application and study, be able to devise means to help in meeting these difficulties and carrying our people through to happier times."

As published and explained during the week-end, the bills were devised by attorneys aiding the joint emergency relief fund of Cook county. They call for the release of state credit to the amount of about $18,750,000 by passage of a $25,000,000 tax lien increase which counties could use for poor relief if they choose.

Paper Increase in Taxes.

The bonds would be secured by a pledging of the county's one-cent gas tax refund for the next ten or fifteen years—depending on the term of the bond issue fixed by the legislature. The point emphasized to the downstaters in the senate by Mr. Barbour was that the tax rate would not be raised by selling the bonds, even in Cook county, by reason of the fact that only counties taking advantage of the right to aid their poor would be involved.

The "paper increase" of taxes provided in the program would amount only to a matter of bookkeeping and no downstate county ever would be called upon to help Cook pay for its poor relief, Senator Barbour explained.

The house sent the program to a second reading almost without comment, but it did not have such smooth sailing in the senate.

Richard R. Meents [Rep., Ashkum], who was Len Small's floor leader, attacked the plan the moment Mr. Barbour presented the bills. He said that Chicago was proceeding to raise $400,000 for the opera; Chicago had had no difficulty in putting up the $300,000 for the national political conventions; Chicago was spending millions on the Century of Progress; therefore, Chicago should stop these projects and devote the money to charity.

Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] made immediate answer to this, defending the "human aspect" on the bills, and had strong support from Senator Barbour.

SCHOOL BOARD VOTES AGAINST KELLY ECONOMY

Plant Operation Savings Held Impracticable.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board decided in a private session yesterday that it is impracticable to reduce the operating costs of the school building $1,000,000 a year, as was urged upon the board by the D. F. Kelly committee.

That is the chief point in the reply of the trustees to Mr. Kelly which they agreed upon yesterday. In a letter to Mr. Keller the trustees do not promise even a $500,000 cut in their plant operation.

The phraseology of the latter, which was originally prepared by Trustee Caldwell and Attorney Frank Righelmer, was changed by the trustees. It will be rewritten today and handed to President Myers to present to Mr. Kelly who asked the trustees for a written statement before conferring with them again.

Defer Adopting Budget.

It had been anticipated that the board would adopt its 1932 budget tomorrow afternoon, but that action will probably be deferred.

Mr. Kelly heads the committee which will attempt to tell tax anticipation warrants so that the teachers and other public employés can obtain part of their overdue salaries. He has warned the school trustees that they must slash the budget if the board hopes to get cash by sale of tax warrants. He suggested savings of $9,950,000, of which $8,000,000 would come out of the building appropriations and $1,000,000 out of the allotment of about $8,000,000 for plant operation.

Joseph Spain, head of the school of engineers union, delivered a reply to the Kelly statement yesterday to President Myers. In that letter he said:

"The contract system was in force in our schools for over 30 years prior to 1927. For about 15 years prior to that date, the Chicago Principals' club carried on a campaign against the contract system. They issued so much propaganda that all of the women's and men's civic organizations, as well as all the teachers' organizations were on record favoring the change made in 1927.

Fought Against Change.

Our organization was the only one to make a fight against this change and went so far as to appeal for an injunction to prevent President Coath from making the change. But it was made at an increased cost of $1,300,000 a year.

"Even Mrs. Hefferan, who is the greatest critic of the expenses of this plan today, voted with President Coath, as did every other member of the board present at the meeting Aug. 3, 1927, as the records will show.

"The very people who are really responsible for this change are the persons who are running to Mr. Kelly and other prominent men today crying about the added cost which they alone foisted upon the taxpayers of Chicago. Their statements are just as false and misleading today as they were in 1927 when they proclaimed that the cost would be lowered.

Increased Cost Known.

"Everyone with an ounce of sense would have known that it would cost more. The Chicago civil service commission, which investigated the schools in 1913, reported that it would cost an aded $400,000 to make the change. It is therefore not unreasonable that the added cost was $1,500,000 more in 1927 when the change was made, because there was then 60 per cent more building space than in 1913 and wages had gone up about 100 per cent."

Regarding the Kelly comparison between Chicago and St. Louis, Mr. Spain wrote: "We do not base our requests for wages on the St. Louis scale because we always aimed to make Chicago a better place to live in. We are all residents, citizens and taxpayers of Chicago, which is more than the Chicago Principals' club can boast of. In fact over 1,500 of the teaching force live outside of Chicago and pay no taxes to keep up our schools or city government, and spend very little money in our Chicago stores."

Sues to Compel School to Admit His Children

Arthur Lavac, a mechanic of Brookfield, yesterday sought court action to force officials of the Gross elementary school at Brookfield to allow his children, Marian, 9 years old, and Arthur, 6 years old, to attend school. Through Attorney Roy E. Lane he filed a petition for an injunction in the Superior court to restrain E. N. Cassady, principal of the school, from refusing to admit the children without a health certificate.

CITIZEN GROUPS JOIN IN SEARCH FOR ASSESSOR

Qualifications for Office Told at Meeting.

The "town meeting" yesterday in the council chambers, at which President Whealan of the county board asked taxpayers, improvement, business men's and civic associations to nominate candidates for the post of county assessor, newly created under the Kelly bill, resulted in the submission of a dozen or more names.

It also brought forth a statement from W. A. Dudley, managing director of the Greater Central District association, that because of the responsibility which will rest on the assessor and the two members of the board of appeals, "it is unthinkable that a gathering such as this could aid in their selection." Mr. Dudley, who represented a number of business associations in the district south of the loop, offered no candidate.

A Job Requiring Skill.

"The chief requirement for an assessment of real estate is a reasonable degree of uniformity," Mr. Dudley said. "The real estate assessment is comparatively simple."

The almost impossible task that will confont these new officials is the rational assessment of personal property under a constitutional rule of uniformity. It will be necessary to handle the taxation of personal property so skillfully and justly that the property will produce a proper proportion of revenue and still remain hers to be taxed.

"The men who have the fitness and capacity to undertake this stupendous task must be drafted for this service. They can hardly be expected to volunteer."

Urges Technical Ability.

George O. Fairweather, chairman of the joint commission on real estate valuation, had no candidate to nominate either. He submitted a memorandum embodying what his organization deems the qualifications for the post.

The assessor is the most important unit, he said, adding that if the assessor does his work well there will be little for the board of appeals to do. The deflated valuations of real estate, and the necessity of assessing personal property on a scale never attempted before in the county make it necessary, he said, to have an assessor of high technical ability if his rolls are to stand court tests of their legality and fairness.

If the confidence of taxpayers is to be won, the new taxing officials must be divorced entirely from the retiring assessment and reviewing boards and from politics generally, Mr. Fairweather added.

Some Suggested Candidates.

Among those suggested for assessor at the meeting were Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, who has already declined the appointment; former Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch; Mark Levy, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board; Charles E. Fox, Samuel Weinschenker, Joseph M. Fouchard, James Hyland, Harry S. Cutmore, John J. Eckhoff, John M. Pratt, Assessor John E. Conrey, John G. Zelezny, former Judge Charles A. McDonald, W. Frank Walkowiak, and Prof. Herbert D. Simpson of Northwestern university.

Fat and Lean Bandits Threaten and Rob Woman

A fat bandit and lean pal halted Miss Laura Clancy, 1301 East 71st street, ticket agent in the Cheltenham station of the Illinois Central railroad, 79th street and Exchange avenue, as she stepped upon the platform to meet a north bound train last night. She was carrying $50 in a money bag which she was going to hand to a conductor for delivery downtown. "Give us that money or we'll throw you in front of that train," threatened the fat bandit. The lean one grabbed the bag and ran, followed by his fat pal.

PROBE MYSTERY OF KIDNAPER'S ESCAPE AT JAIL

Find One Pass Used Twice by Prisoner's Kin.

As a consequence of the escape of an indicted kidnaper from the county jail on Sunday, Chief Justice Fisher of the Criminal court and State's Attorney Swanson yesterday started an investigation of the jail administration. Particularly they sought to learn the manner of and the reasons for the issuance by Sheriff William D. Meyering's office of passes permitting visitors to see prisoners.

CORNELIUS MONTAGUE.

The kidnaper, Cornelius [Neil] Montague, also known as Alfred Russell, walked to freedom under the gaze of guards while his brother, Stanley Montague, with his hair dyed like the prisoner's, went back to the cellhouse to take his place. The brothers, Cornelius Montague's wife, a third man, and a child had been allowed to confer in the jail on the authority of one of the sheriff's office passes.

Fifth Inquiry Since June.

This investigation is the fifth that has been made of the Meyering régime since June, 1931. One of the prisoners who provoked an earlier inquiry was Al Capone. Although the sheriff denied that Capone was better treated than other prisoners, the federal government ordered that his privilege of having callers be restricted.

It was brought out before Judge Fisher yesterday that the pass with which the prisoner Montague's escape was aided had been used twice. Testimony of a witness indicated that it had been taken up on Sunday, Jan. 24, and that it was then returned to Montague's wife and used again last Sunday.

Mystery of Vanishing Pass.

Just how this failure of the jail staff to retain possession of the slip of paper occurred in the first instance was not satisfactorily explained. Vincent Gadacz, a guard, said he took up the pass from the visitors on Jan. 24 and gave it to William Dailey, another guard who acts as assistant jail superintendent on Sundays. Dailey said he believed he put it on a table in the office.

As the custom is to keep these passes on file for a few weeks and then to destroy them, he had not thought about it since, he said. It was further explained that discipline is not quite so strict on Sundays as on other days and that it is not unusual for as many as twenty passes to be presented by visitors on that day.

Guard Morrissey's Story.

The procedure followed by the guards in admitting the party last Sunday was outlined by Guard John Morrissey, who led the prisoner to the cage off the warden's office and was deceived by the substitution of Stanley for Cornelius.

He said that he had admitted Mrs. Montague, her 3 year old daughter, Stanley Montague, and the other man who has been identified as Frank Montague, another brother. When they presented the pass, dated Jan. 21, and made out to Joseph Casey, Morrissey handed it to Second Assistant Warden Edward Nettles, who was to look up a signature on the pass. Assitant Sheriff Frank Wright and verify Wright's signature on the pass.

While Nettles was searching, according to Morrisey, he and the visitors were approached by Assistant Warden George Gibson. Gibson is in charge of the jail every Sunday, which is Warden David Moneypenny's day off. Morrissey said that Gibson told him to let the callers see the prisoner Montague in the consultation room and his order was obeyed.

Investigate Issuance of Pass.

The issuance, as well as the use of the pass, was brought under investigation. The Joseph Casey named in the document was called before Judge Fisher. He is a plumber and a precinct worker in the 6th ward. His home is at 911 East 65th street.

Casey said that Frank Montague, an old friend, had asked him to aid in getting a pass. He in turn enlisted the aid of Daniel O'Connor, a clerk for the sanitary district. This pass was obtained—it was one of five that were issued in behalf of Montague visitors—from some one in the county building whom Casey did not know.

Later Mrs. Montague asked Casey to get a pass for a Sunday visit and he went again to O'Connor. That time, Casey said, Al Whalen, a brother of James Whalen, sanitary district trustee, telephoned and got the requested courtesy from some one in the sheriff's office. This was the pass dated Jan. 21, signed by Assistant Sheriff Wright and used Jan. 24 and again last Sunday.

Casey asserted he believed that this pass had been taken up on Jan. 24. He added that he had declined to help get another one made out for last Sunday, Jan. 31.

O'Connor asserted that it was not unusual for him to help friends in such a way.

Jail records bearing on the other Montague passes were produced. Two, it was shown, had borne the signature of Sheriff Meyering and one that of Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles W. Peters. Sheriff Meyering said he had signed none; that some one authorized to sign for him may have done so.

There the matter rested for the day, with State's Attorney Swanson instructed by Judge Fisher to seek indictments against any one at fault, as well as against Mrs. Montague and the two brothers who aided the prisoner to get away. Meanwhile Stanley remains as a pawn for the fugitive, who was indicted for kidnaping Dr. Max Gecht and his wife for ransom. It had been rumored that Cornelius Montague offered to turn state's evidence against his accomplices in this crime.

Other Inquiries Recalled.

The first of the previous investigations of the Meyering jail régime occurred after a homicidal maniac had been freed from the jail by error. His wife, whom he had threatened to kill, was guarded by the police while he was at large. The Chicago Crime commission recommended civil service at the jail to prevent a recurrence of such releases, but nothing was done about it.

Last September Frank Jordan, slayer of two policemen, cut out a metal panel in his cell and might have overpowered the guards and released 30 prisoners if his plot had not been discovered. He was later electrocuted. The manner in which the saws used by Jordan were smuggled in to him was never learned.

Capone was awaiting—and still is—the result of an appeal from his 11 year prison sentence for income tax fraud when his alleged privileges were brought under scrutiny in October. In the same month Michael Romano and John Kukola, convicted robbers, overpowered a guard and took his keys. Romano hid himself in a sack and leaped on the guard from his hiding place, but he and his accomplice couldn't work an automatic lock with the keys and hence had to stay in jail.

CAVALRY REGIMENT BIDS FAREWELL TO HORSES WITH PARADE

Marfa, Tex., Feb. 1.—[U.P.]—Hard riding veterans of the First cavalry detachment said farewell to their horses today with a formal parade and fanfare of military music.

With "Old Louie," the regiment's oldest horse, in a position of honor, the horses, soon to be replaced by armored cars, were placed in a long picket line.

Led by a brass band, the regiment filed past. As each company came abreast of "Old Louie," each officer snapped to salute and the soldiers marched past with "eyes right."

Shot by Evanston Bandit as He Reaches for Smoke

Bernard Cardott, 27 years old, 809 Greenleaf avenue, Evanston, was shot in the left shoulder last night by a bandit. He reached for a pack of cigarets just as the robber presented a pistol and told him to put up his hands, and the robber evidently thought he was reaching for a gun. The shooting took place near the garage of Marshall Field & Co., in the rear of 603 Chicago avenue, Evanston, where Cardott had just put away the delivery truck which he drives. He was taken to St. Francis hospital.

RUNAWAY BOY FOUND.

Jack Entler, 15 years old, 402 Taylor street, Glen Ellyn, who ran away from home Saturday after being reprimanded for falling behind in his school studies, was back home last night. He was found wandering in River Forest at 4 a. m. yesterday.

LAWYERS ATTACK BUSCH CHARGE IN TAX SUIT APPEAL

Deny Causing a Delay of Supreme Court Hearing.

Attorneys Roy D. Keehn and Morris Schaeffer yesterday denied that they were trying to obstruct the appeal from County Judge Jarecki's decision which voided the 1928 and 1929 tax rolls and invalidated the tax levies aggregating nearly 500 million dollars. In a five page statement they scored Attorney Francis X. Busch, who represents the city in the appeal to the Illinois Supreme court and who asserted on Sunday that they were delaying the court hearing.

Attorney Busch has said that the two representatives of the tax objectors were refusing to expedite the early hearings before the Supreme court by refusing to coöperate with county and city attorneys in the preparation and filing of briefs. He has said that their hope was for a compromise whereby a large percentage of the tax assessments could be lopped from the tax bills of their clients.

The Attorneys' Answer.

The attorneys' reply to these charges read in part:

"There has been no delay on the part of the objector [Mrs. Lillian Cisar of Oak Park, the plaintiff in the suit], or her attorneys. Mr. Burch and his associates have had the record, including many of the original exhibits in this case, since the case was closed, and still have them. They asked for 15 days additional time to prepare their abstract of record and briefs. He now expects us to waive the time permitted by the court and hurriedly answer their briefs, some of which we have not as yet received.

"We will conform to the rules of the Supreme court and proceed as expeditiously as possible."

In another place the statement said: "Mr. Busch did not dare to ask the Supreme court to review the facts of fraud as found by Judge Jarecki and which Mr. Busch and his associates did not even refute or deny. These facts, which are admitted, show that real estate is taxed at least 200 per cent too high."

Reply to Compromise Charge.

In reference to the charges that a compromise was sought the attorneys' statement declared: "The suggestion of a compromise has come from those associated with Mr. Busch. His suggestion that someone is trying to secure a settlement is correct. But he doesn't seem to knew that the ones who are suggesting a settlement on a proper legal basis are the representatives of leading citizens and not the attorneys representing Mrs. Cisar."

The attorneys charged that Attorney Busch has shown bad faith by representing the banks early in the case when subsequently it was disclosed that the bankers were escaping taxation of trust estates in their hands through a "deal" with the boards of assessors and review, and later representing the city.

POSTPONE PLEAS IN MASSIE CASE UNTIL FRIDAY

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 1.—The pleas of Mrs. Granville B. Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and two navy enlisted men, charged with second degree murder, were postponed today until Friday afternoon, upon representation of defense counsel that they had not had time enough to study the indictments.

A large crowd was on hand in Judge A. M. Cristy's court, and many spectators who failed to find seats attempted to stand in the aisles, but were ushered out by bailiffs.

The court held that should intervening pleas be made before Friday they must be in his hands by 4 p. m. Thursday. If argument on such a pleading is necessary it will be heard Friday afternoon.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from piles above learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

4 NATIONS WARN JAPAN THEY WILL PROTECT CHINA

England, France, Italy Join U. S. in Protest.

governments to withdraw the Japanese marines from the international settlement in Shanghai which the Japanese invaded and proceeded to use as a base for operations against the Chinese quarter. In parallel representations to Tokio, Washington and London charged Japan, in effect, with violation of the neutrality of the settlement which the Japanese government had given assurance would be observed.

The Pacific cables today were freighted with more "representations" by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson protesting against the course Japan is pursuing and more "explanations" by the Japanese foreign office. The secretary is said to have spoken his mind rather freely on the subject to Katsuji Debuchi, the Japanese ambassador, when the latter called at the state department this morning with a sheaf of aides memoires designed to mollify the American government.

President Hoover, according to one of his secretaries, had devoted this day exclusively to consideration of the grave situation in the far east. It was again denied at the White House, however, that the President is meditating any fresh moves beyond, possibly, the dispatch of additional naval forces and land troops to China for the protection and evacuation of Americans wherever their safety is threatened.

Peace Coercion Halted.

"With reference to the movement of American ships and troops to Shanghai," said Mr. Stimson, "these movements are solely for the protection of American lives and property and for fulfilling our responsibilities to American citizens at Shanghai and other exposed ports in the Yangtze and elsewhere in China."

The administration is overlooking no opportunity to assure the country that it is minding its own business of protecting Americans and no longer butting into Asiatic affairs with attempts to enforce the Kellogg anti-war pact as it did in the Manchurian affair. This tendency has been noticeable since the cabinet meeting last Friday at which a majority of the members evinced in no uncertain manner their disapproval of any further single handed efforts to discipline Japan which might plunge us into war.

The President and Mr. Stimson are now making no moves except in conjunction with Great Britain. According to the administration, the moves made so far have been proposed by Mr. Stimson and acquiesced in by the MacDonald government.

Think Britain Is Directing.

From official sources none to friendly to the secretary, however, emanates the view that Britain has laid down the policy which the Hoover administration is following. In such quarters the suspicion exists that Britain intends to see to it that if the western powers become involved in war in the far east, the United States shall be in it and do the financing.

Mr. Hoover was supplied with all official reports from the war zone as fast as they fluttered in and were decoded. The bombardment of Nanking was described in the following dispatches from the American destroyer Simpson which is on duty at that point:

11 p. m. (10 a. m. eastern standard time)—"Japanese cruiser firing on Nanking."

11:31 p. m. (10:31 a. m. eastern standard time)—"Japanese vessels continue firing on Nanking. Have shifted berth to get out of line of fire. Firing continuing intermittently. No warning was given."

1:30 a. m. (12:30 p. m. eastern standard time)—"At 11:03 p. m. rifle shots near the Bund in vicinity of N. K. K. dock. Japanese cruiser Tsushima opened fire at short intervals and irregularly until 11:30 p. m. Japanese naval sentries on N. K. K. dock may have fired rifle shots followed by machine gun bursts. Cause of firing unknown. No small arms fire seen to come from shore. Neither Chinese battery on shore nor Chinese men of war returned fire. If consul general desires, Simpson will evacuate American nationals during daylight of 2d. Shifted to safer berth. Still in radio communication with shore."

200 Americans at Nanking.

There are about 200 Americans at Nanking and important American oil and other interests.

The attack on Nanking harmonizes with what is understood here to be the purpose of Japan to occupy the Yangtse valley, if not all of northern China, in pursuance of the object of bringing China to her knees and compelling her to call off the boycott of Japanese goods and agree to Japanese annexation of Manchuria. The immediate objective, however, is said to be the scattering of the army Chiang Kai-shek is gathering at Nanking to relieve Shanghai.

Mr. Stimson announced during the day that the administration has declined the invitation of the league of nations to appoint an American member of the commission to investigate the Shanghai incident, but will cooperate in the inquiry.

"The department," said the secretary, "has instructed the American consul at Geneva to inform the secretary general of the league informally that the American government continues to be heartily sympathetic towards efforts which the league is making to preserve peace in the far east and will continue to extend its cooperation wherever this is possible, but that it is unable to appoint an American official on a committee of the league which will be acting under the provisions of one of the articles of the league covenant.

"However, because of its desire that international peace be preserved, that its interests in the international settlement and the life and property of its citizens may be protected, and to safeguard its treaty rights, the government of the United States has a direct concern in the situation at Shanghai; and the American government is prepared to instruct an American representative at Shanghai to coöperate with such a commission as is contemplated in studying and reporting upon the recent incidents and the facts and causes of them."

Chicago Mother Hears Son Is Safe in Shanghai

Del Goodman of Shanghai, far eastern representative of the Fox Film company, yesterday cabled his mother, Mrs. A. J. Goodman of 5039 North Ashland avenue, that he and his wife were safe and well. They have been residents of Shanghai for several years, living in the international settlement of the Chinese city.

BRITAIN READY TO PUNISH JAPAN WITH A BOYCOTT

Does Not Plan to Send Any More Troops.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Great Britain today was marking time awaiting to see whether or not a neutral zone would be established in Shanghai. A sufficient land and sea force, it is felt, is now on the way to Shanghai to protect, in coöperation with the American troops, British and American interests.

The British government considers that this is all Great Britain is called upon to do at the present moment. It believes that further steps should be taken by the league of nations, whose commission of inquiry is expected to get to work immediately.

British Opinion Hardening.

The British opinion, which in the beginning favored the Japanese, is now hardening against them. This does not mean that it is becoming favorable toward Chinese disorder and anarchy, but it is felt that the Japanese spoiled a good case by brutal and illegal enforcement of their claims and their disregard for the rights of other powers interested in the Shanghai area.

If Japan proves impervious to reason Great Britain is likely to advocate an economic boycott by the league of nations, which, it is believed, will soon bring the Japanese to their senses. There is no serious talk here of war.

"What's the use of talking about a gunboat policy when we haven't got gunboats?" a British diplomat said today. "Both America and Great Britain are too weak in the far east to seriously tackle Japan, and if we were strong what would the result be? It would not settle anything. A far more powerful weapon is an economic boycott.

"In a few days' time, if a boycott were really imposed, Japanese trade would dry up and no Japanese bills would be discounted anywhere in the world, and exports and imports on which she depends so much for an existence would be stopped."

See Franco-Japanese Deal.

There is a considerable feeling growing here against the rôle played by the French and the belief is growing that some sort of an understanding between France and Japan exists. One theory is that France, having gotten everything possible out of the league of nations, would like to see it smashed and would not object to Japan taking the blame for the smashing.

The holders of this theory also believe that France, surprised by the reaction in America, hitherto never foreseen, is as equally interested as Great Britain in the preservation of Chinese independence, and would now coöperate freely with the league or any other organization for this purpose. This is said to be the explanation for the friendly attitude in the last two days of the French authorities at Shanghai.

At the present time it is not intended to send any more British troops and ships to China.

WITH MARINES

U. S. MARINES IN WAR ZONE JOKE AS BULLETS FLY

Morale of Yanks High; On Duty Night and Day.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1.—The American defense lines offered odd contrasts at the supper hour this evening.

In one compound the marines are living under war conditions. They filed past huge cauldrons of savory smelling dishes and huge vats of steaming coffee. Then they stood or sat about eating their evening meal, while participating in jests and horseplay. Some of the men put their aluminum "chow" tins atop the sandbag barriers, using the defense works as a buffet.

Morale Is Good.

In the adjoining compound other marines were busy superintending coolies placing additional hundreds of sandbags on motor trucks waiting nearby to rush them to exposed positions needing additional barricading.

Although Shanghai tonight is a city of frayed nerves and there is a tendency to snappish impatience because of the continuing tension over a long, sleepless period, the morale of the United States marines is excellent. They are cheerful, and their only complaint is:

"I'd like soap and water, because you begin to be mighty uncomfortable."

On Duty Night and Day.

The marines have been on emergency duty night and day since Thursday. Most of them are billeted in former stores, not equipped with bath or proper plumbing. Adjoining the marine left wing the Shanghai volunteer corps holds defense lines, and on the marine right wing 150 Italian marines were placed today. Farther along are the Japanese, who have rushed many men into Japanese owned factories in this area on the pretext that they are refugees. They are believed to be reservises.

The families of United States marines in Shanghai are all living nearer the heart of the international settlement, which is not exposed to the firing across the boundaries.

Navy Officer to Represent Fair in Central America

Lieutenant Commander John M. Creighton, U. S. N., was to leave Chicago this morning by plane for Central America, according to World's Fair officials, to renew President Hoover's invitation to Central American countries to participate in the 1933 exposition. Lieutenant Commander Creighton will visit 11 countries. Capt. Morris S. Daniels Jr., U. S. A., is on a similar mission in South America.

CHRYSLER challenges with these questions . .

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S PATENTED FLOATING POWER?

All of the finer, more beautiful new Chryslers have Floating Power, that great fundamental discovery which takes first place among engineering developments of modern times. Revolutionary in principle—sensational in results. Completely wipes out power tremor from both frame and body. Makes the flood of Chrysler power calm and quiet as a millpond. Creates an entirely different "feel" in performance. Yields a smoothness that is impossible to describe. Previously there had been nothing else like it—nothing nearly like it. Scientific minds regard it as the greatest single advantage a modern motor car could have.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Automatic Clutch?

Completely Automatic. Makes driving supremely simple. Nothing for your left foot to do but be comfortable. You don't have to touch the clutch pedal when starting from a standstill, when changing gears, or even to use reverse. Makes driving easier for everybody.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Silent Gear Selector?

It isn't gear-shifting in a Chrysler any more—it's gear-selecting. When you release the accelerator, you move the lever freely into place in any direction without touching the clutch pedal—with the car starting from a standstill or traveling at any speed, or when reversing. It's easy. It's effortless. A child could do it. There is no resistance, no sense of friction. The gears cannot clash.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Free Wheeling?

Chrysler's Free Wheeling is an entirely separate unit at the rear of the transmission. When you are free-wheeling in a Chrysler, the transmission gears are at a standstill, disconnected from both the engine and the rear wheels. This not only provides real Free Wheeling, but makes possible the new kind of effortless shifting you enjoy with the Silent Gear Selector.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Hydraulic Brakes?

Chrysler Hydraulic Brakes excel because they are simpler. They have fewer parts. They never need lubrication. They are always equalized because they equalize themselves. Quicker stops with greater ease. Safer stops because of absolutely equalized pressure on all four wheels. No "side pull." No swerving. Hydraulic Brakes are used for safety on buses and big trucks. All new taxicabs in New York are required by city ordinance to have Hydraulic Brakes. Try Chrysler Brakes and you will never want to go back to any other kind.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Centrifuse Brake Drums?

New and larger brake drums of combined steel and cast iron. New type of construction. A steel drum with cast-iron lining—the drum and the lining permanently fused together. The combination of steel and iron fused together makes brakes that last longer, remain cooler, retain uniform efficiency.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
All-Steel Body?

With today's congested traffic conditions, steel motor car bodies are as vital to safety as steel railway coaches. Chrysler steel bodies are of all-steel construction, rigidly reinforced and welded into one piece—the kind of construction you should have and should demand. The entire body is sound-insulated. Wide, comfortable seats. Unusual leg-room and head-room. Beautiful upholstery, fixtures and trim. Strength, safety, smartness, luxury—it has them all.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Double-Drop Girder-Truss Frame?

The modernizing of the motor car has imposed new demands upon automobile frames, as well as other units of the car. Chrysler engineers have developed a frame of entirely new design. It incorporates the Double-Drop feature, permitting a noticeably low, smart and fleet car appearance. By means of the new Girder-Truss construction, two extra steel members parallel the side channels at either side of the engine, giving twofold support and strength. Continuing, these members cross over diagonally and meet the opposite side channels at the rear. The result is multiplied strength and a stable, distortion-proof foundation for the body.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Oilite Squeak-Proof Springs?

Regardless of mud, snow, ice or dirt, these springs will not squeak. An entirely new patented spring construction. The steel leaves of the springs are separated by Oilite—a patented metal that contains its own lubrication. Absence of interleaf friction gives a softer, more restful ride. These great springs are standard on all three new Chrysler Eights.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Speed and Pick-up?

Chrysler cars are more powerful than ever—faster than ever. If you like real speed—Chrysler has it. You may never care to drive 75—85—90 miles an hour, but the great power that makes these speeds possible makes Chrysler performance, at any speed you choose to drive, the most enjoyable performance under the sun.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH CHRYSLER'S
Effortless Steering?

The new Chryslers steer with a touch. Women especially enjoy Chrysler steering. It not only makes driving easier, but it is so much easier to get in and out of parking spaces. And Chrysler steering is protected from road-shock.

WHAT IS THERE TO MATCH
All These Other Features?

Besides all its new outstanding superiorities, Chrysler retains the following important basic features—pioneered or popularized by Chrysler and features of Chrysler cars for years: In the Eights, a 4-speed transmission with internal Dual High Gears; in the Six, a Silent-Second Easy-Shift Transmission; all have the high-compression engine; full force-feed lubrication; ventilated crankcase; aluminum alloy Invar Strut pistons; counterweighted crankshaft; modern fuel system with fuel pump; oil filter; air cleaner and intake silencer; noiseless spring shackles; cowl ventilators; small base wheels and large tires; adjustable front seat; interior sun visors; indirectly lighted instrument panels; treadle-type accelerator—and many other features.

FOUR COMPLETE LINES—GREAT RANGE OF PRICES . . . 17 BODY MODELS

A new Chrysler Six with an 82-horsepower engine and five body models, $885 to $935 (Automatic Clutch on all Sixes, $8 extra); a new Chrysler Eight with a 100-horsepower engine and four body models, $1435 to $1535; a new Chrysler Imperial Eight with a 125-horsepower engine and two body models, $1925 to $1945; a new Chrysler Imperial Custom Eight with a 125-horsepower engine and six body models, $2895 to $3595. All prices f. o. b. factory. Duplate Safety Plate Glass obtainable on all models at slight extra cost. We repeat—what is there to match these new Chryslers?

PARLEY ON ARMS TO OPEN TODAY; EYE WAR IN EAST

1,000 Delegates Present; Japan Has 145.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 1.—The world conference for the limitation and reduction of armaments, the first universal attempt of the kind, opens here tomorrow under the ascendency of the question mark.

There are one thousand or so delegates and experts from 60 countries here from 55 that accepted and the 64 that were invited. Four hundred and twenty newspaper men, almost one to every regular delegate, are here to observe and achieve the reductions which the Versailles treaty and Locarno covenant both imply and largely hinge upon.

Arthur Henderson, former British foreign secretary, is chairman of the conference. He will lead off with a speech of about forty minutes. His topic will be the advisability of disarmament and he will discuss the preliminary steps thus far taken.

Will Dig In for a Siege.

Then there will be an adjournment to allow the delegates five or six days to dig in for a long siege and prepare for the general attack arranged for the next week. It is only then that some statesmen such as Chancellor Bruening of Germany, who are occupied with problems that definitely bear upon this conference without being conducive to disarmament, are due to arrive.

Fleets of grand automobiles cruised along the lake front at Geneva tonight carrying tiny flags, many of which have never been seen before at this crossroads. They bore guests to and from the opening dinner parties.

These diplomatic boards, with the "war in the orient," Adolf Hitler, the soviets, and the French elections, offer the brightest possibilities for conversation. The question mark rules. An undiplomatic alertness prevails in the queries about the many situations.

In the Palace of the Nations and its annex, which was built for the conference, all is gleaming as the secretaries scan the flare of the eastern horizon. Telegrams are flooding in, but the information to permit the league of nations council to put on its rival show dealing with China's complaint under Artile XV. is hardly expected before Wednesday.

Japanese Largest Delegation.

The biggest delegation at the conference is the Japanese, with 145 members, including nine press officers, one of whom is the consul general at New York.

The United States, whose first time at Geneva was haunted by the shades of William Shearer, who then represented the big shipbuilders, has a press officer, too. He will relieve the delegates both of the chore and temptation of issuing declarations out of hours.

The league council seemed very pleased tonight at America's decision to "coöperate while not participating" in the work of the commission of inquiry at Shanghai. They had expected less from the intimations of Prentiss B. Gilbert, American consul here, when the request for coöperation was made to him on Saturday, but the league assumes gladly that the turn events have taken is responsible for the Washington gesture, which is believed here to be tantamount to participation in the first inquiry under Article XV. of the covenant.

Commission Sails Wednesday.

The council's commission to Manchuria will sail on Wednesday for New York, thence west to Yokohama, reaching there about March 4. The earl of Lytton, president of the commission, appointed after the resolution of Dec. 10 under Article XI., said they were ready to make the disagreeable trans-Siberian trek, but that the secretariat had learned that traffic has been interrupted on the Chinese Eastern railway south of Harbin.

Up until now the league has received more recrimination than information. The Japanese today told the secretariat that the Chinese violated the armistice on Jan. 30 in a "new provocation." Naotake Sato of Japan reiterated Japan's claims that the initial landing in Shanghai was in agreement with the other powers.

Lo Wen-kan, Chinese foreign minister, in a note from Nanking, advised the league that China "has not declared war on Japan, but is only exercising the right of self-preservation. While Japan is relentless in pursuing her policy of violence and aggression, China faithfully adheres to the obligations she has assumed under the league covenant, the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty. In the face of a persistent and merciless attack the Chinese government has been compelled to adopt necessary measures of self-defense."

He added that China will take no hostile action as long as Japan refrains from acts of violence and aggression. The Japanese charged that the Chinese are continuing to mass troops and are sending forty planes from Chengchow to Nanking.

FRANCE ORDERS A BATTALION OF MARINES TO CHINA

PARIS, Feb. 1.—[U.P.]—The government today ordered a battalion of French marines from Tonkin, Indo-China, to Shanghai to reinforce the troops in the French concession. The troops were given orders to assist the British and American troops in defense of the international settlement, if necessary. The French concession adjoins the settlement.

The cruiser Waldeck Rousseau and all gunboats, dispatch boats, and sloops which can be spared from Indo-China were ordered to sail for Shanghai.

Diplomatically France has exerted every effort to prevent aggravation of the Shanghai situation, it was said in official circles. It was officially denied that France is supporting Japan's move in Shanghai.

JAPANESE DRIVE ON TO HARBIN; ISSUE WARNING

MUKDEN, Feb. 2 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Gen. Shigeru Honjo, commander of the Japanese forces in Manchuria, today informed Gen. Ting Chao, leader of the Chinese military faction at Harbin, that he had better withdraw. Japanese troops, Gen. Honjo said, are determined to safeguard foreign lives and property at Harbin.

The Japanese are pounding away on the right wing of Gen. Ting Chao's forces south of Harbin, the Rengo [Japanese] News agency reported.

The battle has been going on since yesterday. Artillery fire could be heard at Harbin and it is expected that the Japanese, who apparently had the Chinese in retreat, will enter Harbin tomorrow.

AMERICAN YOUTH HELD BY JAPAN A FORMER MARINE

Pass Christian, Miss., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Kay Johnson, the American youth reported held by Japanese authorities at Shanghai on a charge of sniping, is a resident of Pass Christian.

The young American, Noah A. Johnson, 22, adopted "Kay" Johnson as his prize fighting name. He is the son of A. N. Johnson, who received a letter from the youth a few days ago. The letter was mailed at Shanghai.

Hale Declares Japan Builds Up Treaty Navy While U. S. Lags

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The country among all the world powers that has made the greatest strides in naval armament is Japan, Senator Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], chairman of the senate naval affairs, told the senate today as he pleaded for the pasage of his bill authorizing the building up of the American navy to treaty strength.

"Japan has taken a legitimate advantage under the terms of the treaties of the laxity of her neighbors," he declared, "and the next difficulty that we shall have to face will, without doubt, be a demand on her part for parity with Great Britain and the United States."

Give Force to Demands.

The fact that Japan will have nearly all of her quota of ships actually built or building at the expiration of the London treaty, the senator explained, will give considerable force to her demands. "And if we continue our policy of nonbuilding we shall be in a very poor position to dispute those demands," he said.

"A navy equal to our own in the Pacific," Senator Hale went on, "opens up many interesting problems for the future, and is not at all in conformance with our declared needs at the time of the Washington and London conferences, and no one can truthfully say the conditions in the east with the dove of peace in temporary hibernation on the China coast warrant any lessenings of those needs."

Since the going into effect of the Washington treaty, in 1922, Great Britian, Japan, France, and Italy have all materially strengthened naval armament so far as relates to the United States, said Senator Hale.

Other Powers Know Their Needs.

"This country alone," he said, "has sought by its pacifistic example of not building up its navy to induce the other world powers to keep down their armaments, and a very sorry result our example has brought about."

"Nothing in present world conditions," he continued, "indicates that war is no longer a possibility to be guarded against, and that therefore our national needs for protection are not as imperative as they were at the time of the Washington conference.

"The other great powers recognize their own needs and prepare to meet them. We alone neglect to do so, and in the case of the navy, depend upon the written word, while they depend upon ships. At present the written word is selling considerably below par."

Proportion of Over Age Ships.

Senator Hale presented tables showing that the proportion of over age ships to modern ships in the American navy at the present time is far greater than in the navies of Great Britain, Japan, France, or Italy.

"And especially is this true of the Japanese navy," he remarked. "Japan has 207 ships on her navy list, of which only 23 are over age.

"If we build no further ships before Dec. 31, 1936, than those already authorized, and Great Britain and Japan carry out the programs which they have appropriated for, our relative position in regard to Japan will become so much worse that she will be on a parity with us in under age tonnage, but in modern ships she will have more than twice the number that we shall have."

Battleship Superiority.

Again, turning to official tables, he showed that "as far as Japan is concerned in present available ships, we have a superiority of only two battleships.

"In 8 inch gun cruisers we are equal in numbers and substantially equal in tonnage. Of cruisers with 6 inch guns and under, Japan is superior to us both in numbers and tonnage. In destroyers we have a superiority in numbers and tonnage, but Japan's preponderance in modern vessels is marked."

In available ships, therefore, he concluded, "as far as Japan is concerned, while we have a considerable superiority in tonnage due to the large number of over-age vessels, in actual combat strength we have little superiority and are nearly on an even footing."

Oily hair?...brush up, up! dry hair?...brush down, down!

★Julia Foster whose news flashes tell you what's what in beauty culture.

Julia Foster finds two different kinds of technique for these two types of hair . . .
And from another specialist she learns a trick for making short fingers look long

OILY HAIR—THEN BE SURE TO BRUSH IT UP.....
Away from the scalp. Take only one inch at a time, brush it thoroughly, then go to the next inch. That assures tingling exercise for your scalp and helps to brush the oil out of your hair. Take a piece of cheese-cloth somewhat larger than your brush. Pull it down through the bristles. When you've finished brushing the hair, pull the cheese-cloth out and throw it away. Keeps your brush perfectly clean.

DRY HAIR—BRUSH IT DOWN.....
If your hair is dry...as this hair is...you should always brush it down, to preserve at least what natural oil there is. Brush the hair close to the head in long, regular strokes...every night. (That cheese-cloth stunt we mentioned across the page goes for any kind of hair, of course. It's the only way we've found to keep brushes clean at the base of the bristles.) I think you'll find it pays to keep a supply of cheese-cloth in your dressing table. Inexpensive. Keeps both hair and brush free of dust and dirt.

HAVE YOU SHORT, STUBBY FINGERS?.....
Here's one way to accentuate their length. When you're applying glazed finger nail polish, cover the whole nail with the glaze. Don't wipe any off the tip. But use colorless or very faint pink for this purpose. Dark shades are definitely passé. Paris encourages Dresden finger nail colors now.

DON'T BE HARD ON YOUR FACE.....
If you prefer a washcloth for washing the face, be sure you use a very soft cloth. The fuzzy, thick, hard-rubbing cloths some women use are much too hard on delicate skin tissue. Work the lather into face and throat, then rinse it off with warm water. Palmolive Soap is recommended, because it has a protective emollient action on the skin, even after rinsing. This guards the skin from smoke, dust, make-up and the hundred and one bugaboos we poor girls have to fight if we're going to keep our looks.

Beauty in a test-tube

OLIVE oil for the complexion! Always known to keep skin soft, supple, youthful. In thousands of years nothing has ever been found to surpass this beauty secret of the ancients.

But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount—in this test tube at the right. The exact amount used in every cake of Palmolive. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced the great benefits of Palmolive Soap to the complexion.

Do you know what is in any other soap you may be using on your face? Palmolive tells you. Palmolive is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively—the only one using olive oil as a base. Other Palmolive ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather than possible with olive oil alone. Palmolive's green color comes from the natural oils of which it is made. There's not a drop of artificial coloring added.

Knowing the value of a liberal amount of olive oil in soap, more than 20,000 of the world's leading beauty experts have for years urged women to use Palmolive Soap as the finest possible safeguard for lovely skin.

CRISIS RECALLS HOOVER'S PART IN BOXER REVOLT

Forced to Defend Self in Tientsin Trap.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Just 32 years ago this summer the United States was forced to send infantrymen to China to protect its nationals in an emergency even more grave than the present one at Shanghai.

It was the Chinese "Boxers" whose uprisings spread death and terror then, beseiging Americans in Tientsin and Peking [new Peiping] until after a bitter struggle the American army won through to free them. No one knows better what it means to be in the midst of an oriental conflict than President Hoover, for he and Mrs. Hoover were among those besieged.

Helped in Defense.

Just a young and ambitious engineer, freshly out of college and but recently married, the future President worked desperately with other civilians in Tientsin to defend themselves and their families against the sinister Boxers, whose hatred burned intensely for all foreigners.

The Boxers were a Chinese secret society, so dubbed by Americans because their slogan was "righteous and united fists." It signified union against the outsider to the Chinese, but a fist meant a blow to the American mind.

Deeds of great heroism which were to lay the foundation for brilliant army and marine corps careers were performed by the expedition which, together with the forces of the other great powers, finally broke the siege. Japan was an ally in that action.

Summerall an Outstanding Hero.

Outstanding in the capture of Peking was the deed of Lieut. C. P. Summerall, who later rose to be a chief of staff and fourstar, full general. Finding the gates so strong as to resist the artillery fire, Summerall calmly signalled his gunners to cease, walked to the doors with bullets flying all around him, marked with chalk a target on the heavy cross bars which made the doors impregnable, and retraced his steps. The guns roared, the gates flew open and the infantry poured through.

Another who won fame was Smedley D. Butler of the marines, who has just now ended a career stormy and brilliant, retiring with the rank of major general. He was decorated for his part in the Boxer fuss.

Resulted in Permanent Guard.

As a result of the uprising, the United States has had a small army detachment at Tientsin ever since to guard the legation and defend the railroad to the sea. This is a crack outfit, pride of the army and nicknamed the "gold plate troop." So inexpensive is Chinese labor that the soldiers all have native servants to do the shoeshining and brass polishing.

But this small detachment, numbering 800 men, may see some stern duty now, for orders may despatch it to the troubled zone where American lives once again must be protected.

Fifth of Billion Invested in China by U. S. Concerns

The following article on American and other foreign investments in China was written for the Associated Press by O. F. Remer, professor of economics at the University of Michigan. Prof. Remer is in general charge of a study of foreign investments in China which has just been made in cooperation with committees representing Great Britain and Japan.

BY C. F. REMER.

[Professor of Economics, University of Michigan.]

[Copyright by the Associated Press, 1932.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 1.—(AP)—American investments in China amount to 200 million dollars at the present time. There is in addition about $50,000,000 worth of American mission and philanthropic property in China which I do not regard as an investment at all. It is rather, in the long run, a gift to the Chinese people.

Of the 200 millions of real investment, $45,000,000 consists of investment in Chinese government securities and the obligations of the Chinese government.

The bulk of the investment, United States' 155 million dollars is direct business investment, that is, it is the property of American corporations, firms, and business men in China. No less than 65 per cent of the business investment of the Americans is in Shanghai.

100 Million in Shanghai.

In other words, Americans hold in Shanghai land, buildings, stocks of goods, and advances by American banks to Chinese to the amount of about 100 million dollars. Of this business investment 32 per cent is in the export and import business [including the sale of petroleum and its products], 23 per cent in public utilities, 17 per cent in banking and finance, and 14 per cent in manufacturing.

Twenty-eight American firms own factories in Shanghai worth about $11,000,000. Americans own public utilities in Shanghai worth about $35,000,000. This includes the electric light and power plant of the foreign settlement and the telephone system. American holdings in China are about four times what they were at the beginning of the world war, but at the same time the total American investment in China is only about 2 per cent of the investments of the United States in foreign countries.

Britain and Japan Lead.

The nations of first importance are Great Britain and Japan. The estimate of the total investment of Great Britain is United States 1 billion, 266 millions and of Japan, United States 1 billion, 153 millions. In each case the total is about five times that of the United States. In the British case, about 5 per cent of her total foreign investment is in China, and China accounts for about 50 per cent of Japan's foreign investment.

The total foreign investment in China is estimated at 3 billion, 500 million dollars. One-third of this is in Shanghai, one-third in Manchuria and one-third in the rest of China, including Hongkong.

Third Centered in Shanghai.

Shanghai does 40 per cent of China's foreign trade. One-third of the foreign investment in China is centered there. It holds the silver stock upon which financial operations depend. It is, in short, the trade, financial and banking center of China. It is also the center of the British and American interests. Japanese interests there are great but are over shadowed by the large holdings of the Japanese in Manchuria where they have property to the value of about 700 million dollars.

In Manchuria, Japanese interests predominate. Shanghai, however, is the trading and financial center of the whole country where practically every foreign nation has interests.

BRITISH PRESS CALLS JAPANESE 'MEN OF TERROR'

Air Raid on Shanghai Bitterly Attacked.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—After waiting four days in the hope that first reports were exaggerated, British newspaper editors today expressed the full measure of their horror at the Japanese bombardment of the native section of Chapei in Shanghai.

"Stark terrorism," is how the Daily Telegraph describes the bombing and its indignation is shared by most of the responsible newspapers in London.

"There is no friend of Japan who does not feel himself affected by this blow to the reputation of the civilized state," says the Telegraph. "This action has administered a staggering shock to the league of nations and all it stands for, and bids fair to effect what seemed impossible in uniting the distracted factions of China in denial of all consideration of Japan's just claims."

Whatever provocation Japan may have had in Shanghai, according to the Telegraph, it was no provocation for bombing and burning a defenseless city "by the power that is the pillar of the league on the eve of the disarmament conference."

The London Times says it is of minor importance whether Japanese marines who entered Chapei were fired upon first.

"The fact remains," the paper continues, "that the Japanese admiral sanctioned the occupation of a rabbit warren of lanes and alleys with an insufficient force of sailors and marines, that their advance was held up, and that the Japanese air force, without giving notice of its intentions, proceeded to bomb points in this crowded district for several hours from a height that prevented any accuracy of fire and must and have caused a heavy loss of noncombatant lives and great destruction of property.

Sympathy with Victims.

"From a military viewpoint, this aerial attack seems to have been ineffectual. Politically, it has had the inevitable effect of arousing a large measure of neutral sympathy with its victims, of exciting passionate hostility among the Chinese which may vent itself on foreigners in general, and of provoking a mass of unthinking Chinese nationalists to accuse authorities of the settlement of violation of its neutrality.

"Japanese statesmen will inevitably be held responsible by the population of the world if they cannot curb the ardor of their soldiers and sailors before it causes even worse complications."

In the view of the London Times, extreme efforts should be made for the protection of foreign interests. Later, it suggests, there is no reason why the foreign powers most interested in far eastern peace should not add their efforts to the league's in settling the Sino-Japanese difficulties.

Only the Rothermere and Beaverbrook newspapers continue a noisy campaign against all intervention in China and urge leaving the protection of British rights to the Japanese. A Daily Mail editorial, liberally sprinkled with black type, asserts "there is no reason whatever why we should spend millions in defending the right of Chinese mobs to kill Japanese subjects and plunder Japanese property."

EVIDENCE LINKS FACTOR'S AID TO LONDON FRAUDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The first evidence tending to link Arthur J. Klein of New York with the operations of the Broad Street Press, Ltd., in reported $8,000,000 financial frauds was introduced at his trial today. It was said that Klein wrote himself $1,250,000 worth of checks on the account of Harry Wise, alias John [Jake the Barker] Factor, now being held awaiting a decision on his extradition in Chicago.

Klein is accused of taking money in the knowledge that it had been illegally obtained. A bank accountant testified that more than $6,000,000 had passed through the Wise account, from which $3,545,000 came from the Boad Street company. Klein had the power of attorney to sign checks on this account.

Two victims testified today that they had mortgaged their homes and sold their government bonds in order to purchase mining and other shares of the company's stock that are now valueless. A retired preacher was induced to part with $46,000.

MAYOR OF BERLIN ACTS TO RE-ELECT VON HINDENBURG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—"The German people want President von Hindenburg. Millions are convinced that he is the only man to be considered for the presidency of Germany."

These were the words of a proclamation made today by Berlin's mayor, Heinrich Sahm, one of the most prominent citizens of Germany, asking his countrymen to sign an appeal to President von Hindenburg to stand for reëlection.

A number of German leaders, unwilling to follow Mayor Sahm, are banding together in a Conservative group to use the elections to oust the Liberal Chancellor Bruening. Others of Von Hindenburg's old friends, although for his reëlection, have refused to sign Mayor Sahm's list. They talk of making their own appeal.

MOUNTIES ASK FOR PLANES TO HUNT MADMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 1.—A patrol of Royal Canadian mounted police today enlisted the services of government airplanes to help run down Albert Johnson, mad trapper, wanted for wounding one of their members and killing another. The patrol flashed their request from the Upper Rat river country to Ottawa with a portable radio set.

Constable A. W. King was killed one month ago, when a force of mounties besieged him in his cabin for three weeks. Johnston kept them away with two rifles. The police ran out of ammunition and supplies and hiked back to civilization for more. When they returned he had vanished.

Eight mounties trailed him. The trapper fired on his pursuers and killed Constable E. Millen.

ECUADOR ARMY OFFICERS REVOLT; FIGHT IN STREETS

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Guns barked up in Tulcan near the Colombian border today and a clique of rebel officers at the army garrison proclaimed a revolution. They harangued a crowd of civilians, won them over, and led them into the barracks, where they took the loyal officers captive and locked them up.

There was some fighting in the streets but it was brief, and as soon as word reached Quito a detachment of troops was sent over. The government here called the whole thing unimportant.

Nevertheless, they sent an airplane up and the pilot reported when he returned that Tulcan looked quiet, with no one in the streets but a few women and children, who waved at him. The rebels, he said, apparently had retreated to the hills. The government thought the man behind this revolt was Modesto Larrea Jijon.

HIGH WINDS LASH LOS ANGELES; BAR SAILORS OFF SHIP

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Fishing boats and larger sailing pleasure craft dragged their moorings during high winds and rain squalls which raged over the Los Angeles area today. Sailors trying to get to their ships of the United States fleet sailing to Hawaii for war maneuvers were held on land, and the battleship Nevada, last to sail west, had 60 stragglers aboard.

Hail and sleet in Hollywood, beat shrubs and flowers to the ground. A cloudburst fell at Claremont, 22 miles east of Los Angeles, and sand bags were used to protect the business district of the town from flood.

Sidewalks, store entrances and in some cases the lower floors in homes were under water in several sections of Los Angeles, particularly at Culver City and Long Beach, where run off water from more elevated portions of the city gathered and overspread creeks and drainage channels in the residential blocks.

NEW PONTIAC SIXES and V-EIGHTS

DEMANDS 5 YEAR SENTENCES FOR CROWE AND AIDS

State Asks for Maximum Terms in Canal Case.

Five year penitentiary sentences were asked last evening for Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district board of trustees during the whoopee period of 1927-1928, and the six other defendants in the graft conspiracy trial before Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court.

JOHN E. NORTHUP.

The demand was made by First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup in summing up the evidence to the court. The sentences asked are the maximum terms for conspiracy.

Other Defendants in Case.

The other defendants are Frank J. Link, who was the lone Deneen Republican representative on the sanitary district board; August Miller, the representative of the former city hall régime: John J. Touhy and James Whalen, Democratic members who are still on the board; John T. Miller, former superintendent of the permanent plants and structures department; and Martin Edelstein, the former real estate agent for the board.

The prosecutor in the closing paragraphs of his plea asked Judge Fisher, who is trying the case without a jury, to clean up the reputation of Chicago as was done by New York in the prosecution of the Tweed ring.

Attorney Albert Fink for the defense will answer the state arguments when the trial is resumed tomorrow. He asked for the lapse of a day so that he could prepare his arguments so that they could be concluded in one court day. His request was granted. Prosecutor Northup said his final argument would not take more than thirty minutes.

Orders Defendants to Attend.

"Have all the defendants in court on Wednesday," Judge Fisher instructed the defense attorneys when it was indicated that the trial would be concluded tomorrow. In a conspiracy case defendants do not have to be in court except when a verdict is returned. The judge would not say whether or not he intended to give a verdict at once.

Crowe has been absent since his outburst during Prosecutor Northup's argument last week. Trustee Touhy has also been absent for more than a week—since the time when he was nearly struck by a bullet when the revolver of a state investigator accidentally fell to the floor and was discharged.

Reviews Bank Account Evidence.

Prosecutor Northup started his arguments yesterday by reviewing the evidence concerning the $1,000,000 in the bank accounts of four of the defendants, all except Touhy, Whalen, and August Miller. The latter three had no accounts, according to the evidence.

"The defense is as silent as a tomb," said the prosecutor. "If the money was from legitimate business, witnesses would have been on this stand to say so. Take the case of Crowe and his missing bank account records. You are forced to a conclusion that it shows a consciousness of guilt. Nothing in this world could be more damning than that. This conspiracy was for the sordid purpose of collecting money which belonged to the taxpayers of Cook county.

"It is a strange business indeed that stows away sums of $61,000 in cash at one crack. How could it be done, I ask, on a salary of $7,500 a year. On the face of these bank records it shows that the money was of a dishonest origin.

"If any one of these defendants had the sturdiness of character which he should have had this riot of graft would have ceased. The only defense these men could have offered to this mountain of testimony would have been insanity.

"The prosecution is asking for a penalty of five years in the penitentiary and the utmost fine of $2,000. The penalty is not adequate for a case where $2,500,000 has been taken from the public treasury. The law should have teeth and it should use them."

CHANUTE FIELD AIR SCHOOL TO BE TRANSFERRED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, today advised Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the Illinois delegation in congress that the war department proposed to go ahead with its plans of transferring the air corps technical school from Chanute field, Illinois, to Wright field, Dayton, O. The technical school is operated to train officers and men in the technical and mechanical duties involved in the repair, maintenance, and care of aircraft material.

"Instructors and students of this school, if located at Wright field, would have the advantage of daily contact with the air corps engineering, supply, and repair center at Wright field," Gen. MacArthur wrote in reply to a protest from the Illinois group. "Through this close contact the training personnel of the technical school could more readily keep abreast of the latest types of aircraft equipment."

FORCED TO FIRE DOROTHY KNAPP, CARROLL ADMITS

Testifies in $500,000 Suit of Showgirl.

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Earl Carroll, the theatrical producer, testified today at the trial in the Supreme court of the suit of Dorothy Knapp, a former show girl, against Mrs. Frederick Courtland Penfield, backer of the unsuccessful musical comedy "Fioretta." The action is for $500,000 damages.

Threat of $250,000 Suit.

Miss Knapp accuses Mrs. Penfield of forcing Carroll to discharge her from the show, in which she took a leading rôle. Carroll was questioned by her counsel, Samuel Hoffman. Carroll said he thought that Miss Knapp was doing very well, but was forced to discharge her by Mrs. Penfield, who threatened to sue him for $250,000 unless he did so. Mrs. Penfield's threat, he said, was based on the failure of the show.

Miss Knapp herself took the stand and an effort was made to bring out the alleged ill affects her discharge had upon her.

Mr. Hoffman previously had called a physician to the stand, but the court ordered the witness held in abeyance until it could be determined whether the plaintiff had a proper right to call him.

Declares His Loneliness.

Miss Knapp testified that she signed the contract with Carroll in December, 1928, and was discharged in April, 1929. She attributed her discharge to her refusal to visit Carroll in Paris on his informing Mrs. Penfield that he was "lonesome without Dot."

She said she was informed by Mr. Penfield's secretary that Carroll had sent a cable to Mrs. Penfield declaring his loneliness and that Mrs. Penfield tried to persuade her to go to Paris, but she refused. Whereupon, she declared, she was discharged.

TWO HELD ON RUM CHARGE.

George White Jr. and Paul Fenner, who were seized during a raid on a still at 4152 South Wabash avenue last week, were held to the grand jury by United States Commissioner Walker in bonds of $1,500 each yesterday.

OUSTED PASTOR REOPENS FIGHT TO REGAIN RANK

Church Council Here Will Hear His Plea.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Dr. Frank Dyer, who in 1928 was deposed as pastor of the fashionable Wilshire Boulevard Congregational church, Los Angeles, will reopen his fight for his lost ministerial standing in Chicago tomorrow. More than 70 Congregational leaders, representing churches of that denomination from coast to coast, will meet tomorrow at the Ravenswood church, 1718 Montrose avenue, and organize a church tribunal to consider Dr. Dyer's appeal.

Dr. Dyer lost his pastoral standing in Los Angeles after attaining extraordinary success as the founder and builder of one of that city's foremost churches. One of the charges against Dr. Dyer was that he made an arrangement with Jack Dempsey to stage a benefit bout for the Wilshire church. He was also accused of padding the church membership rolls.

Pastor Silent on Meeting.

The calling of the meeting in the Ravenswood church was confirmed yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Locke, superintendent of the Illinois conference of the Congregational church. He declined, however, to comment on the meeting. It was learned that such a council under Congregational polity is largely a law unto itself. The council was called by the Ravenswood congregation and Dr. Dyer. Many of Dr. Dyer's friends assert the purpose of the council is "to attempt to right a great wrong." Just what action in this direction is to be taken will be determined in secret sessions tomorrow and probably Thursday.

Dr. Dyer founded the Wilshire church in Los Angeles in 1922. Shortly afterwards, when the church was growing rapidly under his leadership, he was given a ten year contract as pastor at an annual salary of $7,500. Due to alleged "radical and violent preaching," factional disturbances then began to rend the congregation, and after the Los Angeles Congregational association deprived him of ministerial recognition he brought suit for $155,000 against six hostile church trustees and others. He lost his fight in the courts.

Denied Episcopal Pastorate.

About two years ago Dr. Dyer was ordained a priest in the American Catholic church by Archbishop F. E. J. Lloyd in Hilton chapel at the Chicago Theological seminary. Later he appealed to Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago for recognition of that ordination and for admission as an Episcopal clergyman. Bishop Stewart replied that, although the orders conferred by Archbishop Lloyd might be historically sound, he could not recognize them.

Dr. Dyer coöperated in the founding of a semi-monastic Protestant order of preaching friars in California. These friars became widely known for their successful evangelistic work on the Pacific coast. Dr. Dyer was educated at Wheaton college and at the Chicago Theological seminary. Bishop Stewart recently licensed Dr. Dyer to speak in Episcopal churches of the Chicago diocese.

ALIENIST BEGINS BATTLE; ASSERTS MRS. JUDD INSANE

Asylum Head Is Target for the Prosecution.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Winnie Ruth Judd is suffering from hereditary dementia praecox and is completely unable to tell right from wrong, Dr. George W. Stephens, superintendent of the Arizona State Hospital for the Insane, testified as her "trunk murder" trial was resumed today.

DR. WILLIAM JUDD. [Acme Photo.]

If she killed Agnes Annie Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson and shipped their bodies in trunks as baggage she was entirely unaware of the nature or quality of her act, Dr. Stephens told the jury.

Dr. William C. Judd, husband of the defendant, preceded Dr. Stephens on the stand as a surprise witness.

Bares Intimate Life.

He related intimate details of his life with Mrs. Judd and detailed his wife's "abnormal and intense" desire for motherhood, which was always balked of necessity by the state of her health.

He said he had cause "since last spring, and particularly during the last month before this happened," to have apprehension over Mrs. Judd's mental condition, but on cross-examination admitted he did nothing about it except write her to "guard herself" and stop worrying.

"Ruth," he testified, "has always been suspicious of those around her; she has always felt they were conspiring against her, or belittling her accomplishment."

He said twice during their married life Mrs. Judd had expected to become a mother, but that her health, impaired by tuberculosis, made it imperative to prevent birth of a child.

"Nevertheless, Ruth spoke of 'my baby' as though it had been born," Dr. Judd said.

Battle of Experts Starts.

Dr. Stephens' appearance on the stand marked the beginning of the predicted "battle of alienists," which is expected to consume the next two or three days of the trial.

Among the "manifestations," on which he based his conclusions, Dr. Stephens enumerated her "complete indifference to proceedings."

Deputy County Attorney C. A. Rodgers savagely cross-examined Dr. Stephens, and there were frequent clashes of counsel as Rodgers demanded that the court require definite answers from the witness.

He evoked the admission that Dr. Stephens' principal contact with the insane has been in two positions he obtained politically, that he was not required to pass an examination in psychiatry and that he has done no particular post-graduate work in that science since leaving medical school.

Leigh Ford, for whom Mrs. Judd once worked; Rex B. Mesny and Reta Bernard all testified Mrs. Judd at various times had spoken to them of "her baby."

3 GOVERNMENT UNITS DEFAULT ON BONDS AGAIN

The county, the forest preserve and the sanitary district yesterday were forced to default on bonds and interest payments which came due. It was the second default for each of the corporate bodies although the county had managed to pay up its first default within a few days of the maturity date of its bonds. Postal authorities, however, considered it a default and struck Cook county bonds from the lists of approved securities in which funds from the postal savings bank are invested.

Until late evening Assistant Controller Michael J. O'Connor attempted to persuade holders of $1,000,000 worth of county bonds to accept refunding bonds which pay 6 per cent interest as against 4½ per cent for the original issue. His efforts met with refusals and the issue defaulted along with $56,000 in interest charges. The sanitary district was unable to meet $469,037 in matured bonds and the forest preserve defaulted to the sum of $65,600 in bonds and interest charges.

Sanitary district employés have not been paid since Nov. 15, and yesterday the trustees lopped 201 of them from the rolls. County employés have gone three months without pay and forest preserve employés have had no payday since Dec. 1.

Colored Alderman Loses Seat in Evanston Council

Edward B. Jourdain Jr., Negro alderman, was deprived of his seat by the Evanston city council last night. He was elected in the Fifth ward last April, and was seated pending a disposal of a contest instituted by John P. Russ, his opponent. The contest was held before Police Magistrate Harry Porter.

REPORT BUSCH GIRL REWED TO FORMER MATE

Reports were circulated last night that Kathlyn Busch, 19 years old, daughter of former Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch, and her former husband, Carl E. Lund, 215 West Oak street, had remarried.

Mr. Busch admitted that he received a telegram last week announcing that his daughter had left the Brenau conservatory, at Gainesville, Ga., for Chicago last Thursday. It was his impression, he said, that she and Lund were to remarry. Inquiry at the Lund home in Oak street last night elicited the information that "Lund and his wife" were out.

Mr. Busch's daughter and Lund were married March 6, 1929, at Champaign while both were students at the University of Illinois. They separated Sept. 11, 1930. Mrs. Lund obtained a divorce the following December on charges of cruelty. Prior to the divorce, Lund sued Mr. Busch for $100,000 for alienation of affections, but later dropped the suit.

"SAVED MY LIFE," PATIENTS SAY OF ACCUSED DOCTOR

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Feb. 1.—When the investigation of charges against Dr. Cornelius P. Rhoads of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research was resumed today patients who had been treated by Dr. Rhoads appeared as voluntary witnesses and testified "Dr. Rhoads saved my life" and "He kept me from dying." The charges followed the finding of a letter written by Dr. Rhoads in which he said he had killed eight Porto Ricans and transplanted cancer into others.

In a message to Gov. Beverley, offering to return here, Dr. Rhoads described his letter as a "fantastic and playful composition written for my own diversion and a parody on the supposed attitude of some American minds."

The investigators began today an examination of the records of more than 250 cases treated by the Rockefeller institute experts here. Not all of these cases were handled by Dr. Rhoads.

Gas, Pain, 3 Yrs. Stops It Quick!

"I had a mean case of acid indigestion for the past three years," writes Miss Adeline Beljean, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Tried everything with little if any results.. Then heard about ACIDINE and got some. It is wonderful. I can eat everything without gas or pain. Sleep fine."

"For ten years I had been distressed with heartburn," says Mrs. E. M. Patterson of Hartford. "I decided to try ACIDINE about two months ago. I started taking 4 doses a day and found great relief, gradually reduced to 3 and now am taking only 2 doses. I can't begin to tell you what a relief it is to be free from that distressing heartburn."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach troubles or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

FALSE ECONOMY

IF YOU are the owner of a Ford car or truck, and have been postponing necessary repairs or even a seasonal tune-up, you are practicing false economy.

Avoiding needed lubrications, inspections, or other service maintenance—believing a few dollars are thereby saved, is in reality a costly plan—it may greatly depreciate the life of your car, or possibly subject you to unnecessary road delays.

Real economy means having needed repairs, lubrications or inspections taken care of

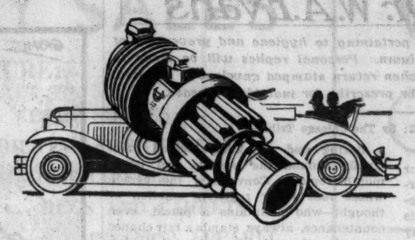
BENDIX BRAKES

Noted for the vital "Servo" principle, exclusively Bendix—the utilizing of the vehicle's momentum as braking power, drawing that added power from the rotating wheels. Instant, positive, tightly enclosed to keep out mud, slush, dust, water, Bendix Brakes add definitely to driving safety. BENDIX BRAKE COMPANY, South Bend, Indiana.

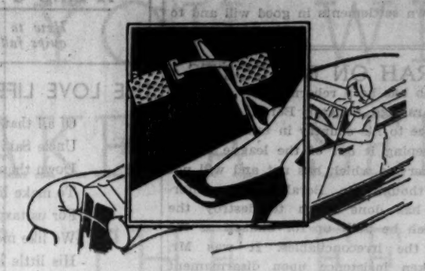


The BENDIX DRIVE

The famous "mechanical hand that cranks your car." Instantly when the electric circuit is closed the Bendix Drive engages the engine's fly-wheel, cranks it, lets go; and automatically protects the starter from damage in unintended operation. Standard equipment on most cars, trucks, and buses. ECLIPSE MACHINE COMPANY, Elmira, New York.

STARTIX

Simply turn the ignition key "on"—Startix operates the starter instantly, automatically; re-starts the engine if it stalls. As long as ignition is "on," Startix is in full automatic control of the engine. Easily put on any car equipped with Bendix Drive, and standard on a number of leading cars. ECLIPSE MACHINE COMPANY, Elmira, New York.



AUTOMATIC CLUTCH CONTROL

With an easy touch on the accelerator you go through traffic—stopping, starting, shifting gears—without touching the clutch pedal! Automatic Clutch Control uses the vacuum power of the intake manifold to operate the clutch. Get a demonstration! BRAGG-KLIESRATH CORPORATION, South Bend, Ind.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE WAGE SETTLEMENT MAKES THE GRADE.

It is truly said of the railroad wage agreement by which the employés accept a ten per cent reduction for a year that it is a remarkable achievement. This is true of the method by which it was arrived at, of the tone prevailing in the meetings of the representatives of the great interests involved, and of the spirit with which the decision was made.

It is the most difficult of human undertakings for men representing capital investment and men representing labor to see eye to eye facts in the same significance and to agree in a matter affecting the life of the organizations and the livelihood of the workers. It requires, of course, convictions of good faith. David Brown Robertson, chairman of the labor executives, and his associates and Daniel Willard, chairman of the railroad presidents' committee, and his associates have given these discouraging times a needed reassurance of the competence of Americans to face their problems and solve them on their own initiative and by the use of their own intelligence. The times needed just such a renewal of faith.

The question was one which has wrecked great industries in the past. Others meeting new forms of competition and beset with the consequences of general depression have fallen into internal warfare to complete the destruction. The railroad employés recognized that railroading is their industry and that they are not isolated from its fate. It was necessary that the membership of the railroad labor organizations have faith in the intelligence and good purpose of its leadership and for that faith to be justified. It was necessary for the labor leadership to have faith in the sincerity of the employers' representatives. In such an atmosphere the delicate question of wages could be considered and only in such an atmosphere.

The presidents' committee met these exacting requirements, and credit particularly must be given Mr. Willard not only for his belief in the appeal to the good judgment of the workers but for the eloquence of his honest purpose. The railroads had taken their losses. The financial structure of the country was involved in the success or failure of the railroad managements to support their investments and their credit. A labor war might have been ruinous with consequences spreading far beyond the rails. Even a protracted labor dispute might have been perilous. It is not easy to bring both sides to see such facts. The railroad employés approached them with open minds and when they made their decision did so without a grudge or a sense of injury, but as men who saw the wisdom of their choice.

The negotiators have done more than avoid a disturbance and make a wage agreement. These are times when every radical and every visionary tries to throw responsibility upon government which itself has not proved that it can succeed in its primary functions. Even persons who disclaim communistic doctrine have been willing to surrender to bureaucratic or sovietized attacks upon private enterprise. A theory of private incompetence has grown alongside the exhibitions of political incompetence. Experience with the futilities and stupidities, not to mention the rascalities, of government has been wasted. The urge for government extension persists, although every expansion presents a fresh misfortune.

In contrast to this theory of the failure of private enterprise the success of the railroads in handling a vital question by direct contact without the use of government agents or government machinery, without the intervention of political action or the interference of bureaucracy, revives the belief that American society is still able to plan its survival without sovietizing either directly or indirectly. If the government had been in this parley on wages the decision would have come too late to have been of any benefit. An irrelevant set of issues would have been added to obscure the real one. It is a pertinent comparison to call attention to the fact that the government cannot get from its own employés the consideration the railroad workers have given their managements nor has it been able or willing to discontinue its financial excesses, although its deficits are growing and its revenue disappearing. Bureaucracy fills the same number of chairs at the same per diem.

If the railroads had been obliged to take the same course the government refuses to abandon for itself they would have been ruined and their employés with them. The future of the United States, in spite of the clamor on the left, remains with its citizens outside of political action and not with its politicians. The country must endeavor to survive them. It should be grateful to the men who have offered it a renewal of faith in the ability of American private enterprise to negotiate its own settlements in good will and to good effect.

MR. BORAH ON BOYCOTTS.

The old Borah has been reborn.

A dozen years ago Senator Borah performed a notable service to his country in taking a leading part in keeping it out of the league of nations. It is a service which has not and will not be forgotten, though Mr. Borah in the intervening years has done much to destroy the reputation which he built up for himself as the spearhead of the irreconcilables. It was Mr. Borah's mistaken insistence upon disarmament which forced the hand of Mr. Harding and led to the calling of the Washington naval conference with the result that American naval supremacy was sacrificed for a generation and perhaps for all time. America received and probably could have received no compensation to justify such a sacrifice.

Still later, Mr. Borah unfortunately succumbed to the sophistries of the war outlawers. He devoted his great talents as an advocate to advancing the Kellogg-Briand treaty in this country. He seems to have been convinced that such a treaty would go far toward insuring the peace of the world for all time. Perhaps the failure of the outlawry pact to keep the peace in Manchuria and Shanghai has served to bring Mr. Borah back to a sound view of American foreign policy based upon a sound conception of American interests in the world.

Whatever the cause, today Mr. Borah is warning his countrymen against the folly of fighting Japan with boycotts and embargoes. He and other men in public life have been deluged in recent weeks with demands that the United States forbid all trade relations with Japan until Japan withdraws from China. The letters come from so-called pacifists. This time Mr. Borah has not been swept off his feet. Boycotts and embargoes, he says, are warlike measures. No one who wishes to avoid war can afford to venture upon such measures without a full realization of what the consequences may be. A boycott may be expected to lead to retaliations. The attempt to enforce boycotts may well lead to "incidents" and the incidents, in turn, may lead to rising anger, an exchange of increasingly heated notes and finally to the employment of armed force.

Unquestionably the United States has its interests in the Far East which must be protected. Our traders in China are performing a necessary and useful service to their country and, like all Americans in China, have every right to be safeguarded in their lives and property. The time may come when protection of our interests in the orient will require the maximum exertion of which we are capable, which is to say the full strength of the American army and navy.

But to date it is by no means clear that any such use of force will be required. At the moment a war—none the less real though it has not been formally declared—is being waged by Japan and China. The more emotional elements in our population, including, it must be said with regret, a considerable number of American professors, are permitting their dislike of imperial aggression in Manchuria and their horror at the bloodshed in Shanghai to confuse their thinking. They are urging our government on to acts of retaliation against Japan for the sake of restoring China's lost provinces and to avenge the Chinese dead.

It may appear, but it does not yet appear, that American interests require the warlike policy of the boycott to safeguard American rights. That is Mr. Borah's contention and it springs, precisely as did his opposition to the league, from a profound belief in the wisdom of minding our own business. It is not and never was the business of the United States to police the world and to take sides in every quarrel between nations, no matter how great may be the wrong which one nation has suffered at the hands of another.

It would be ironic, indeed, if in the year in which all America is paying homage to the memory of its greatest citizen the advice of Washington on the conduct of our foreign relations should be flouted.

RE-ELECT SWANSON.

The report of the state's attorney of work accomplished by his office during 1931 summarizes an accomplishment as creditable to Mr. Swanson and his aids as it must be encouraging to the community. Convictions have been raised to the high level of 80 per cent. In the civil branch tax litigation, forfeitures, and the collection of fines and costs in criminal cases have resulted in a return more than sufficient to meet the whole cost of maintaining the work of the state's attorney. This in spite of the heavy increase of work imposed by banking failures, which has necessitated the establishment of a special division.

The department has taken advantage of recent Supreme court decisions to speed up prosecutions and cut red tape, reducing pending cases from 1,928 when Mr. Swanson took office to 602 at the beginning of this year. At the same time the percentage of judgments affirmed upon review has been raised to 71 per cent, as compared with an average of 60 per cent for prosecutions for the other 101 counties of the state.

This record deserves the appreciation and support of Cook county's citizenship, which should be expressed in the renomination and reëlection of Mr. Swanson. It represents hard and faithful work in a period of special difficulty.

AMERICANS!

[Battle Creek (Mich.) Enquirer and Evening News.]

"It's the worst I ever heard of," was the thought expressed by amazed readers of the morning news from Chicago which told of ten funeral mourners being injured when they tried to drive their own cars in a funeral cortège instead of hiring cars as dictated by unions.

This latest product of Chicago lawlessness is the most startling and most disgusting.

What will the Chicago police do about it?

What will Mayor Cermak, who was supposed to have brought a new rule or order, do about it?

What will Chicago newspapers, which have a responsibility to public welfare, do?

What will Chicago citizens do?

Will they all sit back indifferently, cynically complacent, as they have in the past? Will they make excuses, threaten big cleanups, and do nothing?

There is no liberty in Chicago under gang rule.

When will the citizens of Chicago revolt? When will the newspapers lead them to revolt for decency and freedom? Are they American citizens in Chicago, come of the stock which fought and died for its liberty, or are they a new race of meek, timid, cringing souls who will let foreign plug-uglies rule their city, take their money, prey on their business, and even run their funerals?

When will Chicago awaken?

It can be said with all religious sobriety, Only God knows.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE LOVE LIFE OF BULLFROGS.

Of all that dear old
Uncle Sam is doing
Down there in Washington
To make life sweeter and happier
For us taxpayers,
We like most of all
His little brochure on
"The Love Life of Bullfrogs."
Strange, but never before had
We given much thought to
The bullfrog
Or his loves.
In the past we have cared
Only for the hind legs
Of bullfrogs, fried brown.
But now our patriarchal
Government stops in the midst
Of its manifold activities
That we shall know
A frog he would
A-wooing go.
Our poor old Uncle Sam is now
Two billion dollars in
The red—and getting deeper
Every day.
Nevertheless he takes the time
And postage
To send out this little book
Which tells how
Ferdinand or Percy or Clarence
Bullfrog
Woos Imogene or Caroline or Geraldine Bullfrog.
Ah, how sweet it is for
Our gracious government,
Sitting up at night wondering
If the Japs are going to Behave or give us
A kick in the pants,
To sit down and tell us about
The love affairs of Bullfrogs,
And their happy weddings,
And their sweet home life,
And their dear little baby
Bullfrogs
Who come to bring sunshine
And gladness
To a bullfrog bungalow!
Think of a government that,
In the midst of unemployment
And mounting taxes and
The crash of nations around
The world,
Will sit down and write and
Mail to one and all
The old sweet story
Of a bullfrog's love,
It seems just too bad that,
After the government has gone
To all this trouble,
The bullfrogs
Won't read the damn
Thing.

"WATCH GARNER!" is the shrill shout of those who are boosting the Speaker of the House for the Democratic presidential nomination. Dear friends, may we not say that we have watched Garner and likewise watched the House of Representatives very carefully since the first day of December, when the Democrats took over; yes, we have watched and watched—and we hain't seen nothin' yet. Not a thing. If we didn't know we wouldn't be aware that the Democrats had a majority in the house instead of the Republicans. But we're watching! When's it going to happen?

A PARSON PHILOSOPHIZES.

(From an unpreached sermon.)

Life, my dear, begins like a symphony—softly and far away—as the tinkle of bells on the distant herd when homeward turned; as the sound of a waterfall high in the ageless hills; as a shy cloud holding down its garments in the wind; as the first faint rumble of thunder at the margin of the world. Then life sweeps forward like a musician at a throbbing organ with both hands pressing the ivory keyboard, and minor notes give way to major, rising to a mighty crescendo, as when the herd reaches the gap and hurries through with all the bells at peal; as when the waterfall, augmented by a hundred mountain rivers, goes roaring to the valley; as when the shy, silvery cloud turns to ink where, with the hammers of Vulcan at play, the fires of eternity flash into time. And then life moves on again, but less majestic and more subdued;—its diapasons become dissonant, uncertain; its drums are muffled and the sound thereof is like the slow drip of cold rain on wet leaves; and far down the keyboard the final note is struck, almost soundless, as when a petal falls from a rose, as soundless as the flight of a fog from headland to the sorrowing sea; and man goeth to his long home and the mourners go back to the bridge tables, and his silence is more significant than the superficialities of their sorrow.

ABORIGINE.

EXPERIMENT.

The thought was highly planned,
Worked out in noble mood.
When I had written it and scanned
I did not think it good.

I pondered, changed anew.
It met not my desire.
I can make more, I said, and threw
It torn into the fire.

I brooded on the matter,
Perhaps I was not just.
Would he who wrote me tear and scatter
Me—unachieved—to dust?

ANCHUSA.

ARE YOU READY for the question? Do we back the Chinese or the Japs? Or say, as did Mercutio, "A plague o' both your houses!"? Our ballot reads "Plague."

REVELATIONS.

If the skin is folded habitually or frequently according to any particular pattern by means of contraction of its muscles, the pattern is liable to become fixed. The folding may result from contraction of the heavy muscles below as well as those of the skin provided their contracture folds the skin. When its pattern has become fixed it is because the fibers of the deep skin have been so rearranged that they no longer smooth out the folds.

Crow's feet: Habitual narrowing of the eye opening, called squinting by the common folks, though the doctors give that word another meaning. It might be called a shutter action. We narrow the lid shutters and cause temporary crow's feet in order to shut out glare. We are apt to do it when laughing or when concentrating mentally. Therefore, the causes of crow's feet are: Frequent exposure to glare, laughing, and concentrated thinking provided in these processes the lid openings are narrowed. To avoid crow's feet habitually, avoid these causes.

Vertical wrinkles between the eyes: The most frequent cause is straining to see, though mental concentration is a close second. To avoid these wrinkles avoid eyestrain. Keep vision on a high plane of efficiency, and avoid mental concentration, or learn to concentrate without wrinkling this zone.

Horizontal wrinkles across the brow: Among the causes which operate to throw the skin of this region into folds are: Laughing in which the technique includes wide opening of the eyes, worry and anxiety, and mental concentration. Habitually avoiding these is the way to escape these wrinkles.

Wrinkles of the lower part of the face are determined by the lip and mouth muscles, just as those of the upper part are largely dominated by the eyelid muscles and their accessories. Laughing causes wrinkling due to pulling the corners of the mouth up. To avoid these wrinkles we must habitually avoid this kind of laughing. Melancholy pulls the corners of the mouth down. If persisted in the corners of the mouth and the tributary territory have a downward sag. Keeping the jaws firmly set and holding the lips firmly together sometimes causes wrinkles, but more frequently determines the set of the mouth and the topography of the skin and flesh of the lower part of the face.

Prolonged labored breathing, for instance, that of the old asthmatic, causes a flaring and wrinkling located principally around the nostrils and upper mouth region. Conversely, the person whose face never registers emotion or thought—who maintains a placid, even countenance, always stands a fair chance of getting through life without wrinkles. However, there is some wrinkles hazard for them. If they become fat in the face and later lose their facial embonpoint the slack will show as wrinkles.

J. T. S. writes:

1. What causes one to sneeze?
2. Does one sneeze when taking fresh cold, or is the cold being thrown off?

REPLY.

1. Sneezing is a reflex act the basic purpose of which is to remove from the nose lining substances that irritate it. The more immediate causes are many. Among them are breathing irritating substances such as pollens, bacteria, dust, chemicals; congestion of the membranes of the nose; in some, the urge to evacuate the bowels, when a certain area in the ear canal is pressed, as a result of exposure to light or cold.

2. The sneezing that is a symptom of taking cold is usually a result of congestion of the membranes. The symptom appears as the cold develops and follows the infection and the exposure by several hours, or even a day, as a rule.

BOY FAILS TO TAN.

F. E. E. writes: My boy, 8 years of age, has what my doctor calls a lack of pigmentation of the skin. There are parts of his body which do not tan in the sunlight. Recently you published a statement of some person who has used a diet to overcome this.

REPLY.

Apparently your boy is one of those people who do not tan readily, and whose skin is supersensitive to light. The story you refer to was of the use by physician of dilute muriatic acid in white spots, or vitiligo. I know of no proof that this will help in a case such as that of your boy.

A COMMON COMPLAINT.

Z. E. P. writes: Please tell me something that will stop the intolerable itching of winter itch. Is this trouble common?

REPLY.

The complaint is a very common one. It gets much more general as the weather gets colder and the house air becomes hotter and drier. The best remedy is to go to a warm, moist climate. Living in a conservatory is a pretty good cure. Humidifying the air thoroughly is sometimes a satisfactory substitute. Some are benefited by greasing the skin. There may be some advantage in greasing with one of the eczema remedies. Some apply cloths soaked in hot water and wrung.

CIVIL SERVICE JOBS.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—My girl friend took the civil service examination for truant officer and junior bookkeeper last June. At present she is out of town and has asked me to inquire about the result. If you can be of any assistance in the matter it will be greatly appreciated. J. T.

The eligible list resulting from the examination for truant officer was posted a few days ago. The papers in the examination for junior bookkeeper are not yet rated. As the name of the candidate is not given we cannot advise whether or not she passed.

PATENTS AS ASSET.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Could you please tell me if a pending patent application would be considered an asset in bankruptcy proceedings? F. F.

1. "It has been held that the terms 'patents' and 'patent rights' do not include the interest of the bankrupt in a patentable invention or in a pending application for a patent, and therefore the trustee takes no title to a patent for an invention granted to the bankrupt after the date of the adjudication in bankruptcy, although the application for such patent was made before the bankruptcy and was pending at the time of such adjudication." In re McDonnell, 101 Fed 230, 4 Am. Bankr. 92. 2. But another court has asserted the view that a pending application for a patent will pass to the trustee as "property" which the bankrupt could have transferred. In re Canada Mfg. Co., 185 Fed. 276. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ZONING LAW.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a party unaware of the zoning law who leases a property for business purposes in a zoned district recover for expenses incurred in advertising the location and fitting up same for business, if it is shown that lessor knew the location was zoned? O. L. J.

If the lessor made no misrepresentations and did not actively conceal the situation, and if the contract contained no wording on the point in question, then the lessee would have no legal remedy.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The stagnation in financial affairs in this market is even more decided than at the beginning of last week. Everybody seems disposed to do just as little as possible until the financial situation in New York and in the east generally has become more settled. There have been so many new and unexpected developments in the last six weeks that confidence is thoroughly unsettled. People have said so many times that the worst was over and have found that it was not that they have become distrustful of flattering prospects.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—The present winter of 1873 will undoubtedly witness the experiment of a new departure in the financial policy of the nation. The financial panic has been the means of increasing the unpopularity of the national banking system, and there will undoubtedly be a demand made upon congress to abolish the banks and issue greenbacks, not only in place of the bank notes but to a greater extent in the purchase of bonds.

Chicago, July 5.—The authority of Uncle Sam and the United States army was defied and resisted at the stockyards by a mob of 25,000 riotous and drunken followers of Dictator Debs of the American Railway union.

Nothing but extreme forbearance on the part of the officers commanding the 150 men who fought from morning until night with the rabble prevented a great loss of life. Dozens of times soldiers stood with their rifles to their shoulders, their fingers on the triggers, waiting for the word to fire. Strikers were hemmed against box cars with bayonets pressed against their breasts and to the prudence of the soldiers alone do they owe their escape from death.

At night a new order was issued, and if the rioters exhibit the same defiance for law today as yesterday they will be fired upon, they will be bayoneted, trampled under foot by cavalry, and mowed down by artillery. The situation is grave, as is shown by the ordering out of four companies of infantry from Fort Leavenworth to assist the regulars who are here. They should reach Chicago this evening.

It was different at Blue Island, where the strikers showed the white feather and hunted their holes on the appearance of the federal troops. General managers announced that today they will make a concerted effort to resume traffic, which has been paralyzed by the A. R. U. strike in sympathy with the Pullman strikers.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 2, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Tribune correspondent is able to present herewith the terms of the prospective settlement of the Lusitania controversy between the United States and Germany. Germany will not make a specific disavowal of the sinking of the Lusitania without warning, principally because Mr. Wilson has not asked them to give a specific disavowal. Germany will apologize for the killing of the 115 American citizens who went down on the Lusitania, principally because that is what President Wilson now asks specifically.

NORFOLK, Va.—Bringing news that a German raider is busy at sea despite the activity of allied warships, the liner Appam anchored here today as a prize of the kaiser. The Appam now lies off Old Point Comfort waiting for the state department to determine whether it is a man of war subject to internment or a German prize. The Appam brought word that the mysterious commerce destroyer which has sunk six ships, taken another as a collier, and sent the Appam to port with its surplus captives is the Moewe. The Appam is in charge of Lieut. Hans Berge and twenty-two men.

LONDON.—Fifty-four persons were killed and sixty-seven injured in last night's Zeppelin raid. It was officially stated that the Germans dropped 220 bombs in Norfolk, Suffolk, Lincolnshire, Leicestershire, Staffordshire, and Derbyshire. Industrial centers seemed to be the targets of the bombers.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 2, 1902.

PITTSBURGH.—Edward and John Biddle, murderers, who escaped from the Pittsburgh jail through the aid of Mrs. Kate Soffel, wife of the warden, who furnished the men with saws and revolvers, died tonight of wounds received in the battle with pursuing officers. Mrs. Soffel is in a critical condition. One of the sensational happenings of the day was the finding of a lost love letter from Ed Biddle to his prison sweetheart, Mrs. Soffel, in the snow near the scene of the battle. Mrs. Soffel fell in love with Biddle in November and he soon realized his power over her. It was in the early part of December that he proposed a plan of escape to her and she consented to aid him.

THE INQUIRING TEACHER.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—I am a teacher in the Chicago public schools. I have passed the stage of worrying about the clothes on my back and have, by now, reconciled myself to wearing patched clothing and hosiery and torn shoes. A square meal a week is a treat. What worries me now is where I will get the money to eat and go to school.

With this question in mind I asked the advice of a principal in the school. His answer to my question, "What can the board of education do with a teacher who cannot come to school any more for lack of funds?" was, "I guess it is up to the teachers to get money." When I asked another principal that question she advised me to ask the advice of the president of the board.

Friday, Jan. 22, I went to the office of the president and, after telling my story, was referred to Mr. Gilbert, the secretary of the board of education. When I asked him that question his answer was that he could do nothing about it, and went on to tell me a story of how no one was paid and it wasn't the fault of the board but of the taxpayers, and so on. His advice to me was that I see my superintendent and ask for a leave of absence [without pay]. Can any one tell me how a leave of absence will solve my problem? For I still don't know where I am going to get money to buy food and carfare to come to school. B. E.

AROUND AND AROUND.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—I see by the new Kelly law one set of politicians are to remove another set of politicians from the assessor's office and the politicians who remove the politicians are going to select a new set of politicians to take the assessor's office out of politics. Here is something Mr. Kelly might suggest to some politicians: That they investigate the politicians who spent the taxpayers' money illegally instead of inviting stranded taxpayers to pay 1928, 1929 and 1930 taxes, which are unconstitutional, so that some politicians might pay somebody something that they've got coming legally. I would suggest the politicians start collecting taxes from Michigan avenue and Lake Shore drive first, then work west if they need any more.

GEORGE STEINERT.

FROM A COUNTRY GIRL.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—The letter from "Country Lad" in today's Tribune forcibly draws a response from me. I'm a stenographer studying art evenings. Right now I'm out of work, as the company where I was employed failed. I want to tell "Country Lad" that he is all wet. He's conceited and narrow. I'm a country girl from Michigan and I'm right here to tell him that 90 per cent of the boys and girls from the farms and small towns are creeping home with shamed faces. They made good while the "good" was there, but what can you do if the "good" is not there? "Country Lad" is very lucky. Wonder where he gets the drag.

COUNTRY GIRL.

THE BIG PARADE.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 14.—I am not in sympathy with the position of The Tribune on international questions or with reference to our military resources, but I do want to congratulate you upon the cartoon entitled "The Big Parade," illustrating very effectively the cost of the world war. H. C. HERMAN.

DEVOTION.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 23.—In a paragraph under the caption "Salary Cuts for Teachers," appearing in The Tribune on Jan. 22, "Informed" asks the question, "Why don't the teachers go out and get other jobs?" Then follows a sentence which purports to be the answer.

I think I can give an answer to the question which is closer to the truth: The teacher is like the soldier, the surgeon, the minister and the priest, attached to his work, trained in it, disciplined for it and by it, yes, even born to it. Having had the responsibility for children's physical and mental welfare he cannot easily throw aside that duty for a lesser one. L. B. M.

FOR A MORATORIUM.

Momence, Ill., Jan. 23.—With so many banks going into the hands of receivers, and so many farm mortgages being foreclosed, why would not congress declare a moratorium for one year, which would enable the banks to pay a small per cent to the depositors each month and allow them to liquidate their assets instead of being forced to have receivers, which means a big loss to the depositors and adds to the depression? If we had Theodore Roosevelt this would have been done long before.

While the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance bill is all right, as far as it goes, there is so much red tape that nearly all of the banks in the country will be closed before its gets in force.

W. W. PARISH.

ALMOST FORGIVEN.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 24.—"Our Own Dolcs" is a really worth while, timely warning. And I trust you may continue along the same line for weeks. Your editorials on government economy are what we need to hear more of, also. May you keep that up, too. I can almost forgive you your unfair insinuations concerning "downstaters" with editorials such as those I've mentioned.

SYLVIA E. SMITH.

SOLVENT WITHOUT LIQUOR LICENSES.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—From many sources the wets are raising a noisy hue and cry for the restoration of the sale of beer. They promise all kinds of revenue to city, state and national governments. If only the schooner could slop over the brass rail as of old, worries over revenue would be largely past. The same press that brings up the beer wail of the wets brings the news that Milwaukee, without any beer revenue, has no debt that annoys and has four millions of money in its treasury. As a revenue measure I recommend to these vociferous wets a diligent study of Milwaukee municipal methods.

JOSEPH B. ROGERS.

A SOLUTION.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—The only solution for the funeral difficulties that I can see is to provide a gigantic cortége of union funeral cars, headed by an elegant hearse [I am sure the public would subscribe funds] for the instigators of this rule. A salute of 21 stinkbombs at the grave would be a fitting tribute.

DISGUSTED.

BRANCH BANKS.

Palos Park, Ill., Jan. 23.—I understand that in Canada, suffering from the same depression that we have, but which permits branch banks, which we have not, there has been an almost entire absence of bank failures. EVAN L. REED.

WAGE REDUCTION PUT IN EFFECT BY RAILROADS

First Pared Pay Checks Go Out in March.

In accordance with the compact signed late Sunday night by the presidents of 20 railway unions and a committee of presidents representing the carriers, the executive offices of the nation's railroads yesterday instructed their pay roll departments to put into effect at once the 10 per cent wage reduction provided in the agreement.

The pay cut will be effective for one year, terminating on Jan. 31, 1933. Under the terms of the agreement the 10 per cent deduction will be made from pay checks on each semi-monthly pay day, but the basic or legal wage will not be disturbed.

Saving to Roads Estimated.

On the basis of the 1931 pay rolls the saving to the railroads for the year has been estimated at $215,000,000, although it has been pointed out that the actual saving may be nearer $200,000,000, due to the present reduction in employment from the 1931 level.

It was estimated that five important Chicago railroads will save about $25,000,000 as a result of the wage cut. These estimates are: Santa Fe, $7,000,000 to $8,000,000; North Western, $8,000,000; Milwaukee, $4,000,000; Illinois Central, $4,000,000; and Rock Island, $4,500,000. It was also calculated that the 150,000 railroad workers in the Chicago area would have some $24,000,000 deducted from their pay for the year.

Though the reduction in pay is effective at once, the men in the operating divisions will not feel the effect of the lower pay checks until March, it was said yesterday. The pay for the period ending Feb. 15, the first under the new rate, is not received by the men until shortly after March 1.

Job Agreement Discussed.

Another topic of discussion that developed in railroad circles yesterday, following the settlement reached between the union leaders and the railroad presidents' committee, was the second agreement signed by both sides in which the railroads made concessions toward the program proposed by labor for the improvement of working conditions and the relief of unemployment.

It was pointed out that railroads affected by the wage reduction are in three classifications: those unable or barely able to meet their fixed charges, those in fair financial condition and those well off. For this reason, it was said, the results of the roads' action towards increasing employment will not be known until the individual lines have worked out their own problems.

The railroad presidents who were here for the conference left town yesterday, while the union officials from outside cities also were departing.

The Delaware & Hudson railroad, which did not participate in the Chicago wage conference, yesterday entered an agreement with its engineers fixing a maximum monthly wage of $300 for regular engineers and $200 for extra engineers, to spread out work. Negotiations are under way for agreements with the conductors, firemen and trainmen.

LOSES GEMS

[Drake Studio Photo.]

MRS. C. J. GORDON.

The loss of personal jewelry valued at $29,000 was reported to the detective bureau yesterday by Mrs. C. J. Gordon of the Edgewater Beach hotel. The loss was discovered late Sunday when Mrs. Gordon, accompanied by her husband, a furrier with offices at 36 South State street, returned from Peoria, where they attended a wedding Saturday.

A description of the following articles was given the police: A diamond and sapphire platinum ring; a platinum lavaliere with a pear shaped diamond drop; a straight line diamond block bracelet; a sapphire and diamond bracelet; a platinum bracelet set with five diamonds; a large square open link diamond and emerald bracelet; a platinum bracelet set with ten large emeralds and several small diamonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon attended the wedding of Miss Elinor Profitlich, daughter of the president of a Peoria department store, and Wilbur Wegner. They spent Saturday night in the Pere Marquette hotel and came home by train Sunday morning. At the Edgewater Beach hotel Mrs. Gordon discovered the loss of the jewels, which had been carried in a small overnight bag.

DEALERS FIND PUBLIC BUYING AUTOS AGAIN

Elated with Response at National Show.

BY HAL FOUST.

The public is buying motor cars again. This was the news radiating from the 32d national automobile show last night at the end of the third day of the eight day exposition of 1932 models at the Coliseum.

Over the week-end, attendance was held back by severe weather, but yesterday, with a slight moderation in temperatures, the crowds flocked to the exhibition for larger Monday gate receipts than either the 1931 or the 1930 auto show.

And America's largest manufacturing industry, the production of motor cars, is selling its product. Many companies are able to compare their volume with figures of the boom year of 1929.

Wave Sweeps Entire Nation.

Telegraphic reports, received at hotel headquarters of the companies, indicate that the wave of automobile buying is not local but is sweeping the entire country. The executives, after looking back over the last two years, are reluctant to make any forecast of the future, but they are telephoning their plants to order more raw materials in readiness for a step up in production should the business barometer continue to rise.

Typical of the automobile administrative offices located in Chicago this week is the A floor of the Blackstone.

Auto Show Notes

A gain of more than 100 per cent in retail sales at the Chicago automobile show over those of last year is reported by Oldsmobile.

I. J. Reuter, Pontiac president, told 400 dealers at a luncheon yesterday that the automobile industry and the motoring public have set the stage for a return to normal economic conditions.

"Looking back at 1919," said K. T. Keller, president of Dodge Bros., in a luncheon address, "we find the business horizon was clouded by the demands of labor, bolshevism, and the high cost of living. Yet prosperity came thereafter. And it will come again."

P. C. Gartley, Willys-Overland distributor, reports that his salesmen have obtained twice as many sales prospects during the first three days of the 1932 auto show as they did in the same days of the 1931 exhibition.

Robert C. Graham, executive vice president of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation, addressing 400 dealers at at luncheon in the Palmer house yesterday, announced that shipments in January amounted to 2,537 cars. This constituted the largest January shipment since 1929, he said, and showed a gain of more than 23 per cent over last year.

Across a long wall is a bulletin board plastered with telegrams from all over the country, telling of sales increases and of new dealer contracts. This is the show headquarters of the Hudson Motor Car company.

Bulletin Board Tells Story.

"There isn't anything I can add to this," said Chester G. Abbott, general sales manager, waving a hand to direct his interviewer to the bulletin board. "That tells the whole story.

"You don't have to give Hudson-Essex a boost in your story. This same increase in business applies to most of the leaders in the automobile field. The entire industry is elated with the sales results of the Chicago show and of the nation-wide reception of the 1932 car.

"The industry has reduced prices and improved its product. The public, recognizing these facts, is finally replacing its obsolete models with more economical and satisfactory vehicles.

"The automobile led America out of the 1921 depression and, should this general buying continue, history may repeat itself. The motor car industry, as you know, not only employs 4,000,000 workers, but it's also the leading customer for steel, zinc, plate glass and numerous other raw products."

The automobile show, the only opportunity to see all of the 1932 models under one roof, will be open daily from 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. until Saturday night.

Airplane Stunts to Direct Neighbors to Burning Home

Alliance, O., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The swooping and circling of an unidentified aviator today called the attention of neighbors to a fire in the home of George C. Weaver. The house, however, was badly damaged before the flames could be extinguished. Both Mr. and Mrs. Weaver were at work.

Just Follow These Rules

1. Each day for 36 consecutive days (except Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a Washington Bi-Centennial Crossword Puzzle. In each puzzle an historic event in Washington's life will be named. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the event.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 36 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys, and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All the entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 36 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as any other leading mouth washes. Hence it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

EVERYBODY is trying to stretch the dollar—so here's a way to make your mouth wash dollar stretch as far as three. Change to the new discovery—Pepsodent Antiseptic. You see Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth washes—by adding water you make it go three times as far—get three times as much for your money—get extra protection against sore throat colds—also against the social evil of unpleasant breath. When you pick your mouth antiseptic you have two leading kinds from which to choose. You have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. Or you have Pepsodent Antiseptic that is powerful enough to be diluted and still be effective, yet is utterly safe when used full strength. Add two parts of water if you wish—it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. You can't fool germs by diluting an old-type mouth wash that should be used full strength—but you can fool yourself. Be safe—be saving. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic that remains effective when diluted. Health, pleasant breath and economy—three things that mean a lot to you.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

BATTLE BEGINS IN SENATE OVER RELIEF PROGRAM

Long Debate Expected on Part U. S. Must Play.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The issue over the part the federal government shall play in the national relief program was brought up in the senate today, with Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., insurgent Republican of Wisconsin, stepping off as the lead off man for the more radical element in congress.

R. M. LA FOLLETTE. [Harris & Ewing.]

The question to be decided is whether the federal government shall appropriate the 375 million dollars contemplated by the Costigan-La Follette bill to be given to the states for use in relieving the unemployed and needy directly, or whether the administration measures for the extension of government backed credit shall constitute the major federal contribution toward national relief.

Senator La Follette precipitated the debate by moving that the 375 million dollar bill prepared by himself and Senator Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.] be made the senate's next order of business.

The debate is expected to continue for several days.

La Follette Puts It in Figures.

Senator La Follette showed letters written by mayors or other officials of 801 cities and towns replying to a questionnaire sent out early last December. He summarized the contents of the letters as showing the following conditions:

Increased unemployment compared with December, 1930—Up to 50 per cent, 156 cities; between 50 and 100 per cent, 115 cities; more than 100 per cent, 85 cities; a decrease from the preceding year, 13 cities.

Increase in city appropriations—No appropriation, 122 cities; bankrupt, 23 cities; relief through county agency, 30 cities; no increase, 105 cities; increase up to 25 per cent, 24 cities; increase between 25 and 100 per cent, 87 cities; increase of more than 100 per cent, 76 cities; decrease, 10 cities.

Fifty cities expected to be required to help up to 50 per cent more persons than last year; 56 cities reported an expected increase of more than 50 per cent. The average relief given by 461 cities was $6.07. A total of 204 cities reported they could float further bond issues, while 235 cities said they could not.

A total of 305 cities, with populations aggregating 9,711,000, said Senator La Follette, favored direct federal relief; a total of 215 cities, with populations aggregating 4,618,000, were against such an appropriation.

Twenty-six of the 52 Illinois cities reporting favored the federal aid; one replied affirmatively, but preferred state aid; two wanted federal aid for public works; 17 were opposed; 4 were opposed, but thought a severe winter might require it or that certain areas might receive it.

Chicago, like New York, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, and several other large cities, was not represented among the replies.

From Chicago Region.

While the replies were not in all cases definite, the municipalities surrounding and near Chicago replied as follows:

Favoring a direct federal relief appropriation—Blue Island, Downers Grove, Evanston, Highland Park, Oak Park, Summit, and Wheaton. Opposed—Elgin, Joliet, La Grange, Libertyville, Park Ridge, Wilmette. Favoring outside help but noncommittal as to source—Kenilworth. Preferring repeal of the dry laws—Harvey.

From La Grange Walter P. Saunders, village president, wrote:

"We are unanimously opposed to municipal, state, or national governments assuming additional obligations which involve the increasing of taxes of one kind and another. The building up of deficits is an evidence of poor management, as is the practice of our various taxing bodies in continually seeking new methods of taxation in order to get their respective organizations more money to spend in various and devious ways."

C. P. Dubbs, president of the Wilmette village board, declared:

"It seems to me that one of the curses of this country is these unlimited federal appropriations."

Other Cities and States.

Out of 27 Indiana cities twenty-five answered the question as to the federal appropriation, with six favoring it, nineteen opposed to it, one favoring an appropriation "not a dole," and one opposing it unless on a loan basis.

Thirteen Iowa cities opposed a federal appropriation, three favored it, one was noncommittal.

Michigan cities were evenly divided for and against, 15 to 15, with four in favor with qualifications, and two against with qualifications.

Seven Wisconsin cities voted "yes," seven voted "yes" with qualifications, 17 voted "no," and 3 voted "no" with qualifications.

Among the larger cities, Detroit favored a federal appropriation if not disbursed as a dole; Boston asked a federal appropriation for public works; Baltimore said "No"; San Francisco wanted an appropriation for work, not straight relief; Philadelphia's mayor was "ordinarily opposed," but thought circumstances might change the opinion; Buffalo hoped to avoid a direct federal grant, but was not definite; Cleveland said the city would take care of itself; Toledo answered, "Yes."

Government Seeks to End Night Work in Cotton Mills

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—An effort to create "sentiment" against night work in the southern cotton mills as a means of curtailing current overproduction is being made by the commerce department, it was learned today, in coöperation with heads of the cotton textile industry.

E. T. PICKARD. [Acme Photo.]

According to Edward T. Pickard, chief of the textiles division of the commerce department, considerable overproduction now exists in the cotton textile industry which has had the effect of depressing prices.

Any agreement between cotton manufacturers to abolish operation of their mills at night would be illegal, according to Mr. Pickard, but the department and the heads of the industry are trying to create a prohibitive "sentiment" against such practice.

Denies Report of "Spurt."

Mr. Pickard denied reports that the mills in east Tennessee and North Carolina are operating "day and night" as a result of a spurt in orders for manufactured cotton from New York. He said a "small proportion" of southern mills operate at night, and an even smaller proportion employ women and children on these shifts.

At a meeting between heads of the commerce department and representatives of the cotton textile industry held here last week a resolution was adopted looking toward the creation of feeling against night work. The resolution read in part:

Whereas: (1) The widespread recognition of the need of a shorter week policy of not exceeding 55 hours in the day shift and 50 hours on the night shift if and when mills operate at night; and

(2) The discontinuance of night employment of women and minors by a preponderant of the industry have been constructive influences that have brought about improvement; therefore,

Indorse Voluntary Measures.

Be it resolved: That mill executives and selling representatives today in conference with Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, and other officials heartily indorse these two voluntary measures and urge their preservation and further acceptance on the part of all cotton mills in the United States.

Mr. Pickard said a mill which operates at night has a distinct advantage over the mill which produces only in the day. Prices, he stated, can be lowered by the night running establishment, necessitating a lowering of wages or a layoff of employés by the day running mill if the new price level is to be met. In many cases, he pointed out, however, social questions prohibit discontinuance of night operations, since such a move might throw half a mill village's population out of work.

ASK 100 MILLION LOANS AS CREDIT BODY ORGANIZES

Frame Law to Regulate Short Selling.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Organization of the board of directors of the 2 billion dollar reconstruction finance corporation will be completed tomorrow when oaths will be administered and the board will adopt rules for the extension of credit to banks, railroads and other corporations. Applications for about 100 million dollars in loans have been received.

Immediately after the senate had paved the way for such action by holding two short executive sessions, President Hoover today signed the commissions of Charles G. Dawes, president, and Harvey C. Couch and Jesse H. Jones, directors. The name of Wilson McCarthy, Salt Lake City, was sent to the senate for confirmation.

The board, which opened quarters today in the old commerce department building, will organize by the election of Gen. Dawes as president, and Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal board, as chairman, as announced by the President.

Fight on Short Selling.

A step toward federal regulation of short selling on grain exchanges was taken today when the house committee on agriculture appointed a subcommittee to draw up legislation to put such regulations into effect.

Modeled on the general lines of the Haugen bill, which was introduced at the request of the American Farm Bureau federation, the measure would amend the grain futures act to forbid any person being long or short in the market on any one day more than one million bushels. It is also planned to prohibit wash sales and puts and calls.

Aid to Northwest Farms.

Farmers in the northwest whose crops were damaged by storm, drought or the grasshopper plague last year will be eligible to receive loans up to a total of $12,000,000 under the bill passed by the senate today. The measure specifically makes available for such loans the money left over from last year's $65,000,000 appropriation for feed and seed loans to farmers in the drought stricken areas.

Former Head of Bond House Admits Embezzling

Samuel O. Olin, 64 years old, 3835 North Avers avenue, pleaded guilty to three charges of embezzlement before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the criminal court yesterday. Olin, former head of a bond and mortgage company at 19 South La Salle street, was alleged to have taken $50,000 in business deals from more than 100 complainants. Judge Desort continued an application for probation until Feb. 26, in order to investigate the assets of Olin available for restitution.

CYR SUES KING IN TWIN BATTLE FOR A GOVERNORSHIP

Long (Senator) Buys New Orleans Palace.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Dr. Paul N. Cyr, who claims he is governor of Louisiana and who, after being asked to leave one hotel in Baton Rouge, established his executive offices in another hostelry, today filed suit in Lake Charles to oust Alvin O. Kling, who now is occupying the governor's chair.

DR. PAUL N. CYR. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dr. Cyr's suit alleged he was elected lieutenant governor in 1928 and was the rightful successor to Huey P. Long after the latter became United States senator. Cyr declares the only way he could be removed from the lieutenant governorship was by resignation or impeachment, and that neither had taken place. He asked the court to oust King as governor.

Meantime King was in north Louisiana inspecting flood conditions, which are menacing that part of the state. King left all of the state offices heavily guarded before departure from Baton Rouge.

Long Buys a Palace.

Senator Long, before he left for Washington last night, purchased one of the most magnificent homes in New Orleans. Mrs. Long and the children moved in today, as the home was purchased already luxuriously furnished. Located in the exclusive Audubon section, the acquisition of this magnificent residence recalls Long's declarations on the stump when he told voters that he was "born in the piney woods of Winn parish and raised with the hogs." Neither the senator nor his principals would divulge the price he paid for the new home.

Saves Ol' Black Kittle.

Senator Long's Negro butler, John Harrison, was in charge of the palace tonight.

"We's got everything to suit the governor," smiling John said. "I's brought along his favorite cook and when it comes to butlerin' I'm the best what is. We brought along his big ol' black kittle for his potlicker an' turnip greens. He sho' can't git along without his co'npone and potlicker."

The new home has seven bedrooms with marble and tile baths, solariums and sleeping porches, a large reception hall, two big living rooms with Italian marble fireplaces, breakfast rooms, and a huge dining room. Butler's pantries and servants' quarters are included. The home is surrounded by beautiful drives and landscaped grounds.

FINES 2 FOR FIRE IN BUILDING.

Two peddlers, William Pocius and Frank Zokes, charged with starting a fire through carelessness in the vacant building at 611 West 14th place, where they had set up quarters, were fined $25 each yesterday by Judge Elliott.

GANGS' ARMORER MUST GO TO TRIAL ON GUN CHARGE

Plea to Suppress Evidence on Raid Is Denied.

Judge Thomas A. Green of the Municipal court ruled yesterday that Louis Scaramuzzo, a gunsmith, with a shop at 604 Blue Island avenue, must go to trial today on a charge of possessing firearms with the serial numbers filed off. Under a state law adopted in July such possession is held to be prima facie evidence that the defacement was done by the possessor and is punishable as a misdemeanor.

Attorney Benedict Short, representing Scaramuzzo, who has been called the armorer for the Capone gang, had requested that the evidence be suppressed. He argued for two hours that a search warrant under which his client was arrested had not been issued until after the gunsmith's shop had been searched and the weapons seized.

Judge Overrules Plea.

Previously Mr. Short had pleaded before Judge James Fardy of the Municipal court that the issuance of the search warrant was not within the jurisdiction of that court. The judge overruled this motion.

Scaramuzzo, who has been indicted on thirteen counts under the new law, was called to testify before Judge Green yesterday. He asserted that a squad of policemen went to his store the morning of Nov. 2 and after looking for stolen shotguns put him under arrest when they discovered a suitcase containing liquor.

In the afternoon, he added, Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms entered the shop and told him his safe would be blown up unless he opened it. After several refusals, he said, he complied with the order and policemen were then sent to get the warrant.

Refuses to Suppress Evidence.

Policemen who testified admitted that the search warrant was not obtained until after the safe had been opened, but Judge Green refused to suppress the evidence on this showing.

On cross-examination of Scaramuzzo, Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne brought out that molds for counterfeiting silver coins had been found in the shop.

Patrolman Nabs a Robber and Becomes a Detective

Patrolman John Scannell of the Gresham police glanced in the window of a bakery at 1247 West 79th street yesterday and saw a robber pointing a gun at Mrs. Anna Bargill, the owner. Throwing open the door Policeman Scannell pinned the bandit's arms and took the revolver from him. At the station the prisoner identified himself as Mike Kavitt, 22 years old, 6318 Maryland avenue. Capt. James Mooney, commanding the Gresham district, told Scannell he would make a good detective and ordered him into plain clothes.

BRITAIN HITS AT WOMEN TO QUELL REVOLT IN INDIA

Deals Hard Labor Terms to Scores.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, Feb. 1.—The British government made progress today at suppressing India's woman and girl patriots, who are taking part in the independence movement.

Scores of wives and daughters from good families were sentenced throughout the land by magistrates operating under the executive edicts by which Viceroy Lord Willingdon is trying to crush the passive resistance movement started by Mahatma Gandhi, India's imprisoned nationalist leader, and the all-India congress party.

Among the victims were three daughters of Kevalram Dave, for a long time an adviser of Gandhi. The Dave sisters were guilty of raising the national flag of orange, white, and green in a public park and saluting it in a "monthly flag salutation ceremony," which is a part of the civil disobedience campaign.

Get One Year at Hard Labor.

They were each sentenced to one year at hard labor and were each fined $75. They may take an additional three months' imprisonment in lieu of the fine. They are 21, 18, and 16 years old. All went to prison twice in the last passive resistance struggle.

The wife of Vasumati Thakore, a local lawyer, was sentenced to six months in prison for leading a Hindu procession in sympathy for the Mohammedans in the northwest frontier province who have been ruthlessly repressed. Five women aiding her were sentenced to four months.

The "Women's association" of the holy city of Benares in the Agra district was today declared unlawful, making participation in all its activities punishable by prison sentences. Twenty-three men were sentenced to prison terms at Benares for nonviolent independence activities.

One Hundred Injured in Lathi Charge.

Of 125 arrested at Hyderabad in a flag salutation ceremony, several were women, and one was the wife of a newspaper editor. More than 100 persons were injured in lathi charges during the ceremony.

Although it was an active day for women, the men were not inactive. Subbay Chikkaya was sentenced to six months at hard labor for selling a clandestine congress party bulletin in Bombay. Similar sentences were imposed all over India. Salt manufacture from sea water and passive picketing of Indians intending to buy British cloth also were responsible for many arrests.

All of Bombay's markets and exchanges, including the stock exchange, continued closed today, with no hope of the slighest relief before Thursday, when the one week "hartal" [strike] protesting the arrival of the British members of the round table committees terminates.

Bochasan, a village near Ahmadabad, which is refusing under the civil disobedience movement to pay land revenues, was raided by police late tonight and property, including twelve water buffaloes, was attached.

ARREST HIGHWAY COP ON CHARGES OF 'SHAKEDOWN'

Policeman Gilbert B. McClevey, 26 years old, a member of the county highway police at Morton Grove, was arrested late last night by Evanston police on John Doe warrants charging him with "shaking down" a former booze seller for $5 and with impersonating a government officer. McClevey, who lives at 1131 Loyola avenue, denied the accusations.

He was seized outside the door of Oliver L. Persons, 1512 South boulevard, Evanston, at the latter's request. With McClevey, who was in civilian attire at the time, was Timothy Cummings, a friend.

According to Persons, McClevey and a "dark haired woman" appeared at his home shortly before Christmas. This was not long after Persons had been fined $200 for possessing liquor. McClevey, Persons alleged, flashed a star and demanded $200 with the alternative of being turned over to the government. Persons said he had only $5, which the policeman accepted. Later Persons swore out a warrant. Last night when McClevey appeared Persons called Evanston police.

McClevey denied having been in Persons' place before. He said his visit last night was made at the request of a woman friend who had asked him "to tell Persons to lay off the booze."

Mother and Son Rescued from Fire in Oak Park

Two persons were carried out of a two story home at 425 South Maple avenue, Oak Park, early this morning when fire swept through it. The home was formerly a show place of the village. Those rescued were Mrs. Sylvia Rosenberg and Martin, 6 years old, her son. The rescuers were Harold J. Rosenberg, husband of Mrs. Rosenberg, and Michael Grusin, her father, and owner of the building. The flames became so fierce that Mr. and Mrs. Louis Trudeau and their four children were driven out of their home next door. The Grusin-Rosenberg home was virtually destroyed. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

Hoodlum Whose Car Hit Boy Is Sued for $10,000

Patsy Clementi, 909 Sholto street, hoodlum and brother of Louis Clementi, a gangster sought as a murder suspect, was named defendant yesterday in the praecipe of a $10,000 damage suit filed in the Circuit court by Frank Caporale, 1319 Gilpin place, on behalf of his 8 year old son, Vincent. Attorney Henry E. Sasso, who represents Caporale, said that Clementi's auto struck the child at Taylor and Lytle streets on New Year's afternoon.

GIRL REASSERTS LOVE FOR YOUTH BROTHER SLEW

Pick Seven Jurors to Try Allen, "Honor Slayer."

Norristown, Pa., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Rose E. W. Allen, sister of Edward H. B. Allen, 23 year old sportsman on trial for the slaying of Francis A. Donaldson III., asserted today that she still loved Donaldson and would keep faith with his memory. She made the statement at the noon recess of her brother's trial.

ROSE ALLEN. [Acme Photo.]

Defense and prosecution counsel spent the first day of the trial trying to pick a jury. When court recessed for the day seven jurors—six men and one woman—had been chosen.

A Neutral Witness.

Young Allen shot and killed Donaldson, with whom he had quarrelled over the latter's attentions to his sister, in the Allen apartment at the Green Hill Farms hotel in Overbrook on Nov. 10. Rose Allen places full blame for the tragedy on her brother and her father and said that she never would forgive them. Horace Allen, the father, had objected to the proposed marriage, saying that Donaldson had wronged his daughter.

Subpœnaed as a prosecution witness, Rose, who is 18 years old, declared that she would be entirely neutral in her testimony, "but I'll tell the truth," she said, "although I never will forget Francis. I love him as much now as I did when he was alive."

Waits for Evidence.

The girl's father collapsed tonight upon returning to his apartment. His daughter's confession of love for the slain youth was said to have been responsible.

Just before the trial started Stewart Nase, conducting his first prosecution since taking office as district attorney this year, announced that he would leave the penalty up to the jury. "I will ask," Mr. Nase said, "for whatever penalty is warranted under the law and the circumstances after the evidence is completed."

It was observed, however, that Mr. Nase and his assistant, David E. Groshens, were taking no chances with any prospective juror who held views against capital punishment. Men and women alike, most of the veniremen examined during the first hour of the afternoon session, asserted they could not send a defendant to the electric chair even if the evidence warranted such a verdict.

Slain Youth's Father Absent.

Francis Donaldson Jr., father of the slain youth, was not in court, although he will be a witness for the state. A spokesman for the Donaldson family said they had no desire that the son's death be vindicated by the electrocution of Allen. In explaining the elder Donaldson's absence from the trial Wharton L. Donaldson, uncle of the dead youth, said:

"There is no reason for our family to be present. The Donaldsons are not vindictive, and they feel it is the state's affair."

Allen appeared much interested in the proceedings. He sat at the counsel table whispering to his attorneys and listening intently to the questioning of the men and women in the jury box. Judge Harold G. Knight is presiding over the trial.

Detroit Fights to Cut Deficit Traced to Couzens' Regime

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Under the leadership of Corporation Counsel Clarence E. Wilcox, who is said to have the backing of United States Senator James Couzens in his assumption of powers ordinarily belonging to a mayor, Detroit is making terrific efforts to stretch a reduced income to cover large payments due and the necessary activities of the current fiscal year.

Much of the present difficulty, it is said, is traceable to bonds issued and projects voted when Mr. Couzens was mayor. Also, it is reported, he decided to take an active hand in affairs to make a success of the municipally owned street railway company.

Cut Wages of Employés.

The wages of all 35,000 persons on the city pay rolls have been cut an average of 10 per cent, as of Jan. 1. For policemen, firemen, and employés of most of the other departments, the reduction was 10 per cent, plus 10 per cent of the amount any salary exceeded $4,000 a year. Wages and contracts were not disturbed. School teachers followed the same plan by adding a 7 per cent cut to the 3 per cent cut they took last September. Employés of the department of street railways received cuts ranging from 5 to 20 per cent, with the bulk of the platform workers receiving about an 8 per cent cut.

In addition, many reductions in personnel have been made, the cuts occurring at intervals since last July. The latest came in January, when approximately 700 employés were laid off in the recreation department, health department, department of building and safety engineering, the city engineer's department, and other minor boards and commissions. These cuts involved abandonment by the city for the time being of the activities these men and women had been engaged in, it was said, since previous reductions last summer and fall had weeded out most of the excess personnel.

Asked to Donate, Too.

Also, in addition to other cuts, employés in certain departments have been asked to give back to the city treasury two days' pay a month. The plan was accepted by the police but rejected by the firemen, and at present is being held in abeyance by Mayor Frank Murphy, who says the alternative is the laying off of 200 police and 135 firemen.

The city on Dec. 31 refused to renew the permit of the Detroit Motor Bus company to operate 196 miles of lines in Detroit, and Jan. 1 the department of street railways took over the operation. In December the city was operating 800 street cars and 350 buses on its own lines, while the motor bus company was operating 150 buses on its lines. Feb. 1 the D. S. R. was operating 950 street cars and 560 buses, or 150 street cars and 60 buses more than were being operated by both systems in December.

Part of the increase is due to a 5 or 6 per cent increase in general traffic, it was stated, and the rest is because the city's buses are smaller than those the Detroit Motor Bus company operated. In December the D. S. R. began a program of economy to end the $250,000 a month deficit it had been piling up. In January the deficit was $85,000, and Mayor Murphy says it will be wiped out in February.

Detroit's budget is about $5,000,000 short of being balanced for the present fiscal year, which ends in July. The administration has succeeded in cutting its expenditures from $80,000,000 paid out from July 1, 1930, to June 30, 1931, down to a point where it now anticipates it will have spent $61,000,000 by June 30, 1932. But tax collections on a $76,000,000 levy will reach only $57,000,000 this year, it is estimated, whereas they were $63,000,000 in 1930-'31.

Five Millions Behind.

The city's revenues from licenses, tuitions, fees, etc., will be about $1,000,000 short this year, making the budget $5,000,000 behind. The chance of making even this good a showing depends on the success of present plans for economy which are hanging fire. They were to have been installed Jan. 15, and if delayed a month or so more will not be introduced in time to effect the savings needed.

The D. S. R. is on its way to balancing its own budget, but if it makes money that will not aid the general treasury, since the system is operated as a private utility. Detroit bonds at present are selling to yield between 7 and 8 per cent. The administration wants to get them back to six in order to issue $30,000,000 more, which it cannot legally do at a higher price than 6 per cent. Detroit bonds houses are coöperating in the effort, which is not expected to be resultful before spring.

IOWA COMMUNAL TOWNS VOTE FOR CAPITALIST PLAN

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Members of the Amana colonies, largest and most successful communistic society in the United States, today voted 885 to 41 in favor of a modified capitalistic corporation to be organized under the laws of Delaware.

The plan approved today was passed by the colonies board of trustees Jan. 5 after a reorganization committee had worked on it for months. Members of the society said, however, that the vote today is not binding until signatures of all members have been obtained.

Every one of the seven Amana towns favored the corporation by a big majority and in High Amana no votes against it were cast. It is contemplated to issue 25,000 shares of voting stock at $50 a share and some preferred stock. The proposed corporation will cover all of the society's 26,000 acres of land, its woolen and fur mills and other industrial and agricultural enterprises.

F. H. SCOTT.

Frederick H. Scott, vice president of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., will be the principal speaker today at the formal opening of the annual convention of the Interstate Merchants' council at the Hotel Sherman. Mr. Scott will speak at a noon luncheon. More than 6,000 department store owners and other retail executives from thirty-five states and four Canadian provinces are in Chicago for the convention and to do their spring buying. The annual meeting opened informally yesterday with registration of members. Elaborate style shows will be held each evening of the meeting.

THREE POLICEMEN ON TRIAL IN RUM SHAKEDOWN CASE

Three Chicago policemen went on trial before Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday charged with impersonating federal prohibition agents and conspiracy to extort money from still operators. They are John J. Walsh of the Woodlawn station, William Bresnahan of the Gresham station, and James O'Donnel of the Maxwell street station. Homer and Edward Horn, who operated a still in Lansing, testified that the policemen collected $450 in Otcober, 1930, and were to receive $150 each month thereafter. Prohibition agents who raided the still testified that the Horn brothers protested against the raid, saying they had paid for protection and naming the policemen. The case is being heard by a jury.

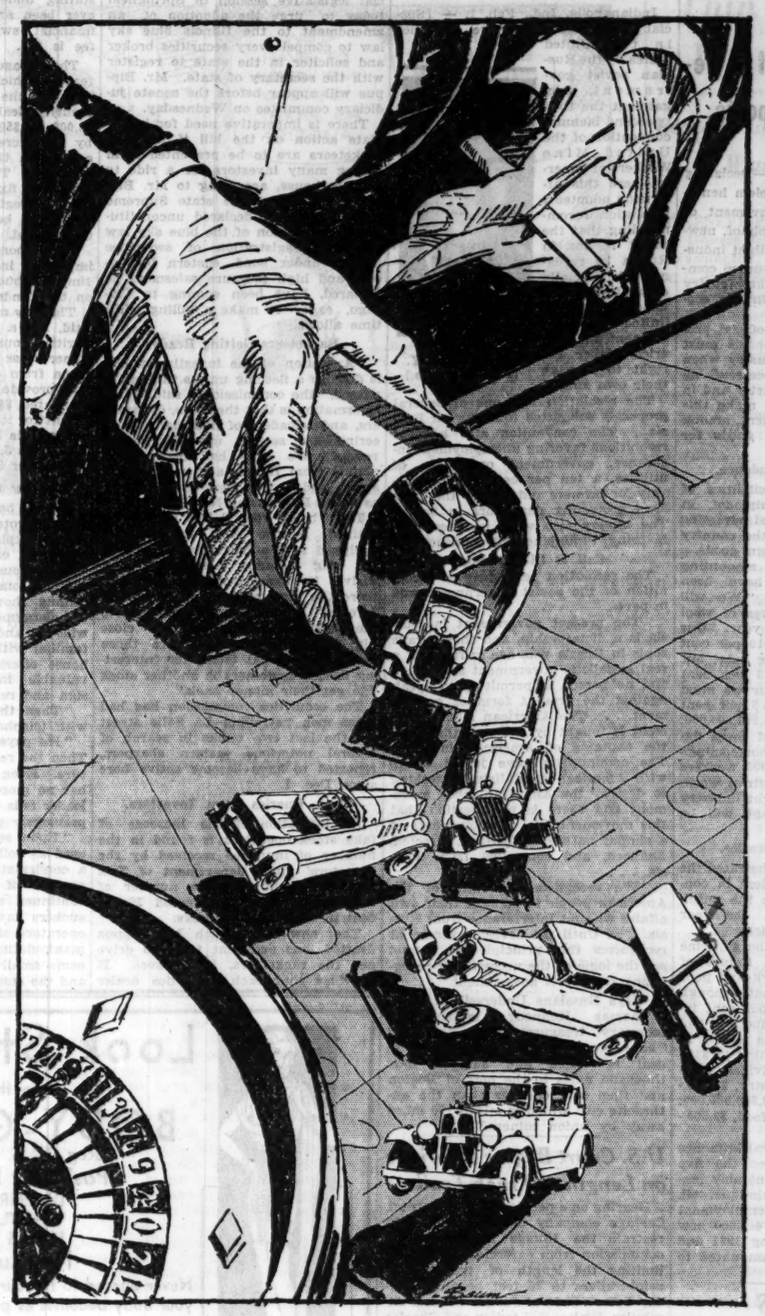
WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM . . . PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS



"I'M THROUGH GAMBLING"

"I've owned a total of fifteen cars. I've had a lot of fun, a lot of pleasure. And I've had pretty good service. But somehow or other I was never fully satisfied—until I got a Buick. Maybe that's because I'm a drastic driver. I give a car plenty of hard usage. I need a car that is not only good, but one that gives extra service. Several years ago I bought my first Buick. This year I've chosen Buick again. It's my experience that Buick stands up under the hardest kind of driving. It takes all the punishment I can give it and asks for more. Now I realize why so many motorists say, 'What's a hundred thousand miles to a Buick.' For sturdy reliability and downright stamina it can't be matched. And this year's Buick is the finest of all. The Buick Valve-in-Head Straight Eight Engine is even more spirited, more powerful. There are even more features that make for easy driving . . . such as Wizard Control. In every way it's the finest car that Buick ever built . . . and that's saying a lot. I can understand why Buick outsells every other car in its price class by more than three to one. It's because Buick is so sound, sturdy, dependable. Yes, I'm through gambling. Fifteen cars have shown me that the way to real motoring satisfaction is at the wheel of a Buick."

See the new Buick Straight Eight for 1932 at the Automobile Show in the Coliseum, and at the General Motors Grand Showing, Stevens Hotel, January 30th to February 6th.

RUSSIA TO PLACE LIGHT INDUSTRY AHEAD OF REST

Fights to Free Self of Dependence on Imports.

MOSCOW, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Declaring that the soviets' main problem henceforward is material improvement of the population, Isadore Lubimof, newly appointed commissar of light industry, today told the 17th all-union communist conference that light industry must assume first place in the economic scheme.

Lubimof made the first official pronouncement that the emphasis must be shifted from heavy industry when he declared "decisive successes" already obtained in that quarter and in agriculture collectivization make this step possible. His department, among other activities, produces goods for home consumption.

Free of Import Dependence.

"We have all the possibilities of producing necessary equipment in soviet factories," he added stressing the necessity for freeing the country from dependence on foreign goods.

"Our imports of hides, amounting to $5,350,000 in 1930, have been stopped," he continued. "We will have almost freed ourselves of wool and cotton imports this year. Our production increased 12 2-10 per cent in 1931 over the preceding year, but still accomplished only 93 per cent of our program. This year we must increase this figure by 25.5 per cent for a total production of $4,961,000,000, or even attempt to exceed these figures to balance up the shortcomings of 1931. This year 1,106,000 workers out of our 16,000,000 industrial workers will be employed in light industry and the capital investment will be $210,000,000.

Hails Industrial Victories.

Lubimof's declaration illustrated the theme of government leaders in conference today that despite the unfulfillment of 1931's plans, the year marked great industrial victories.

G. K. Ordjonikidze, of the supreme economic council, blamed failure of the 1931 plans on bad work and poor transportation. He said that although less than half of the 45 per cent increase in industrial production had been attained, nevertheless it was 21 per cent over 1930, amounting to $13,500,000,000. This was divided principally among heavy industry, $5,000,000,000; light industry, $3,800,000,000; timber, $1,250,000,000, and food, $2,500,000,000.

In addition he said several branches of industry had completed the five year plan in three years, notably machine building, electro-technique, oil, and rubber. He said unemployment had been liquidated with 442,000 new workers in industry during 1931 and general salary increases amounted to 16 per cent.

WIFE PLEADS FOR PAROLE FOR FORMER PASTOR

Mrs. James A. Wilson, wife of the former pastor of the Mendota, Ill., Methodist church, appeared before the state board of pardons and paroles yesterday at the Joliet penitentiary to ask a parole for her husband. He entered the prison Feb. 9 last year to serve a sentence of from one to fourteen years for assault with intent to commit murder.

Wilson went to the home of Amos Elliott, sexton of his church, in an attempt to recover an allegedly compromising letter which he had written to a member of his flock. She had given the letter to the sexton's wife, Mrs. Wilhelmina Elliott, and the minister had been told that Elliott intended to turn it over to the church trustees. When he failed to recover the letter he shot the sexton and his wife, wounding them seriously.

Mrs. Wilson told the parole board that if released her husband would come to Chicago to live with her. The board will question the former minister later and take the case under advisement.

SOVIET RUSSIA IS ASSAILED BY UNION MINERS

Convention Advocates Job Insurance.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1. — [Special.]—Alleging subversive activities in the United States by the Russian soviet government, delegates at the thirty-second biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America here this afternoon adopted a resolution recommending that the soviet régime in Russia be recognized officially only after it has conceded to the United States government and American labor the right to manage their own affairs.

T. KENNEDY. [Paul Thompson.]

The resolution was one of several proposals submitted touching on Russia. The convention also adopted resolutions favoring unemployment insurance, government ownership of utilities, a ten per cent profit guaranty for farmers and federal and state laws protecting depositors in banks. The miners also went on record as favoring Philippine independence.

Call It Dictatorship.

The resolution pertaining to recognition of the soviet government said in part:

"The present government in Russia is a dictatorship, and those brave souls in Russia who are in favor of a real socialistic government are in jail and no person is permitted to speak against the present form of government. . . . The American labor movement is fought by the capitalists and the captains of American industry. The communists have joined forces with American capitalists in seeking to destroy the American labor movement and there is no question that this movement, like all movements of a similar nature, is fostered, directed, financed, and controlled from Russia. . . .

"We recognize the right of the American people to manage their own affairs without interference from Russia. . . . Until the soviet government recognizes this principle we cannot see the logic or the necessity of recognizing the soviet government."

Says Russians Undersell U. S.

Thomas Kennedy, international secretary treasurer, said he could "offer proof that Russian anthracite coal is mined and shipped four thousand miles to the port of Boston and then sold cheaper than the anthracite coal which is mined 160 miles away by union miners."

U.S. Court Begins Hearings on Length of Truck-Trailers

Hearing on a petition of the Contract Cartage company of Flint, Mich., to restrain the Illinois state highway commission from enforcing a measure limiting the length of trucks with semi-trailers to 35 feet began yesterday before Federal Judges Samuel Alschuler, Walter C. Lindley and Charles E. Woodward. The company contends that its trucks, which haul automobiles to Chicago, have superimposed trailers with a length of 60 feet and that the new ruling bars them, in alleged violation of the interstate commerce clause of the federal constitution.

Presses Bill to Restore Teeth of the Blue Sky Law

Rupert F. Bippus, state securities commissioner, will appear before the house judiciary committee at the special legislative session in Springfield today to urge the adoption of an amendment to the Illinois blue sky law to compel every securities broker and solicitor in the state to register with the secretary of state. Mr. Bippus will appear before the senate judiciary committee on Wednesday.

There is imperative need for immediate action on the bill if financial racketeers are to be prevented from taking many investors for a ride to the poorhouse, according to Mr. Bippus. Ever since the state Supreme court on Dec. 1 declared unconstitutional the section of the blue sky law providing registration of securities dealers under bond, eastern bucketeers and high pressure salesmen, he declared, have been coming to Chicago, eager to make a killing while time allows.

Racketeers Getting Ready.

"A section of the investing public is due for a fleecing unless this bill is passed," the commissioner said. "Our information is that the touts, dynamiters, and reloaders of financial racketeering are setting up their boiler rooms. We have had many complaints from Illinois and surrounding states and a few from as far away as South Dakota and New Mexico."

The "boiler room," Mr. Bippus explained, is the term for quarters equipped with a battery of head sets for long distance telephoning, and derives its name from the fact that there the high pressure is generated. "Touts" steer prospective victims to the racketeers. "Dynamiters" close big deals. "Reloaders" are those possessing special talent for interesting fleeced customers in another stock "to get their money back."

The securities commission has had three men patrolling La Salle street for the last two weeks in search of several notorious eastern sharpers, reported to have become active here since Dec. 1.

More Queries from Investors.

An indication of the increase of fake stock operators is found in the number of inquiries received by the Investors' guide department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The number of these inquiries has increased 30 per cent in the last two weeks.

The new bill, which Mr. Bippus drafted, has sufficient force to drive out the racketeers, he believes. It provides that each securities dealer and salesman, upon registration, must supply a detailed history of his business activities for the last ten years, stating under oath whether he has ever been arrested or involved in a financial swindle. The registration fee is $25.

The measure lacks one important feature which the old law possessed. This was the provision requiring each security dealer to put up a bond of $2,000 to $50,000, its size to be fixed by the secretary of state in accordance with the applicant's volume of business. The state Supreme court held that fixing the size of the bond was a legislative function, which could not be delegated to an executive official.

"The bond provision was highly important in that it enabled any victim of a bucketeer to sue and collect on the bonds," said Mr. Bippus.

The new measure, the commissioner said, has a provision making the securities house doubly liable on a customer's loss when fraud is proved. Income from the $25 registration fees will provide the commission with an estimated $40,000 a year, a sum sufficient for its operating expenses. The measure is being sponsored by Senator James J. Barbour and Representative Elmer Schnackenberg.

How the Racket Works.

For the benefit of investors, at present unprotected by the law, Mr. Bippus explained some of the newer schemes of the bucketeers and "boiler houses."

"The house buys a suckers' list containing thousands of names, mostly of clergymen, physicians, dentists, widows, and others likely to be unfamiliar with business practices. The house offers the sucker some 'very valuable' information if he will only sign and return an inclosed card.

"Then the dynamiters begin their with telephone calls to the sucker.

"He pays for the first few shares. Then the reloader comes into the picture. Even if the investor says he has no more money to invest the reloader tells him he may use the stock previously purchased as collateral.

"Upon sending his stock in to be used as collateral the sucker receives a confirmation for a large additional amount of the stock. This process continues until a great number of suckers have been hooked. Then the operators of the pool, who have been manipulating the stock upward on some small exchange, pull the plug, and the stock immediately crashes."

Young British Author Talks About Work

So Sylvia Thompson Has New Book, Too.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Summers Night," by Sylvia Thompson. [Little-Brown. Published today.

ALMOST simultaneously with the publication of her latest novel the author of "The Hounds of Spring" visited Chicago. Sylvia Thompson was here part of this week and the week before that lecturing. She is so unusually good to look at that everywhere she lectured some one called attention to the fact that dumbness and beauty were proved by her presence to be not always synonymous.

In one talk that Miss Thompson gave she quoted her literary agent as saying the difference between most American and most English novels was that the English novels were usually written very well and were technically skillful, but they lacked vitality, while American novels in almost every case had an amazing vitality but were badly written and were not technically good. Miss Thompson said she agreed with him, and she thought most American novels amazingly and thrillingly vital. The novelist whom she found almost more exciting than any other, she said, was John Dos Passos, and she was surprised to find that most of her audience did not know "Manhattan Transfer."

Although Miss Thompson's latest novel is not in any sense like the work of John Dos Passos, her speaking of him interested me greatly after I had read her new novel, for there are moments in it which are definitely done under the influence of the impressionistic school of writing (of which "Manhattan Transfer" is as good an example as any in our modern American literature.) What she said about English novels in contrast to American novels also took on a more vivid meaning when I had finished "Summers Night," for the reader feels very definitely in that novel the excellence of the technique, the skill and beauty and charm of the writing, just as he feels a certain lack of gripping vitality in it. The people are "types."

An artist who has been brought up as a favored child by a mother who was in her day the toast of the town—and the country—and who retains her power of attraction for old, young, stangers, and (not too close) friends throughout her life.

A new-rich Jewish peer and his wife who think that culture is purchasable; their Follies chorus girl daughter-in-law, and their very nice daughter.

Every one in the book is a type that amuses and interests you in passing, but does not grip you at all or make you take him or her into that very private friendship which readers do have with characters in books. "Summers Night" is everything that its young author said English novels usually are—and aren't.

Miss Thompson is not a type, but an individual, and one not afraid of acknowledging her literary enthusiasms. To her Virginia Woolf is the greatest creative novelist writing in England today.

"'The Waves,' Virginia Woolf's latest novel has riven families and friendships and cemented others," Miss Thompson said, "Every one in London thinks it either mad or a revelation. I confess that to me it is a revelation."

To many English writers Virginia Woolf is the high priestess of modern letters. Most of them are influenced or hope to be influenced by her work. Miss Thompson shows no Woolf-like traits in her novels. That, it seems to me, marks her as a genuine admirer of something which she has brilliantly seen is not her field. Thus far her field has been the skillful portrayal of English types in their typical environment—mostly of the pleasantly upper burgoise order. In "Summers Night" there is a good deal of gilt overlay of the environment, but never mistaken, in Miss Thompson's clear eyed vision, for gold.

Another visitor to Chicago recently who disclaimed the beautiful but dumb theory was Miss Margaret Bourke-White, who is primarily a photographer, but who became a few months ago an author when she published "Eyes on Russia" [Simon & Schuster]. Miss Bourke-White is one of the most amazing young Americans I have ever met. She is, I believe, only four years out of college, and in that time she has become one of the leading industrial photographers of the world. She writes the saga of great industries with the lens of her camera. She was invited to Russia by the soviet government to chronicle the results of the five year plan. That chronicle with a text which she wrote herself, was published just before Christmas with the title "Eyes on Russia."

In it she is not wholly uncritical of the soviet régime, but official U. S. S. R. likes her book, she told me when she was here, because in it she did not laugh at them. They will allow criticism—in fact they ask for it—she said, but they will not permit ridicule. The story of Margaret Bourke-White's adventurous life is a saga in itself, which begins in Cleveland O. some twenty-five years ago, and jumps hither and yon around the globe.

New England Adams Claims Ancient Doors

Traveler Reclaims Relics of Famous Family.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Old London is gradually disappearing. In Gray's Inn square, where there are still some very fine examples of the Adams brothers architecture, several buildings are in the course of demolition.

From these buildings the doorways have been removed and are awaiting shipment to Boston, Mass. This is the result of the wanderings of a New Englander, last summer, among the homes of his ancestors. He saw the demolition notices on the Adams houses and immediately arranged to purchase the doorways.

Two more of London's great houses are also to be closed up. Further west from Gray's Inn, in the more aristocratic neighborhood of Mayfair, the homes of the duke of Wellington and the earl of Ellesmere are no longer to be used for one or two months each year. Their doors will be closed forever.

Apsley house, the home of the duke of Wellington, contains many priceless relics of the first duke. These are kept in the Waterloo room. The present duke, who is also the duke of Victoria and the marques of Torres Vedras in the peerage of Spain, is reported to have lost a considerable amount of money which was invested in that country, as a result of the recent disturbances. Among the possessions of the duke of Wellington is the roll of honor of the whole Wellesley family, which contains more than sixty names of that family and their collaterals who fell in the great war.

Lord Ellesmere's home, Bridgewater house, contains some of the finest paintings in London, although the public is never allowed to see them. The present earl inherited the house, which is situated in the most exclusive hundred yards of street in London, from the last duke of Bridgewater. The latter made and lost a fortune over the eighteenth century Bridgewater canal.

Lady Ellesmere's own family home, Lambton castle in Durham, was closed a few months ago, also for financial reasons.

Canadian, Decorated by Lincoln in Civil War, Dies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 1.—Newton Wolverton, native born Canadian who was decorated by Abraham Lincoln for bravery in the civil war, died here today at the age of 86. Wolverton left Canada and enlisted with the northern forces at 15. He later became a captain. When Lincoln was assassinated, Wolverton helped to trail John Wilkes Booth with whom he was acquainted. He was one of the first senators of the University of British Columbia. Alice Wolverton, a daughter, lives in Vineland, N. J.

MELLON INTERESTS GIVE OVER MILLION FOR PUBLIC CHARITIES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The Mellon family, personally and by companies in which that family is interested, gave a total of $1,133,154.60 to charity in the joint campaign of the Welfare Fund and Emergency association. That was revealed today. The extent of the Mellon subscription was learned when announcement was made of the names of donors of the $750,000 conditional gift which enabled the sums to reach its quota.

More than half of the total amount of subscriptions by the Mellons and companies with which members of the family are affiliated was made up in personal donations by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and his brother, R. B. Mellon, who jointly gave $600,000. W. L. Mellon personally gave $80,000.

Only one of the hitherto unnamed donors of the conditional gift remained anonymous. His total subscription was $150,000.

Amount of their conditional gifts and previous gifts follow:

	Condition Gift.	Prev. Gift.
A. W., R. B. Mellon	$300,000.00	$300,000.00

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 1.—The new film "Freaks," about which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was concerned because of some of the weird and horrible scenes, was "tried out on the dog" at a series of audiences in San Diego over the week-end, and didn't strike the fans there as being so horrible at all. Now, Director Tod Browning is going to have to undo some of the soft pedaling which the studio itself ordered in some of the stronger scenes, and will put some of the 'smash" stuff back into the negative where it had been yanked out.

John Miljan already has been used in some new scenes for the picture.

Howard Hughes, producer, and his director, Eddie Sutherland, were victims of one of the latest of Hollywood's continuous practical jokes. The pair flew to the location spot where their company making "The Lost Squadron" has been turning out its sky shots. Swooping down over the company, Hughes and Sutherland did a loop and settled to the ground. One of the men in the company happened to be a deputy sheriff, and he ran over to the alighting bosses, and arrested them for reckless flying. It was some few moments before Hughes and Sutherland realized they had been framed.

Theda Bara and her husband, Charlie Brabin, director, were among those sighted at the recent dinner dance of the Embassy club. Theda, as always, continues to dress in white.

Roland Young explains his absence from Hollywood parties thus: "Several years ago I fell sick of sleeping sickness. I found myself falling sound asleep at 10 o'clock every night, no matter what surroundings or what company. So after much embarrassment I got in the habit of not going out late at night." Although Young says he is now cured of the sickness, his explanation has gone over with a succession of would be hosts and hostesses.

Polly Walters, a demure brunette from New York whom Warners brought from the stage and used in nine pictures in 1931, has had her contract bought up by Radio, who hope to use her in nine or ten more this year.

Elinor Kingston, Natalie's younger sister, is breaking in via the comedies. She's been working at the Educational short subject studio in a mermaid comedy, "It's a Cinch," whose director is Fatty Arbuckle.

George Brent, the strapping young Irishman of the Abbey players of Dublin, whom Warner Brothers recently imported, made an instantaneous hit, at least with Ruth Chatterton. Brent was cast as her leading man for "The Rich Are Always with Us," and Ruth said "He's the best leading man I've worked with in Hollywood." If the fans think as well of him after seeing the film, Mr. Brent's future is secure. He works next with Barbara Stanwyck in the remake of the old Colleen Moore silent success, "So Big."

Lew Bryce, Fanny's brother, took a film test recently and wise cracked, "I'm a regular Jewish Cagney, I am."

The joke is that Cagney often is mistaken for a Jew, as he grew up in a section of New York City where he learned Yiddish, which he speaks fluently. As a matter of fact, any one who couldn't converse in Yiddish would have been inarticulate in Cagney's home neighborhood, and no Irishman—which Cagney is—couldn't stand that for long. The Jews consider Cagney as one of their own people out here.

Herb Somborn, Loretta Young's new beau, was seen dining and dancing with her three or four times in the last week. Herb is Gloria Swanson's No. 2.

Architect Selects Bride by Portrait; Marry Today

Los Angeles, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Eighteen months ago Carl Christian Lindbrom, architect, saw a portrait of Rosanna Roosevelt Bleeker in the studio of an artist friend.

"That is the woman I am going to marry," Lindbrom predicted. Tomorrow night at his home he will marry Miss Bleeker, who is a cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

The portrait will be given them as a wedding present.

Old Conquest Comes to End Within Church

Revived Lettish State Upsets German Rule.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Feb. 1.—The famous Dom church built by German conquerors of the Lettish tribes in 1211 and occupied for twenty-nine generations by German worshipers, has just passed into the hands of the Letts because the German congregation numbering 12,000 decided to abandon the premises to their former serfs.

The fight for possession of the church which began during the elections of the Latvian parliament aroused bitter national hatreds latent for years. The Germans, who for centuries refused to recognize the Letts as their equals, are now being oppressed.

When the Letts won the war of independence in 1919 they designated the German built city of Riga as their capital. Of the three largest and oldest churches, Dom, St. Peter's, and St. Jacob's, they decided to give the Roman Catholics St. Jacob's in return for Vatican support of their claims to independence. All three churches were occupied by German congregations. Only one, St. Jacob's, had a subordinate congregation of Letts, which, following Catholic occupation, was transferred to Dom. The German worshipers retained their pastor and moved to St. Peter's.

When the national referendum in September failed to give the necessary votes sanctioning confiscation the Lettish cabinet decreed reorganization of the church, placing in charge a board of eleven members consisting of three members from the new Lettish congregation from the Riga garrison, three from the former St. Jacob's Lettish congregation, three from the German congregation, one appointed by the Lutheran synod and one chosen by the war ministry.

After holding a few meetings the Germans decided to vacate. During the meetings Latvian censors confiscated several editions of Berlin newspapers which denounced the "church robbery" which has aroused intense indignation both in Germany and in other Baltic countries.

Russian Players to Sing, Dance at Field's Today

The cast of Yascha Yushny's Russian revue, "The Blue Bird," will give a program of Russian songs and dances today at a musical tea in the Walnut room of the Marshall Field & Co department store under the auspices of the Association for Chicago Study and Adult Education. Carleton Smith will lecture on Russian music in connection with the program.

U. OF MICHIGAN ENDS FIGHT; GETS MILLIONS FOR LAW SCHOOL

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The millions willed by the late William E. Cook to the law school of the University of Michigan, from which he graduated, were freed for immediate use today through an order signed by Surrogate James A. Foley.

Cook's divorced wife [who sought a widow's share in his estate of $11,300,000 by attempting to prove the divorce invalid] and his nephew, John P. Wood, were given $160,000 in settlement of their claims.

It was said the claim was thus settled because the University of Michigan wished to begin immediate use of the trust fund created to provide new buildings and larger faculty.

The university receives the entire residuary estate. Cook died June 6, 1930, and the will was probated a month later. Mrs. Cook, who had been divorced from him for thirty years, filed a claim.

Italy Will Honor Bishop Sheil at Ceremony Tonight

The Order of the Crown will be conferred tonight upon the Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, D. D., V. G., auxiliary bishop of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, by the king of Italy, through Guiseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general. The honor will be awarded at a dinner at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

The decoration will be given to Bishop Sheil, it was explained, in recognition of his work among thousands of Chicago's underprivileged youth through the medium of the Catholic Youth organization of which he is director general. More than 500 persons will attend the dinner. They will include Italian leaders, judges, Knights of St. Gregory, and the entire staff of the Catholic Youth organization.

500 Attend First of 18 Talks on Making Gardens

More than 500 persons yesterday attended the first lecture of a series of 18 to be presented in the next six weeks by the Garfield park conservatory staff. The garden enthusiasts at the initial class listened to Frank K. Balthis give a talk on "A Garden of Perennials."

More than 200 were turned away because of lack of seating space in the conservatory lecture room. August Koch, chief florist, announced he had made arrangements to present the next lecture in the more spacious Garfield park refectory, two blocks south of Lake street on Washington boulevard.

R. T. Van Tress, landscape architect, will present the subject of "Shade Trees." Sixteen other lectures are scheduled between now and March 10.

Hungry Pupils' Lunch Fund Almost Gone

Rations Are Decreased at Several Schools.

With scarcely enough money in the Hungry School Children's fund for this week, teachers were diminishing the number of free lunches in several schools yesterday.

At Healy school less than a third of the food allowance that had been given in December and the fore part of January was received, making necessary the feeding only of the hungrier among the undernourished pupils. Many who have been fed in past months by the fund were sent home with the hope of finding at least a partial lunch.

If the next three weeks can be weathered by generous contributions enough money should be raised by the Washington bi-centennial benefit dance at the Arragon and Trianon ballroom to tide the fund over into March. Many business and civic organizations already have made plans to attend the benefit, which promises to be the gayest event on the bi-centennial program. Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, said yesterday that nearly all the employés of the club already have purchased tickets for the benefit.

Contributions that arrived yesterday follow:

$25—Mary H. Pond.
$15—The employés of the National Acceptance company.
$10.50—The F. R. M. P.'s.
$10—W. D.
$5—Evelyn Steinberg, in memory of her father; Vauna Metzenberg, Anonymous.
$3—E. S. S.
$2.50—Ella F. Miley.
$2—Ruth P. Derebey, Anonymous, H. J. Norgaard, M. B., Anonymous, Anonymous.
$1—Mrs. S. E. Spence, Joseph Schwartz, Esther Lakin.

Total	$ 96.00
Previously acknowledged	34,030.12
Grand total	$34,126.12

Contributions should be sent to the Hungry School Children's fund in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In the obituary printed yesterday, Mrs. Janet Richardson Herriott, who died on Sunday, was described as the widow of David Herriott. David Herriott still is living.

THE STAGE

BULLETINS from the "Ziegfeld Follies" came thick and fast over the week-end. On Sunday, this was to be its last week at the Illinois, but Mr. Ziegfeld promptly changed his mind. The great revue will stay two weeks longer, or until Feb. 13. It will be followed at the Illinois by "The Band Wagon," opening Feb. 22, with Fred and Adele Astaire, Frank Morgan, and Helen Broderick as leaders of the cast.

The "Follies" will give a benefit matinée tomorrow afternoon. The proceeds of the performance will be donated to the Actors' Fund of America, the official charity of the theatrical profession.

Fred Stone, in his latest musical comedy vehicle, called "Smiling Faces," will be an early spring attraction of the Chicago stage. The engagement will be given in one of the Shubert theaters. Mr. Stone's company includes Paula Stone, Roy Royston, Lotti Loder, Billy Taylor and Doris Patson. "Smiling Faces" will appear in Chicago prior to its New York première.

The principal event of the week on the Broadway stage will be the première of a new play about Lincoln, called "If Booth Had Missed," which is scheduled for next Thursday night at the Royale theater. Its story depicts what might have happened if Lincoln had lived to carry out his program of reconstruction.

President Lincoln will be acted by Daniel Poole, a recruit from the field of dramatic readers who happens to look the part. Other historical characters and their interpreters in the cast are: Gen. Grant, Aubrey Beattie; Secretary Stanton, Royal Dana Tracy; John Wilkes Booth, Fred Eric; Mrs. Jefferson Davis, Charlotte Walker.

The engagement of Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra" at the Blackstone theater, beginning Feb. 15, will be for three weeks only. The curtain will rise on the trilogy at 5:30. There will be a dinner interval between 7 and 8 p. m. The third play ends about 11:30.

Guthrie McClintic has acquired from Jed Harris the American rights to "Je t'Attendais" ["I Was Waiting for You"], which was one of the great successes of the Paris season of 1929. Jacques Natanson is the author, and Melville Baker the adaptor. It's a comedy. C. C.

HIGH SCHOOLS LIST MORE PUPILS THAN SAME TIME IN 1931

With the opening of the second semester yesterday, public school executives predicted an enrollment larger than last semester's 489,000. The increase was confined principally to junior and senior high schools, according to Superintendent William J. Bogan. No increase is expected in the elementary grades.

The senior high school enrollment yesterday was 97,200 as compared with 95,126 a year ago, according to Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent. Junior high school enrollment yesterday reached 41,766 as compared with 37,191 in February, 1931. Increases were noted particularly at Austin, Lane, Lindblom, Marshall and Schurz, Mr. Buck said. Additional registrations are expected during the remainder of the week.

"I am glad so many boys and girls are utilizing their opportunity for improving themselves. Education is cheapest in times like these. And those who avail themselves of it not only prepare themselves for better times in the future but they avoid adding themselves to the present burden of unemployment."

Longest Daytime Skirt in 10 Years Displayed in Paris

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The fashion-conscious today had a look at the longest daytime skirt seen in Paris in ten years. Chanel exhibited frocks six to seven inches from the ground. They were long-skirted dresses, not tea party gowns.

The creations were simple black and navy wools and marocains with long sleeves and straight skirts gently flared below the knee.

Beach pajamas also appeared revolutionary since they were accompanied by a square piece of wool buttoned over the trousers like a skirt. The same piece also could be used as a cape.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Regular Army Thin Skeleton, Women Told

Legion Chief Speaks at Washington.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Buy Uncle Sam a good gun; he won't use it out of turn.

This, in substance, was the keynote of the opening session of the seventh women's patriotic conference on national defense which was called to order tonight by its chairman, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

It was Henry L. Stevens Jr., national commander of the American Legion, who urged the women to see that congress bought the gun; and it was Secretary of Labor Doak who argued that Uncle Sam knew the proper, that is, he explained, the defensive use of a gun.

Protesting against the paring down of army appropriations Commander Stevens said ruefully:

"And the poor old regular army, it is simply reduced to the point where they are only a group of highly trained technicians; and the National Guard, if you please, has become America's first line of defense."

Regular army men, he declared, were once the bulwarks of national defense, but they have now turned into technical instructors and in another war would become the higher commanders and army professors, with the army drawn from the people.

After protesting any possible cut in army appropriations as a catastrophe that "would demoralize the entire National Guard from Maine to California," he urged the women to go to congress, "not as militaristic women, but as peace loving," and to demand preparedness.

The American Legion, its commander maintained, is not asking for a big navy but an adequate one. Scornfully he referred to the time, "only 8 or 9 years ago, when our great American fleet was taken out to sea and literally scuttled."

"Now we are 20 per cent behind the program of the London treaty," he told the delegates. "Remember, too, that in the construction of every battleship 80 per cent goes toward labor and such construction would help relieve the unemployment situation."

Using for a text the thought that "anything worth defending ought to be defended," Secretary Doak ridiculed the man who believes "it is better to let somebody go ahead and loot rather than to offend him" as both weak kneed and weak minded.

"There are some people in our country," the secretary declared, "in fact, a good many of them, who, despite the dictionaries, insist on interpreting the word 'defense' as meaning 'offense.'

"Their interpretation of defense is that a rifle for the protection of our homes means a rifle for use in a foray in some other country. It is extremely difficult to learn the reason for this mental attitude; and an extremely difficult job to reason them out of it."

Japanese Dancer and Musicians Please Chicago Hearers

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THE Yoshida trio and Miss Mitsumi Bando, the dancer, who gave a private showing here several weeks ago and have been touring hither and yon ever since, were back in Chicago again last night for another recital at Kimball hall, this time under the auspices of the local chapter of Pro-Musica.

They are a fascinating organization. Japanese music begins to open a new viewpoint or two. You hear Mr. Yoshida breathing melody out of his bamboo flute. It is a scale with which you are not acquainted, and you may think that at times he is overblowing, but it is a legitimate part of Japanese musical art. Miss Chiba sings, again in intervals that are unaccustomed to your ear, and at times, though not always, she grows nasal. Again you are told that this is a legitimate part of Japanese singing. Mme. Yoshida and Miss Chiba play the koto, a supine harp of thirteen strings. It is not a tune, not even a manner with which you are familiar. But somehow it all begins to get to you.

As for Miss Bando, she is utterly charming. You regret that your past education has not brought you to Japanese conventions and symbols. You can find nothing in her movements and postures to indicate a priest killed by the spirit of his dead love, but you are fascinated by the design of the dance, the poses, the tiny hands, and the utterly impassive little face. In fact, you come away with a distinct feeling that there is something in the Japanese arts of music and the dance that will repay close study just as soon as you can take five or ten years off for the purpose.

Paul Robeson, he of the gorgeous voice, came to Orchestra hall last night for a song recital of Negro music, spirituals and secular music. On this appearance he was assisted by Justin Sandridge, a pianist with expertly trained hands and an excellent idea of how to use them on the music of Chopin, Brahms, Liszt, and several others. Principally, however, there is a vivid memory of Mr. Robeson's voice, how it held and projected a melodic phrase, how expressive it became in timing and coloring, how every word came from the stage to the audience as plainly as though it had been spoken.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

As I have often repeated in this column, the exit play in contract bridge is one of the most important features in the game. And yesterday's play-a-problem was one of the most beautiful examples of this play that I have seen in many a month. This was the hand:

	NORTH
	♠—K,9,8,4,3
	♥—K,7,6
	♦—K,J,9
	♣—9,4
WEST (Dealer)		EAST
♠—A,7,2		♠—J,5
♥—A,Q,8		♥—5,4,3
♦—A,Q,4		♦—7,5,2
♣—K,7,6,5		♣—A,Q,10,8,3
	SOUTH
	♠—Q,10,6
	♥—J,10,9,2
	♦—10,8,6,3
	♣—J,2

West dealt and bid two no-trumps. North passed. East took out with three clubs, South passed. West bid three no-trumps and all passed.

North opened the ♠ 4, dummy played the 5, South the 10, and West the 2. South led back the ♠ Q, which West captured with the A. West now led the ♣ 5 to dummy's Q and then led back dummy's ♣ A. Next dummy led the ♣ 3, which West took with the ♣ K. West now led the ♠ 7, which was taken by North with the ♠ 8. North then proceeded to take his ♠ K and ♠ 9. To the ninth trick North led the ♥ K, which West captured with the A. West then led the ♣ 7 to dummy's ♣ 8. Dummy returned the ♣ 10, on which West discarded the ♦ Q. To the twelfth trick dummy led the ♦ 5, which West took with the A, and on the thirteenth trick West took in his ♥ Q, making his three-odd and the game.

West deliberately came in on the second round of spades in order to keep his 7 as a card of exit.

West can see if he takes his finesse in either red suit and loses the finesse that North can then take in the remainder of his spades and set the contract.

To be sure of his contract West must make North lead one of the two red suits to him. Should West have taken out his five rounds of clubs, North could have defeated the contract by burying one of his kings and then have West take that finesse and lose it to him.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S, 3, H. K. etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Send your bridge problems to Charles True Adams, The Chicago Tribune; inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Mrs. Zaring Again Heads Service Club

Mrs. John Dern II. Is 1st Vice President.

At the annual luncheon meeting of the Service club yesterday at the Drake hotel Mrs. Stanley Zaring was reelected president of the organization for another two-year term. The new officers include Mrs. John Dern II., first vice president; Mrs. John I. Shaw, second vice president; Mrs. Leslie B. Olmsted, recording secretary; Miss Roberta Harvey, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, treasurer.

Because the affairs of the club are in such good order the occasion was really more of a love feast than a business session. Speechmaking was mercifully brief, and no mention of business was made at all until the members had finished their coffee and cigarets at the conclusion of the long, chatty luncheon.

Mrs. Zaring, of course, was given a rising vote of thanks for her work during the term just ended, and there were appreciative mentions of the other retiring officers. Among the most pertinent bits of information gathered from the various brief reports were the facts that the club has taken in 46 new members (most of them debutantes of this winter) and that its finances are in excellent shape. The earnings of the annual Service club revue last fall have been distributed as usual to the charities the organization assists annually.

Others at the Speakers' Table.

Besides Mrs. Zaring, those at the speakers' table included Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., Miss Margaret Emily Lynde, Mrs. Charles H. Conrad, Miss Letitia Channon, and Miss Frances Weary. Among others attending were Miss Katrina Mauff and Mrs. Robert McKenna, who presided over the cash and tickets at the entrance; Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, who looked outstandingly smart in a soft gray wool dress and matching rolled turban; Miss Florence Carr, in a black frock and gray hat; Mrs. John Dern, in a black satin frock with wide white lapels; Mrs. Tracy Turner Jr., Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., Miss Eleanor McNally, Miss Margaret Carr, and Mrs. Orville Taylor.

The new board of directors includes Mrs. Owen West, Mrs. Robert Hoffman (Emily Pope), Mrs. John Beadle, Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., Miss Dorothy Morton, Miss Letitia Channon, Miss Anne Elizabeth Walsh, Miss Jane Willett, Miss Margaret Emily Lynde, Miss Imogene Bucklin, Miss Florence Carr, and Miss Alice Bremner.

Casino Club Program Set for Feb. 11.

The Casino is to have one of its rare club programs for its own members on Thursday, the 11th. Marion Kerby, assisted by John P. Niles, will present a program of Negro spirituals. The musical will not begin until 9 o'clock, so there will be plenty of time for dinners beforehand.

The Antiquarian society of the Art institute has cards out for an illustrated lecture by Dr. Phyllis Ackerman on "Tapestry and History" Wednesday morning, Feb. 10, at 11 o'clock in the Goodman Studio theater.

Mrs. Stanley Field and her daughters, Mrs. Clifford Rodman and Mrs. Russell P. Kelley, and the Rodman and Kelley children are leaving today for the Fields' winter residence at Sarasota, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. James Minotto have returned to their ranch in Arizona after a visit with Mrs. Minotto's many relatives [she was Ida May Swift] and friends. They came to Chicago especially for the wedding of Mrs. Minotto's young cousin, Miss Hortense Henry, and Gordon P. Kelley on Jan. 16, who just left yesterday on their wedding trip, having remained in Chicago after their marriage on account of the serious illness and subsequent death of his father, William V. Kelley. Gordon Kelley and his attractive little bride have gone to Miami and will spend six weeks or two months in the south.

The James R. Offields have given up the cruise to the south seas and the orient which they planned to start on tomorrow from Los Angeles because of the death of Mrs. Offield's father, William Wrigley Jr., and they are expected to return to Chicago this week.

P. D. Armours Plan Trip to Bermuda.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour are planning to take their children to Bermuda for a spring vacation in March. The Lester Armours have made no plans for a trip this winter or spring yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Fox have returned to their Wheaton residence, where such jolly week-end parties are given all during the nice weather, after a week's visit with the William A. Yagers of 1430 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers will leave Saturday to join Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson on the Gadfly for a cruise and incidentally, some deep sea fishing which the men of the two families enjoy almost more than any other feature of their winter vacations.

The Valentine C. Bartletts will leave about March 1 for a trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick have left for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Charles Deering, at Miami, and a cruise to Havana and Nassau with Richard Howe.

Mrs. Leeds Mitchell and her father, Albert M. Day, are wintering at Daytona Beach in Florida and will remain there until about Easter time.

Mrs. Gardiner G. Hammond and Miss Elizabeth Drake have returned from visits in Boston and New York.

Junior Friends of Art Meet Today.

The Junior Friends of Art are not postponing their meeting today because of the recent death of their president's mother Mrs. Lola Menn, since the meeting is a closed one and they thought Miss Olga Menn would rather they would go ahead with it as planned. Mrs. Andrew R. Sherriff is to sing a group of songs and Julian Arnold will talk on "Royalties I Have Known." After the program tea will be served.

Miss Olga Menn has been president of the organization since it was founded by her some years ago and her mother was well known to all the young women who belong to the Junior Friends of Art and beloved and admired by them all for her unfailing graciousness and kindness of manner and spirit. All who enjoyed her hospitality in the Menn residence at 1832 Lincoln avenue, which is like a bit of old Vienna transplanted, will remember the feasts of good food and of good music which were planned for the entertainment of the guests on all occasions.

STUFFED PORK TENDERLOIN.

Make a dressing of 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon sage, small onion, cut fine, salt, butter, and a little milk. Have the tenderloin split through the middle lengthwise so that a pocket is made, and rub the inside with pepper and salt. Stuff the dressing into the pocket, sew the opening and bake until tender, about an hour. Serve with a tart jelly and garnish with parsley.

One of Five Last British Veterans of Civil War Dies

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—A. W. Fraser Smith, one of the five last British veterans of the American civil war, was buried today in Wandsworth cemetery in London. He was 85 years old and had been secretary of the United States Civil War Veterans' association of Great Britain since its organization. An American flag was carried at the grave today by C. L. E. Wright, also 85 years old. He was the only one of the four survivors able to attend.

CONTROL OF BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE IS SOLD TO A GROUP OF MEN

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The controlling interest in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle was bought today by a group of Brooklyn men headed by M. Preston Goodfellow, who has been publisher of the paper for almost three years, and Harris M. Crist, for many years the managing editor and treasurer of the Eagle.

The announcement of the sale was made by Frank E. Tripp, vice president and general manager of the Gannett Company, Inc., of which Frank E. Gannett is president. Mr. Gannett bought the Eagle three years ago and operated it through his company as one of his chain of seventeen newspapers.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The countess of Suffolk will start for Long Key, Fla., tomorrow for a cruise and fishing trip.

Mrs. H. Edward Manville will sail for Europe this week to join her son-in-law and daughter, Count and Countess Folke Bernadotte, in Paris and go later to the Riviera.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Salmon and Miss Lois Salmon, who were at Brookville, L. I., until late in the winter, are passing the remainder of the winter at their residence in Charleston, S. C., which they purchased several months ago from Mrs. James Adger Smyth.

Mrs. S. Lawrence Miller gave a luncheon today in honor of Miss Sarah Elizabeth Rodger, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Aldrich Rodger.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman Nickerson, who divide their time between New York and their country place, at Oyster Bay, have purchased from Mrs. Pierre Lorillard her former city residence on East Sixty-eighth street for occupancy as their future city home.

Consul's Wife Talks of Teas, Friendly Chats

Mrs. Hugo F. Simon Leads Corps Here.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

WHAT are the official duties of a consul's wife? To entertain and to be entertained, says Mrs. Hugo Ferdinand Simon, who has had as much practice, perhaps, in balancing a cup of tea, two lettuce sandwiches, and a piece of cake on one knee while engaging in a sprightly conversation, as any person in town.

By virtue of Dr. Simon's five years as the official representative of the German government in this city, Mrs. Simon shares his position as dean of the consular corps. Although the social life of any one of Chicago's 50 consuls is purely a voluntary matter, few days pass without the arrival of some distinguished countryman or an invitation from one of our city's hostesses.

"But these are duties and really pleasant ones," said Mrs. Simon, who extends the hospitality of her Berry avenue apartment to all nationalities without prejudice. Among the decorations, most of which were brought from Germany, is an oil painting by the Dutch artist DeJong that dates back to 1600. It has passed from one generation to the next in the Simon family, as have several etchings on bronze done in the early eighteenth century by Mrs. Simon's great-great-grandfather. He was Daniel Chodowiecki, a famous German painter whose works hang in the national gallery in Berlin.

"Strengthening friendships among the various nationalities will go a long way to avoid another world war," Mrs. Simon explained. "The consuls can and must do their part to promote such an understanding. This is the reason we do so much entertaining and include Americans with such guests as Hjalmar Schacht, German banker, and Gen. Von Blomberg, one of the five commanding officers in Germany."

Entertain Stars of Grand Opera.

During the opera season each year the consuls enjoy fêting the artists of their own nationality who have won acclaim on this continent. The debut last fall of the young star, Serafina di Leo, carried with a particular thrill for Sig. and Signora Giuseppe Castruccio. They have served the Italian government in Chicago for more than four years. Signora Castruccio, who has been forced to return home frequently on account of her health and will leave the city again next month, is the daughter of a former Austro-Hungarian ambassador to Italy.

Tomorrow members of the consular corps will welcome M. and Mme. Rene Weiller, who are coming to assume the post left vacant by Charles de Ferry de Fontnouvelle, now French consul general in New York. Other recent arrivals in the city's official circle include W. Zbyszewski of Poland, who served his country as consul in Jerusalem during the Arab uprisings against Jews, and the Kimuras from Japan, already known for menus that offer interesting dishes from the orient. Godfrey Haggard has represented English interests here since 1929.

An Informal Group Often in Session.

Strange as it may seem, the wives of Chicago's consuls have never organized an official club among themselves. But neither have the consuls, the reason, perhaps, for no "Tuesday sewing circle."

The nearest approach to such a group is the monthly gathering of some of the "Ladies of the Consuls," sponsored by Mrs. Berthold Singer. Mr. Singer is an honorary consul representing Costa Rican and Nicaraguan interests here. There are, you know, two "species" of consul, professional or career and honorary.

This noon the "Ladies of the Consuls" will gather for luncheon and bridge at the Illinois Woman's Athletic club.

The Latest

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The social season in Paris is ending in a blaze of formal parties. These affairs bring out the best of Paris evening gowns and cloaks, and the choice made by society's favorite daughters has a great influence on what the French dressmakers will show for spring.

One fashion feature to get the O. K. of the fashionable world is the trainless formal evening frock. While certain women continue to wear trailing evening gowns, many of them are choosing dresses that just touch the floor or barely escape it.

Another mode to be approved by society is that for the colored dress for formal wear, instead of white. Vionnet's palest blue and Lelong's pale rose are two shades that are being worn for formal evenings.

The silhouette of the formal frock is invariably the molded sheath, unflared as to skirt. The Lelong dress shown in our sketch today will show it in its perfection. This frock was made by Lucien Lelong for Princesse Henri XXXIII. de Reuss, the former Mrs. Anson Burchard of New York. It is pale pink in color and the material is a heavy satin.

The dress just touches the floor, falling in soft folds due to circular cutting.

The princess line of the frock is unbroken in front, and at the back of the waistline there is a crossed closing under sunray tucks. Through a slit at the left side a long sash with one loop is pulled. This sash is lined with a rich, sapphire blue satin.

Warmer Days Are Enjoyed at Art Show

Mexican and California Scenes Portrayed.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE Chicago Galleries association, 220 North Michigan avenue, is opening today one of the most brilliant exhibitions of its career. Grant Wood, Gerald Cassidy, Irma René Koen, Orrin A. White, Dixie Selden and Oscar E. Berninghaus are the painters who make its success. It is a diversified show, including portraits, still life and landscape.

Orrin White is one of the older painters, and comes from California, or if he does not come from there then most of his paintings do and deal with California subjects, such as the glorious purple peaks of the Rockies, though in this particular exhibit several of his most beautiful paintings are of scenes in Mexico. "Spring Hillsides" is a lovely, hazy mountain composition. "Street in Taxo" and "Village of Taxo" are Mexican and fascinating in their subtle interplay of color and object.

Both Gerald Cassidy and Oscar Berninghaus find beauty and color in the land about Taos. Their paintings are among the most vivid and picturesque in the exhibit. You will go many a mile before discovering such a perfect canvas as "Returning Hunter" of Berninghaus, for example, or his equally virile and decisive "Crowd at Horse Race, Taos," and "Indians Threshing Wheat." You will go far before finding the equal of Gerald Cassidy's paintings of the desert, or of such canvases, for instance, as the portrait, "Hosteen Clee," and the quickened wood in "Wind in the Trees," and his water color, "Taos Neighbors."

Irma René Koen presents several vigorous paintings of boats at anchor and two little pictures, the one of winter, with its scarlet coated woman, particularly fine, and a superb large canvas of river and houses, probably the result of a visit to the Mississippi. Dixie Selden has a fresh touch that is delightful. Her two large still lifes of tulips are gorgeous. Her "Ragusa" is very lovely. Grant Wood has a distinctive technique that is forceful. Particularly intriguing are his "Young Corn" and "Birthplace of Herbert Hoover." They are filled with the most fascinating detail and the most sentient of color.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams were entertained at dinner this evening by the commandant of the navy yard, Admiral William Varnum Butler, and Mrs. Butler.

Mrs. Mitchell, wife of the attorney general, was the honor guest at luncheon today of the wives of assistants in the federal departments, a group known as the Little Cabinet Luncheon club. The lunch was held in the Washington club, an organization of residential hostesses in Washington.

Mrs. Hyde, wife of the secretary of agriculture, attended the luncheon which Mrs. Patterson, wife of Senator Roscoe C. Patterson of Missouri, gave in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Reeves, wife of Judge Albert L. Reeves of Kansas City, Mo.

Carl Williams, member of the federal farm board, and Mrs. Williams announced the engagement of their foster daughter, Miss True Odessa Gossette, to John Duncan McDonald of Grand Rapids, Mich., the wedding to take place next month. Mr. McDonald is a son of Justice John S. McDonald of the Michigan Supreme court.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Freezing weather is being welcomed this week as an aid to moving trees, both large and small. Park superintendents and amateur gardeners well enough versed to recognize the aid that frozen ground presents in transplanting, are taking advantage of the first chance the winter has presented for this work.

In the west parks areas District Supervisor Ephraim Soderberg has set up plans to move a row of hawthorns which have outgrown their present location. Trenches will be dug down at a six foot radius from the trunks, the earth will be given a day or so to freeze, and then the moving trucks and apparatus will transport the hawthorns to a new location.

"There is nothing difficult in the moving of trees if the proper precautions are taken," Mr. Soderberg said yesterday. "The only tree that is at all difficult to move is the oak. When oak trees are moved it usually is necessary to take out a larger ball of earth in the transplanting, but equipment usually takes care of this with slightly more labor.

"Except for the oak, one can handle sycamores, catalpas, horse chestnuts, or other varieties just as simply as moving an elm. Twelve years ago hundreds of trees were moved in Columbus park. Nearly all of the best known varieties were included in these trees. The balls of earth around a few of these trees broke in handling, and of these three or four died, but all the other trees came through."

In moving smaller trees of four to five inches diameter, a trench similar to that for the larger tree is dug about two feet from the base. This is permitted to freeze and then the ball of earth is dug out as with the larger trees.

With trees which have come from nurseries the roots usually are more compact or fibrous, according to Mr. Soderberg. The ball of earth then can be smaller and less trimming of the top is necessary. But when the roots have run out laterally and must be cut off to any extent, as much as one-third of the top must be trimmed to compensate for loss of roots. These small trees usually regain this growth quickly if planted in good soil.

"Water the transplanted tree in the spring, if necessary," says Mr. Soderberg, "but do not drown the tree." He estimates that probably as many transplanted trees die from overwatering as from lack of care.

Have No Gray Hair Streaks Before 60

Now simply brushing hair ends grayness so perfectly no one will suspect you ever had a gray hair.

Don't let gray hair, or hair streaked with gray, ruin your business or social career because it makes people think you are "too old." You can now end this handicap easily, quickly and inexpensively right at home. And the results will be so perfect that no one will suspect you have done a thing to your hair.

DO ONE SIMPLE THING

Just sprinkle a few drops of KOLOR-BAK on your hair brush, and brush your hair as usual. This wonderful, colorless liquid will cause your gray hairs to disappear like magic. A new, youth like color will be imparted to those ugly, gray hairs. And as your hair becomes youth-like in color, you will look years younger, far more attractive.

Obtain KOLOR-BAK at any drug or department store. Use as directed—and—almost before you realize it your gray hairs will be youth-like in color. Insist upon KOLOR-BAK, for it is different in formula and results from all other methods. No other product is "just as good." KOLOR-BAK offers the most natural way science has found to end gray hair. Obtain today, and refuse all substitutes.

FREE—50c Box Kubak Shampoo

Get a bottle of KOLOR-BAK, send the top flap of the carton in which it comes to United Remedies, Inc., Dept. 72-A, 385 E. Illinois St., Chicago, Ill. You will be sent a full size 50c box of Kubak Shampoo, free and postpaid.

Avoid

"DIRTY FACE"

It's the secret of many a popular girl's perpetual good-looks—Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Cleansing Cream. A new facial cream that rejuvenates your skin in one second, a quick complexion pickup when there isn't time for a careful, lengthy treatment.

There is no other cream just like Perfect Cleansing Cream. Delicate pink in color, and made largely of precious oils, it literally absorbs the day's accumulation of dirt and make-up and washes it all away in record time.

Get a jar of Perfect Cleansing Cream tonight and try it out yourself. See how quickly it melts upon contact with the skin, how quickly it removes the last trace of "Dirty Face."

Urging you to use Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Cleansing Cream regularly is unnecessary, once you've tried it. It costs much less than other creams in its class, and there is none better at any price.

Diet Didn't Do This!

Happy little girl, just bursting with pep, yet she has never tasted a "tonic"—and she digests anything.

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that will keep the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin and protect your household from bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation on hand to use instead of a harsh cathartic that causes chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready.

The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu valley. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family, although his mother had sent her checks.

Ricardo locates a Filomena Stanley, but instead of the aged aunt he'd expected he finds a beautiful young aunt. She is living in a Bohemian studio with a Follies girl named Frances. Ricardo readily believes this lovely creature, who acknowledges the relationship. His arrival was fortunate for Filomena, who had been out of work for weeks and was in a sad state financially. Ricardo showers her with gifts and moves her into a better apartment. He moves into the same building on another floor. Webster Sutton, a college friend of Ricardo's, visits New York. He and Eunice Greenway, a girl from home who is studying in New York, are entertained by Ricardo and his aunt. Eunice is a friend of Ricardo's fiancée, Rachel Beatty. She heartily disapproves of Filomena. Web believes his friend is being trimmed and before he leaves tells him so.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

AN INTERRUPTED DEPARTURE.

Ricardo knew, he had known, since the first day that he had brought Filomena to the apartment, sharing her delight in it, sharing ever since her joy in the things he found joy in giving her, that it could not go on forever. He had vaguely felt that Christmas might be the time for terminating the glorified interlude. He had vaguely mentioned Christmas to Rachel as the time for homecoming.

But Christmas was now only three weeks away. And before he could bring himself to shatter all this dream existence, Eunice would have written to Rachel some impossible version of what that existence looked like to her.

It was incredible they should think what they thought. It was utterly incredible. Filomena's miraculous existence in an everyday world seemed like a fairy tale to him, yet they could see in it such a sordid hideous thing as they had suggested to him an hour or two ago.

"O, Filomena," he said, "O Filomena, I love you so, my dear."

All because he had bought a piano for Filomena's darling fingers to bring music from. They had not heard her playing here, morning after morning, filling the whole world with enchantment. Any one who could make music like that ought to have dozens of pianos bought for her. And actually, while she had accepted, with the most touching gratitude, the other things—the apartment, the fur coat, even the silver slippers—the piano was the one thing that had excited her.

But because she had an expensive piano, a piano that had moved the self contained Eunice to passionate exclamation, that was no reason for them to believe the other things they had insinuated. Of course it was strange, in fact, it was remarkable and extraordinary, that his aunt should be such a person as she was. It was remarkable that such a person as Filomena should exist in any guise at all.

But he had a growing feeling that her existence would need not only to be proved but to be explained as well to Rachel. She did not seem a part of Rachel's world. He had had in the back of his mind a vague idea, an unformed conception of a life that held Rachel, out in Romeu valley, and an entirely separate life here, that held Filomena. A precious secret existence that was unutterably lovely because Filomena was in it. An existence that he knew he could not leave without a wrench, but an existence [he saw now] the knowledge of which would outrage Rachel's sensibilities. It was quite on the cards that she would see it just as the odious Eunice had seen it. A thing to be measured in terms of grand pianos.

In the dusk melody began to flow softly from the piano. Filomena, unaware of his troubled thoughts, had come from her own room and sat down to play for him. With the flowing melody there came swiftly before him his first sight of his Filomena with the flare of a guttering candle behind her bright hair.

He bent his head in his hands and groaned. He should have known, three months ago, that today would inevitably come. Time could not stand still simply because when he came dutifully seeking an aunt, whom he could console and charitably cheer with the bounty that was her due, he had found a Filomena who had put into his life more sunshine than he had dreamed of in sunny Romeu valley.

The music died away. He glanced up. Filomena stood beside him.

"Tired, nephew?" she asked, gently. "I had too many people here at once. I shouldn't have let Jarny come, but he telephoned——"

He reached toward her. She slid her hands into his and with her touch something welled up in him; unthinking and unheeding anything beyond the moment that moved him, he put his arms around her and drew her close to him, until he could lay his face against the soft green stuff of her gown.

"O, Filomena," he said, "O, Filomena, I love you so, my dear."

This was so unlike the gay careless lovemaking that he had so playfully essayed through the days just past that she drew back. But he would not let her go. He sprang up and held her closer to him.

"No one can take you away from me," he cried, "I don't care what they think—I don't care what they say. You mean more to me——"

But somehow, a very few minutes later, they were sitting side by side on the divan beside the untidy little tea table, and she had disengaged one hand to reach for the switch that turned on a dim rose-shaded light.

"That's better," she said, "I don't want to be squashed in any grizzly-bear hug. After all, it's not my birthday. Nor yours either, for that matter."

"Web's going home," said Ricardo irrelevantly, "and he thought I ought to go, too."

"Well, you've always said you'd go home some time," she returned practically, "you never said you'd left the golden west forever, you know."

"Somehow I meant—before I knew you," he began, "somehow I—I meant to take you back there. You know, when I first knew you——"

"When you thought I was sixty," said Filomena, and giggled.

"I meant to take you back there," he pursued gloomily, unwilling to be turned aside, "And I—I suppose you might go. If you wanted to, that is. But you—your music lessons, and everything——" And Rachel, he could not add aloud.

"Must you go soon, Ricardo?"

"I don't have to go at all—until I choose. I was only asking you if you—"

"O, don't ask me," she cried, "How do I know what I want? Let's not worry about it. Not now. We've had so much fun, and we can still have. Of course you have to go some time. I've always known that. But don't let's talk about it. It spoils things so, to talk about them. And I don't want to change anything!"

He slipped his arms about her again, and she resisted him playfully and not completely. "I don't want to change anything," he said, "I want everything to go on—like this—always. Forever. You and me, Filomena—forever." He laid his cheek against her soft bright hair, seeking in this gentle contact the pervading quiet delight he had had in the very sight of her all these weeks.

She drew back to look up at him.

"Then you don't think I'm a gold-digger?"

"Gold-digger!" His voice was expressive, "Gold-digger. You! Darling, I'd like to give you everything in the world and you let me give you so little. Don't say——"

"Well, your friends seem to think so. But if you don't—I don't care. So that's all settled. Now let's get back to being sensible. You aren't really acting as nephewly as you might. I'm not being respected nearly enough this evening. Suppose I go change my things and we go out for dinner. We can try that Hawaiian place if you like." She slipped from the divan and from his clasp.

"Filomena."

"Nephew?"

"Don't you love me at all, Filomena?"

"Madly!" she was half way across the room, "as madly as any aunt could love such a nephew as you. Now can you stop being serious? Or," her face clouded, "or have your low minded friends poisoned you completely?"

"Don't, darling," he crossed the room toward her, "Don't talk like that. Listen—I love you, and I believe in you, and nobody on earth could ever make me think you were anything that—that I know you aren't."

"When it's spread too thick," she objected, "it begins to get sticky. Thanks for the vote of confidence. Now that's settled, I suppose I can get ready——"

"But, darling girl, I do want you to say——"

She darted into the bedroom. The door clicked shut almost in his face.

. . . . . .

A week or ten days later Ricardo was happily anticipating an evening with Aunt Filomena. One of the last, he realized, for within another week he knew he must make up his mind to start home.

But such thoughts did not belong with this evening, when they were going out to dinner and the theater, and Filomena had a new peach chiffon frock, a funny thing with dozens of long trailing pieces drooping and floating away from it here and there in odd unexpected places. She had seen it in a window and called him to look at it, and he had insisted on buying it then and there because she had done pretty well at riding that morning.

When he opened the door of the apartment he could hear loud voices. He crossed at once to the bedroom door which was standing open.

Frances was pulling dresses and sweaters and miscellaneous garments from the closet and tossing them on the bed. Then she flew to the chiffonier and began banging drawers open and flinging out dainty undergarments and trailing stockings. Upon the bed, half-concealed by the growing heap of disordered clothing, was an open suitcase.

Filomena turned from the dressing table and ran toward the bed, a hairbrush in one hand, several cold-cream jars clutched in the other.

"I don't want that, Fran, nor that," she cried, her voice hysterically high and taut. "Use your head, can't you? All I want is——"

"O, you've got to wear something," said Frances, "Where on earth is that dark blue jersey dress? That's the thing for the train."

Girl of 22 Says She's Starved for a Little Fun 'n' Excitement

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Lucille asks: "Is it possible to be starved for excitement and nice places of entertainment when you are only 22?

"Is one a fickle jade who has been keeping steady company with one boy for five years and suddenly succumbs to the temptation to go out with a man who can afford to take her places?"

The boy of the five years' devotion is now jobless. He has been for some time. His mother and an invalid sister are dependent upon him and upon the occasional odd jobs he manages to pick up here and there.

Lucille explains that while she has a deep feeling for the boy of the five year association, yet she wonders if there isn't such a thing as waiting too long to get married. Had she and the younger suitor married three, four, or five years ago she is sure that they would have been happy and contented. But now there is something missing. Something has gone out of the romance.

Still, she cannot tell the boy that she does not feel the same toward him as before. She thinks perhaps she may still love him. She knows he loves her. But she is hungry for a little fun in her life and is perfectly frank to admit it.

The odds are stacked against a romance with very little fun to feed upon, where one is only 22, I'd say! We would like to believe, of course, that love in itself is substitute for everything else. Later in life it may be. But one cannot expect the old and reasoning head to rest upon an early-twenty shoulder.

Of course youth can be starved for excitement and adventure. It's more natural that it should be than that it resign itself to patient waiting. The fault lies rather in tying oneself at 17 and 18 from opportunity to have the fling that normal youth craves. It's more than questionable whether a boy with family dependents, as described by Lucille, has the right to monopolize those early years of a girl to the exclusion of good times.

On the other hand, when it comes to settling down for life, the boy who accepts family responsibilities and meets them to the best of his ability is bound to be a better husband than one who has slid along into the thirties responsibility free.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Giggled Before Them All.

I thought I had passed the giggling age by at least a good thirty years, but it seems not.

A few months ago I was in the bank waiting to see about some real estate bonds, and was seated beside the drinking fountain. A serious looking man came up, filled a small cup and drained it at one gulp. He repeated this three times. At the fourth I exclaimed "My goodness!" The cup halted half way to his mouth, and he stared at me with such a surprised look on his face that I burst out laughing. He drank the ice water and then threw the cup down with a gesture of disgust that struck me funnier than ever. I couldn't stop laughing, and knowing that every one in the office was looking at me, I felt like a fool.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully], for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, New York City.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

A satin crêpe blouse made in a lovely shade of pink, and worn over a black transparent velvet skirt is a combination that will appeal to many. The skirt has a camisole top to hold it in place. The lovely blouse gives the figure a becoming long line, and the skirt goes perfectly with it.

The pattern, 2528, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material for the blouse, with 2 yards of 39 inch material for the skirt and ½ yard of 35 inch material for the camisole top.

Bright Sayings of the Children

In calling on friends of mine the other day, I found their 6 year old boy at home alone, and in order to make conversation, I asked him how many brothers he had, and he replied, "I have two brothers, but my sister has three."—F. E. J. S.

Systematic Beauty Care Far Better than Stop and Go Method

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We haven't said much about New Year resolutions on account of private prejudices we hold on the subject. But it seems fitting to introduce the idea involved in the old saying about there being no standing still. You must either go forward or slip back. Which seems peculiarly fitting to the business of personal upkeep. If you stand still, age comes on unawares—and so do pounds and wrinkles and a reputation for not being on the Big Beauty job.

I gather that there are more women who have "standing still" periods than women who are eternally on the move forward. Some women require a strong impetus to set them moving toward a beauty goal. Some are naturally born fastidious folk who wouldn't be seen by the iceman not looking their best. And some belong to the fits-and-starts order. One day they look fine; the next day, not.

Maybe we can't change the nature of the critter. But the fact that each slip back weakens the will just that much more, might inspire more consistent action. This, coupled with the fact that there is mighty little tolerance in the world today toward the one on the down grade. Sins of weightier commission, or ommission, are more readily forgiven a woman than the sin she commits in letting her appearance go. That is the point we urge for contemplation today.

Now, we should look over our last year's record and ask a few questions: Did we get that fat off as we promised every other day we would? Did we give the complexion its daily ointment? Did we do to the hair what we promised we would? Did we manage to overcome the facial expression habits that our attention was called to?

Just what did we do last year to run up our beauty score?

Depression Era May Leave Youth Injured Because of Food Lack

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Miss Grace Abbott, head of the children's bureau, states that great numbers of children all over the country are now living in such destitution as cannot but leave them weakened and injured for life. Such a tragic statement is hard to read with composure. We can hardly look at the picture our imagination paints—but we must. And then having looked, say to ourselves, what can be done about it?

One of the first things to consider is the children's food. The relief money that is obtained by families in distress must buy food that will give the most in proper nourishment for the money. It must supply the protective foods, especially for the children.

Surprisingly few people know what these are. In an intelligent and prosperous household the children receive a bountiful supply of food in such variety that they automatically receive these protective foods.

But the mother who has equal intelligence but almost no money needs expert help in spending that money, not on fattening or the most palatable foods but on those that will give the growing child the essential foods, the foods which will protect the vital structure of his health. Relief workers, too, need this sort of information.

Fortunately, such information is available through various chanels.

Folders which contain these diet plans and minimum weekly quantities of protective foods will be sent out at cost through this department. When writing please enclose two cents in stamp or coins to pay for leaflet as well as a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The leaflet is called "Food At Low Cost."

ESCUDERO TO DANCE HERE ON FRIDAY AS STAR OF SPAIN

BY HAZEL MOORE

When Escudero returns to the Studebaker theater on Friday evening it will be known that he is to the male dancers of Spain what La Argentina is to the women, the best known exponent of his sex. A large percentage of the dancing population of Chicago would seem to have been aware of this fact, and were on hand yesterday to applaud him and the assisting Carmita and Carmela in their first appearance in this city.

Born of gypsy parents, Escudero began his nomadic dancing career at the early age of nine. For many years he confined his dancing to the "Flamenco," or gypsy dances. In fact it was not until his dancing maturity in Paris that he added the classic dances of Spain to his repertoire. Judging from his program yesterday he would still seem to be the gypsy dancer at heart, preferring the improvisation method, the rhythmic inspiration of his own inspired making to supply the dancing impetus.

Here is where he is in direct contrast to La Argentina, who has polished and smoothed her dances to the definite requirements of the concert stage, never to vary one iota in repetition. Escudero would seem to rely on the mood of the moment. The "Farruca," most famous of gypsy dances, was repeated with considerable variation, and the "Cordoba," danced with Carmita, though done to the same music was quite varied on repetition.

As a matter of fact, I imagine that the relation of dancer to audience is so changed in concert form as to be a real deterrent to the spirits of a dancer of Escudero's type, dependent on the rhythmic assistance of an audience whose clapping, stamping, and "Oles" constitute the rhythmic base of the dance in Spain. It might be an interesting experiment to give the audience a public rehearsal before each number.

But Escudero casually beats his own rhythm along with the guitar until the proper mood is reached to begin his dance. His rhythmic resource is extraordinary, with its intricacy as part of its merit. In "Cordoba" his castanets and Carmita's played the most enticing dialogue. At other times his nimble fingers matched the clicking heels and tapping toes. Whether he dances a gypsy dance or one of classic type, he is a great personality and a great dancer.

His assisting artists are uniformly good. Carmita and Carmela both shared his applause, with a little extra for Carmita after the "Asturiana," Louis Mayoral played the guitar, which seems to me a better accompaniment to Spanish dancing than the piano, though A. Guridas supplied excellent accompaniments on the instrument. At any rate, Escudero is a personality of the dance and not to be missed.

HEALTH BROKEN—NERVES ON EDGE

. . . she was always "flying off the handle"!

Now 15 lbs. heavier, nerves steady—more popular, too

A cosy threesome—girls she'd always been fond of—chatting cheerfully enough on the surface. Yet underneath she could feel how shocked they were at her sickly skin—her thin, emaciated figure. Suddenly . . . her every nerve raw and strained . . . she could endure their pity no longer. And burst into a torrent of bitter words—words she didn't really mean!

"No flying off the handle" today! Miss Adams is making—instead of losing—friends. Thanks to quieter nerves and happier heart. But read this:

Tells own story

"Before I took Ironized Yeast, my health seemed to fail me each day. I didn't feel like living. I was cross and irritable even with best friends.

"After I had taken three packages of Ironized Yeast, I gained 15 pounds. It helped my nerves very much. My complexion cleared up a lot and I feel full of pep. I seem to be gaining friends every day—more than I used to." So writes Miss Louise Adams, Friars Point, Miss., whose letter is only one of hundreds of equally amazing reports from Ironized Yeast users.

New health quick!

Are you, too, "sick of living"? And is a rundown, underweight condition to blame in your case, too? Then why not take a tip from Miss Adams—end constipation, sleeplessness, "nerves"—build pounds of firm, healthy flesh—the quick, easy Ironized Yeast way?

World-important process

Seven pounds of rich, imported "beer yeast" are required to make just one pound of the yeast concentrate used in Ironized Yeast. The new process by which this scientifically cultured yeast is concentrated is such a tremendous contribution to human welfare that the League of Nations—at an official session in Geneva, Switzerland—recommended its adoption as a world-wide standard.

Concentrated seven times, this marvelous health yeast is then ironized—treated with three distinct kinds of blood-strengthening iron. Thus Ironized Yeast not only rounds out your figure amazingly quick—not only helps strengthen your entire system—but actually doubles your pep—helps you get more fun out of life!

Triple-tested

Trained experts supervise the making of Ironized Yeast. In addition, recognized scientists test it to insure its health-building results. These tests are made by our own laboratory staff, by an eminent physician and by a professor of Bio-Chemistry in a famous medical college.

GUARANTEED: Skinny folks everywhere are gaining on Ironized Yeast—acquiring health and energy, as well as an attractively rounded figure. If the very first package does not help you, too, its cost will be promptly refunded. AVOID CHEAP IMITATIONS. Look for the "I.Y." on each tablet—it's your assurance of double-quick, double-action results! At all druggists. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

RENEW BATTLE FOR ESTATE OF WOMAN RECLUSE

Mrs. Gunn-Jones' 'Visions' Told.

The legal battle for the $437,000 estate of Mrs. Kitty Gunn-Jones, a recluse who died at the age of 74 in September, 1930, which has been pending in the courts for a year, was resumed yesterday after a lapse of several months, before Ald. Jacob M. Arvey, master in chancery for Judge William V. Brothers of the Circuit court.

On one side of the contest is Mrs. Jones' second husband, Maj. George W. Jones, whom she married in 1925. On the other side are her two sisters, Mrs. L. E. Thompson and Mrs. Jessie Koch, and eleven other blood relatives. An allegedly spurious will, bequething the entire estate to Maj. Jones, and charges that Mrs. Jones was mentally unbalanced when she became his wife figure in the case. Yesterday's hearing was based on Maj. Jones' bill for partition by which he seeks to share in the estate.

Two Witnesses Heard.

Two witnesses were heard by Master in Chancery Arvey. They were Edward Zwierzynski, 5924 South Kildare avenue, former chauffeur gardener for Mrs. Jones, and Cassandra Hasle, colored, 4830 Forrestville avenue, a former maid.

Zwierzynski testified that he worked for Mrs. Jones for about six weeks prior to her marriage to the major. She confided to him, he said, that she had visited fortune tellers, and that she had been told to look in a mirror. There she told him, he said, that she saw a tall hero, covered with medals who carried her in his arms. During Maj. Jones' courtship of the widow, the ex-chauffeur testified, the then Mrs. Gunn drank gin highballs and occasionally became intoxicated.

Shown $50,000 in Envelope.

On the wedding day, according to Zwierzynski, Maj. Jones showed him an envelope which Jones said contained $50,000 for him to invest. The next day, Zwierzynski asserted, he reproached Maj. Jones "for taking advantage of that old lady." He quit his job that day too, he said.

Cassandra Hasle, the maid, said she believed that Mrs. Gunn-Jones was mentally unbalanced. In response to a question by Attorney W. W. O'Brien, she admitted that Mrs. Gunn-Jones had drunk liquor, but added; "But I did, too, so I reckon I can't say anything about that."

The hearing will be resumed at 1:30 p. m. today. Further testimony will be introduced regarding Mrs. Gunn-Jones' alleged mental condition prior to her death.

Suit Asks a Guardian for Mayor in Indiana

Anderson, Ind., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Suit was filed here this afternoon asking for appointment of a guardian for Jesse H. Melett, Anderson mayor. Walter Druley, in filing charges, alleges Mellett is not mentally responsible. Druley is the father of Ermston Druley, recently removed by Mellett as manager of the municipal electric plant, for alleged misappropriation of funds as revealed by state board of accounts examiners. Mellett recently suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Funeral Services Today for Miss Emma Murray

The funeral for Miss Emma E. Murray, 70 years old, sister of Mrs. James B. Forgan, the widow of the banker, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Graceland chapel. The services will be private. Miss Murray died early yesterday of a heart attack at the home of Mrs. Forgan, 1540 Lake Shore drive. Miss Murray was born in Canada, but spent most of her life in England. She came to this country five years ago to live with Mrs. Forgan.

J. W. Eastland, Head of Live Stock Concern, Dead

James William Eastland, 52 years old, head of the live stock commission house of James W. Eastland & Co., died at the Wesley Memorial hospital yesterday after an illness of ten days caused by an infection. He is survived by his widow and two daughters. Funeral services will be conducted at the family home at 7230 Paxton avenue at 2 p. m. tomorrow by Dearborn lodge, No. 310, A. F. & A. M. Burial will be in Oakwoods cemetery.

BENJAMIN W. BACON, YALE'S THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL LEADER, DIES

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Benjamin Misner Bacon, professor emeritus of the Yale Divinity school and author of many theological books, died today at his home here in his seventy-second year.

Mr. Bacon, who retired five years ago, had been in failing health for the last two years, but recently his condition seemed to be improved and death was unexpected.

Mr. Bacon published more than twenty volumes on theological subjects ranging from the Genesis of Genesis in 1891 to Studies in Matthew in 1930.

He was a frequent contributor to encyclopedic, periodical and scientific reviews. His interest in theology extended to archeology and he was a director of the American School of Archeology in Jerusalem in 1905 and 1906.

Prof. Hastings Dies.

Greenwich, Conn., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Charles S. Hastings, 82, professor emeritus of Yale university and for 32 years head of the Scefield Scientific school hysics department, died yesterday. He was retired fifteen years ago. He specialized in nautical science.

One automobile death in Cook county yesterday increased the toll since Jan. 1 to 109. The victim:

Dominick La Maria, 64 years old, 2634 North Menard avenue. Killed when he was struck by a heavy motor truck in front of 2648 North Cicero avenue. The driver was Stanley Cinckus, 1444 Milwaukee avenue.

C. J. Hanson, 1420 Bryn Mawr avenue, was seriously hurt when his automobile was smashed by a Monon freight train on State Road No. 30 near Wanatah, Ind.

William A. Churchill, 50 years old, a broker living at the Churchill hotel at 1255 North State street, was severely injured last night when his automobile was struck by a skidding machine in the inner drive at 7th street. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital where it was found he had suffered a broken left hip. Churchill's machine, driven by his chauffeur, Lawrence Farmer, was hit by the automobile of J. A. Friesen, 6610 Kimbark avenue. None but Churchill was hurt.

GIRL WHO GAVE UP "BREATH" FOR BOY SUCCUMBS

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Miss Alice Hilliard, 26 year old stepdaughter of Robert Bingham, Louisville, Ky., publisher, for whose use an oxygen chamber was brought to Tucson by airplane from New York last month, died at a hospital here today.

For the past seven days Miss Hilliard, suffering from pneumonia, had lived in the oxygen apparatus. A chronic sufferer from a lung ailment, she had been a patient at the hospital several years.

Miss Hilliard gave up the only other oxygen apparatus in Tucson, which she had been using, to a 12 year old boy, who died despite her sacrifice.

Deaths of a Day

Havre De Grace, Md.—(AP)—Leonard Richards, 71, chemical manufacturer of Newark, N. J., and Havre De Grace. He was commodore of the Larchmont Yacht club, Larchmont, N. Y., and a member of the Havre De Grace Yacht club.

Buffalo, N. Y.—(AP)—Major John M. Satterfield, soldier, financier, and aviation enthusiast.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—(AP)—Alfred Davis Noe Sr., 86, widely known in Kentucky and Tennessee as a hotel owner and operator.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Frederick W. Erxleben, 87, veteran funeral director and pioneer Peorian, is dead. He has been engaged in funeral work for the last 42 years, being one of the oldest undertakers in the country.

GIVES UP CASH TO BANDITS.

Louis Harris, 23 Waverly court, manager of the Nick Petropoulos wholesale meat concern, 217 North Peoria street, surrendered $389 from the safe to two men armed with revolvers who confronted him while he was alone in the office here last evening.

13,000 PERSONS MADE HOMELESS BY DELTA FLOOD

Food and Shelter Are Big Problem.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Thirteen thousand are homeless in the Mississippi delta and in northern Louisiana as the result of the floods which have battered down levees and inundated a hundred thousand acres over the last six weeks. Water still is hammering at several towns, including Monroe, Alexandria, and Colfax, in Louisiana, and Glendora and Yazoo City, in Mississippi. The Red Cross, the coast guard, and the United States engineers are combining efforts in getting out remaining refugees and providing food and shelter for those already out.

Governor Inspects Situation.

Gov. Alvin O. King and Adjutant General Ramond Fleming of Louisiana this afternoon are continuing their survey of the flooded area and Gov. King has promised all the resources of the state will be thrown into the battle to prevent hunger and disease among the refugees. National Guard tents are being used for shelter now and the government is sending in hundreds of thousands of sacks to be filled with sand and used in reinforcing the weakened levees.

At Monroe the Ouachita river is believed near a standstill, although fully 5,000 workers still are reinforcing the great dikes to protect the city from overflow. Virtually all of West Monroe has been evacuated. At Alexandria it is believed the levees will hold.

Danger Shifts Southward.

In the delta of Mississippi the flood danger has shifted southward from Yazoo City and the smaller river towns below that point are working feverishly to proect themselves from the encroaching waters. Many of the smaller towns already have been evacuated by most of their residents.

The weather bureau at New Orleans forecasts further rises, although river stages now are far above the all time record. The Mississippi itself is rising south of Vicksburg, but with little damage anticipated except from the tributaries of the great stream.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

LISEC—Lillian E. Lisec. In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who passed away one year ago today.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
A beautiful memory she left behind.

She had a nature you could not help loving,
A heart that was purer than gold;
And to those who knew her and loved her,
Her memory will never grow cold.
OTTO LISEC, RUTH, AND KENNETH.

Policy Determines Products

A Statement to Car Owners and Automobile Dealers from E. L. CORD

THE policy of a manufacturer is not visible. However, it is the most important thing in any automobile.

The divisions of Cord Corporation have plants in seven cities, scientific laboratories and acres of the most modern manufacturing facilities.

But factory buildings, machinery, engineering laboratories and financial resources, in themselves, are not important. They are only tools to work with. It is what these physical properties PRODUCE that is significant to the public.

The thinking that directs and co-ordinates their combined activities determines, more than anything else, how good an investment the purchaser makes.

Due to the public interest in the annual automobile shows being held over the United States, and because Cord Corporation divisions build many different automotive parts, as well as four complete lines of automobiles, we believe the policies responsible for Cord products are vital to the public.

The automobile divisions of this corporation have built their success by placing the value of the car itself above all other considerations.

Our sales policy starts there and ends there.

Instead of depending upon extravagant advertising, force-draft selling schemes, or crack-the-whip dealer tactics, our method is—let the cars do their own selling!

We operate on the theory that the public knows its automobiles. Buyers know WHAT they want cars to do and HOW they want it done. No salesmen can TALK quality or performance into a car. It must be BUILT in.

Therefore, all we ask of the buyer, is to COMPARE—and DRIVE!

This policy places an unceasing obligation upon our designers, engineers and workmen. It requires that they anticipate changes and improvements which people want. It means they must be leaders, not followers. It means they must be first to offer these improvements. At the same time they must build newer, better products, of greater value, for less cost to the consumer.

To accomplish this, sixteen million dollars have been spent in engineering and development programs. The many outstanding results of this pioneering are now offered to car owners.

You are invited to attend the Automobile Shows, and to use this policy as the basis for judging the improvements introduced by the divisions of Cord Corporation.

BALLYHOO OVER, OLYMPIC GAMES CAN START NOW

Skaters Will Open Events Thursday.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—The long ballyhoo is over and the Olympic games of 1932 will start Thursday morning when Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt reviews the array of foreign and domestic athletes in the Olympic stadium at Lake Placid.

GOV. F. D. ROOSEVELT.

The players will march past under their respective national colors attired in the uniforms of their respective events and the female figure skaters will wear short skirts, which are uniform for figure skating, notwithstanding the extremely moral importunities addressed to them on behalf of the organization of American housewives.

The Gals Won't Do It.

The organization of American housewives urged the female figure skaters to wear the old-fashioned long kind to avoid unnecessary wear and tear on the morals of the males who will witness the figure skating exhibition.

But the female skaters decided that they would not do this unless the sprinters of the summer program would agree to run in Oregon boats and the swimmers to swim in mother hubbards. However, for the benefit of any husbands of any of the ladies of the organization of American housewives who may happen to attend the winter games it should be noted that there are still some harness shops in the Adirondack villages where they can obtain horse blinkers.

The competitive action will begin soon after the formal ceremonies with the 500 meter speed skating race and will continue until the afternoon of Saturday, Feb. 13, unless the climate should happen to get tropical again and disarrange the program.

The bob run, which traces a serpentine groove one and one half miles long down the side of a hill called Mount Van Hoevenberg, has not been in good condition at any time and because there has been no snow available to provide traction on the glassy ice of the perpendicular banks in some of the curves there have been several minor accidents, premonitory of worse ones to come when the teams go down the slide on their mechanized sleds under no restraint but the prudence of their crews.

There'll Be No Restraint.

Inasmuch as no prudent person would slide down a mountainside in a trough of ice anyway, there will be practically no restraint.

The modern racing bobsled is steered with a worm gear and wheel like those used in automobiles, but the Dutch, Swiss and Austrian teams are using old fashioned, strawberry hill sleds, which are steered with ropes. It is to these crews, therefore, that the spectators will look for the most interesting disasters.

There is a little bit of ambulance chaser in every spectator at the hazardous sport events, such as automobile racing and stunt flying, and, in winter sports, the two events which, by common consent, are the most fascinating are the bobsled races and the ski jumps.

In the ski jump, however, the risk is more apparent than real, for hundreds of jumps and dozens of spills may occur in a single afternoon of a tournament without serious consequences to any of the jumpers. Yet it is much the more terrifying sport, involving a broad leap into space from a takeoff built on a mountain slope, and many novices who quickly recognize the ski jump as something which they never will know the pleasures of do not hesitate to ride as passengers down the bob run.

Not All Events Competitive.

Some of the events on the Lake Placid program are noncompetitive and have been sanctioned only as exhibitions. These are the women's skating races, the dog sled races, and the curling, which is a Scottish eccentricy performed on a strip of cleared ice with large stones about the size of an old fashioned nine in family plum pudding.

Just why the women's skating races should be noncompetitive does not appear, but of course it is wise to avoid formal competitions in dog racing. The only racing dogs are Alaskan and Canadian huskies and the rules are strict against the entry of naturalized competitors in the Olympic games.

A French entry might have to use a team of landscaped poodles and the Chinese a cultured of Pekingese and the race would be no contest, anyway. Curling comes under the same heading as the egg and spoon race, the three legged race, the potato race, and other local picnic events peculiar to the United States.

The Scotch could beat the world at curling undoubtedly but if every race were permitted to exploit its own native idiosyncrasies as athletic sports, the Olympic program would be badly cluttered with parlor ventriloquists, ladies able to throw their thumbs out of joint and Frankie-and-Johnny soloists. The javelin throw, a Finnish sport, has been recognized as an Olympic competitive event these many

TODAY MILLIE IS ALL DRESSED UP- GOES OUT ALONE- THE MOTHER WILL HIDE AND WHEN BIM WALKS UP TO MEET HER MAMA WILL STEP INTO THE PICTURE-
2-2
IT IS A WELL LAID TRAP- LOOK OUT BIM! THE OLD GUARD IS HIDING AND HAS HER EYE ON YOU-
WHAT HO!
ONE GLANCE TO MAKE SURE THAT MAMA IS NOT IN SIGHT-
GOOD MORNING MISS MILLIE- HOW STUNNING YOU LOOK TODAY-
OH, MY- HOW YOU SURPRISED ME-
IT WORKS- THE SCHEME WAS A SUCCESS- AND NOW MAMA COME OUT OF YOUR HIDING PLACE- IT'S UP TO YOU-
OH- WHAT EVER BECAME OF THAT CUTE LITTLE CAP YOU USED TO WEAR?
TO BE CONTINUED- ONE MINUTE ELAPSES BETWEEN THIS AND WHAT HAPPENS IN TOMORROW'S CARTOON-

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Notre Dame added Iowa to its list of victims here tonight, 33 to 18, in a spotty exhibition of basketball.

NORB CROWE.

What started out as a close battle developed into a rout when Bill Newbold and Capt. Norb Crowe started hitting the net. Iowa started a team with four sophomores and a junior in the lineup. Moffitt who ranks third in Big Ten scoring, was the only Hawkeye to get more than one field goal. He sank four.

The score at half time was 20 to 5. Iowa trailed midway in the second period, 28 to 8, but staged a rally in which Moffitt counted six points.

BUTLER LOSES, 35-31

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Indiana State Teachers upset the Butler university basketball team, 35 to 31, here tonight.

The Teachers never relinquished the lead, holding an 18 to 14 advantage at half time. Chestnut, center, led the Teachers' scoring with 14 points.

Wilson Signs with Dodgers for $16,500

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Hack Wilson, husky outfielder whose baseball star soared to the heights in 1930, when he led the National league in home runs, only to sink to the depths last year when he floundered in a batting slump, today joined the Brooklyn club for better or worse.

Wilson, sold to the Dodgers by the Cardinals after they had acquired him from the Cubs in a trade involving Burleigh Grimes, landed safely in the office of the Dodgers at Ebbets field this afternoon. There before the usual battery of cameramen and movietone directors, he signed a one-year contract.

His salary for the year will be $16,500, President York, who presided at the ceremony, announced after considerable cajoling by the baseball writers. This is exactly half of the $33,000 he received from the Cubs last year, but $9,000 more than the Cardinals were willing to pay the pudgy outfielder.

Wilson did not receive a bonus for accepting terms, but the $16,500 pay check keeps him in that select circle known as "high salaried stars."

The signing of Wilson brings to a close one of the interesting pre-season incidents in baseball. Other major problems remain to be settled. Among these the most important is what will happen to Tony Lazzeri. Joe McCarthy, Yankee manager, admits Tony is on the trading block. Bill Terry and Fred Fitzsimmons are two "problems worrying the Giants."

Wilson, his wife and their six year old son, Bobby, left by train tonight for their Martinsburg, W. Va., home. Hack said he would spend a few days at home, and depart for Hot Springs, Ark., about Feb. 10 to reduce a little before spring training starts.

HORTON SMITH BRINGS BROTHER REN AS HELPER

Springfield, Mo., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Horton and Ren Smith, Springfield's golfing brothers, will leave tomorrow for Chicago to confer with officials of the Oak Park Country club on plans for the coming season. Horton is pro at Oak Park and Ren is to be his assistant.

"After looking over the situation at Oak Park, meeting the officials of the club, rearranging the shop, and making other plans for the season there, we'll go over to Detroit for a short visit," they said.

TULSA OILERS BEAT ST. LOUIS SEXTET, 5 TO 0

Tulsa, Okla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Playing a fast but shifty offensive game that the Fliers couldn't halt or slacken, the Tulsa Oilers of the American Hockey league defeated St. Louis here tonight, 5 to 0. The Oilers scored in each of the three periods, Sheppard and Acaser scoring twice each.

North Central Five Beats Millikin, 35-12; Keeps Lead

The North Central college basketball team held its lead in the Little Nineteen conference by defeating Millikin last night, 35 to 12, at Naperville. It was North Central's seventh straight victory and fifth conference win.

North Central was ahead, 15 to 6, at half time. Manning of North Central was high scorer with 15 points. Steinhaur was outstanding for Millikin.

It's Ground Hog Day, and Still No Grid Coach at Iowa

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 1.—(AP)—There was no indication of progress in the hiring of a University of Iowa football coach tonight after the athletic board held a two and a half hour meeting.

Dr. E. H. Lauer, athletic director, would not disclose what took place but said that he expected two or three more coaches to make a personal application this week.

Campbell Sails for U. S. Today; Eyes New Mark

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Sir Malcolm Campbell will sail for New York tomorrow night aboard the Berengaria. He will travel to Daytona Beach, Fla., from New York and will attempt to better the world's automobile record he established.

HOCKEY RULERS ERASE BAN ON A FEW 'OUTLAWS'

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The permanent ban placed on players in so-called outlaw organizations by the National Hockey league was lifted partly tonight by the board of governors.

It was decided the league would consider, on its merits, each application for reinstatement presented by players who joined the American Hockey league, prior to its breakaway from the National league two years ago.

Players who have moved from amateur ranks or jumped from organized pro hockey to the American league are not included in the scope of the new ruling.

Out of the executive session also came a decision that there would be no change in the playing rules to penalize defensive tactics.

Alter Shape of Disc.

Several of the directors were said to be in favor of a rule to forbid stalling by any team when it was ahead, but President Frank Calder announced the decision of the majority was that the rules were all right as they were. Chicago and Boston were the chief proponents of a change in the rules.

Calder said the National league would have nothing to say regarding the challenge of the Canadian-American league for the Stanley cup, of recent years played for only by National league teams. The decision as to that will be entirely up to the trustees of the cup, Calder said.

It was decided to prohibit the use of beveled edges on pucks, and the league, starting with tomorrow night's games, will return to the use of the square edged discs.

SEEK REINSTATEMENT

Affairs of the American Hockey league continue to run a slight fever after a week-end involving the fall of the Buffalo club from grace and membership in the circuit, charges of foul play by President Larry Welch of the Majors, and an embassy from Buffalo seeking recovery of the forfeited Major franchise.

From his headquarters in Buffalo President Welch implies that the Buffalo club was railroaded out of the league to cut down the railroad expenses of the other clubs. American league officials reply that the only railroad expenses they have had have been the railroad expenses of the Buffalo club, which they lately have had to guarantee.

In the meantime the embassy, consisting of Michael Sullivan and John C. Montana of Buffalo, have been trying to convince Thomas J. Shaughnessy, president of the Shamrocks and vice president of the league, of their financial ability to operate the Majors. They offered to produce a certified check for $10,000 to illustrate their claims of economic power. Mr. Shaughnessy responded to this gesture with a skeptical shrug and suggested that the embassy pay up back installments on the Buffalo franchise and the league dues. He promised, however, to convey all representations to League President William F. Grant.

C'MON, PUT IT RIGHT OVER

Stanley Hack, the Pacific coast baseball prodigy who will operate at third base for the Cubs this season, is keeping in training for his first big league year by playing tennis at his home in Sacramento, Cal.

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—When Stanley Hack, youthful third baseman purchased by the Chicago Cubs from the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league, reports for spring training this month, he will be in the pink of condition. And there is a reason.

Hack, who is to be married in Chicago, May 16, has taken up tennis and the reason is his fiancée, Miss Dorothy Weisel, Sacramento girl, who is rapidly gaining recognition as a tennis player.

Hack had other plans for preliminary training, but Miss Weisel changed his mind and suggested daily workouts on the courts of the Sutter Lawn Tennis club here, supplemented by golf once or twice a week and basketball in the evening. As a result, Hack is ready to play baseball now and is in midseason form.

Hack's favorite sport is baseball, but he likes tennis and has respect for his fiancée's prowess.

"I don't have enough time for golf," he declares. "You have to play often to become a really good player, and baseball and tennis take up most of my time."

Stanley will leave for Los Angeles this month to join the Cubs in southern California. Miss Weisel will continue her tennis practice in this city, going east for the wedding ceremony in the spring.

"Our plans are in the making," Miss Weisel declares. "The ceremony is scheduled for May 16, but it may be a few days later."

TODAY'S GAMES.
3 p. m.—Kieckhefer vs. Schaefer.
7:30 p. m.—Kenney vs. Scoville.
9 p. m.—Reiselt vs. Layton.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Johnny Layton, an ex-champion of the world at three cushion billiards, who has little chance of regaining the crown this year, stalked into Mussey's amphitheater last night and began to play sort of a grim reaper rôle against the fellows who still are in the running.

His victim was the world's champion, Art Thurnblad of Chicago. Layton came from far behind. After putting all his tricks of the trade into the struggle, he beat the champion, 50 to 40, in 74 innings.

Layton's next three games are against Otto Reiselt, the leader in the tournament; against Augie Kieckhefer, who is just a game out of first place, and against Gus Copulos, who is tied with Thurnblad for third place.

Layton's Big Task.

If Layton can beat all these fellows and go on mowing 'em down like the reaper he appeared to be against Thurnblad, he has a slight chance to win the world's championship. There is a possibility that six players—Reiselt, Layton, Kieckhefer, Copulos, Thurnblad and Schaefer might end up in a tie for first place. If that should happen, each will have won 7 games and lost 4.

It took Young Jake Schaefer a long time yesterday afternoon to hypnotize the ivories. But finally he waved his magic cue, the balls began to turn handsprings and flip flops for him, and before the crowd realized it, he had beaten Allen Hall.

The score was 50 to 46 in 59 innings, but that's just a small part of the story, for the ivories were stubborn on this occasion. For a long time they refused to go under the spell Schaefer usually throws over them. As a result, Hall was in front 13 to 2 at the end of the 12th inning. In the 13th inning the score was 16 to 4, with Young Jake holding the small end of the sack, and in the 26th inning he was trailing, 26 to 12.

Bozeman Rallies to Win.

Then the ivories began to obey the mysterious shakes of Schaefer's magic cue. He opened up the 27th inning with a run of three and in the next thirteen innings he made 25 points while holding Hall to 6.

The other afternoon game also brought a sensational finish when Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., came from

Deadline for West Golden Gloves Near

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Only seven days remain for west side amateur boxers to enter the Golden Gloves trials which will be held at the Ashland boulevard auditorium on Feb. 15 and 16. The entries for the west side meet will close at midnight next Monday.

With the start of the west side trials on Feb. 15 Chicago's boxers will determine in a week and a half the list of 48 qualifiers who will face the champions from 20 cities in the Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium on Feb. 29, March 1, and 2.

The north section bouts are scheduled for Feb. 18 and 19 at the Loyola university gymnasium. Entries close on Feb. 11. The south section boxers will compete Feb. 22, 23, and 24 at White City. Entries will be accepted until Feb. 15 for this tournament.

Two boys in each weight in each of the three metropolitan trials will qualify for the Tournament of Champions. This will give Chicago a team of 48 to compete against the 160 out-of-town champions. From this list a squad of 24 will be chosen for the intercity fights (with New York) in Madison Square Garden on March 28. The squad will include the eight Golden Gloves champions, the eight runners-up and eight alternates, selected from boys competing in the Tournament of Champions.

Every boy who reports for his bout in the sectional trials will receive a souvenir Golden Gloves button. The champions, of course, will be rewarded with a 14 karat gold glove set with a diamond. The runners-up will receive a silver glove set with a ruby, while the alternates on the team will be awarded a bronz glove set with a ruby.

The Golden Gloves squad will be outfitted. All training expenses will be paid. After the trip to New York the squad will return by way of Washington, D. C., where a stopover will be made to visit historic points of interest. This trip is of particular interest this year because of the ceremonies connected with the celebration of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birthday.

Individual entries for Golden Gloves may be made on the blank printed daily in THE TRIBUNE. Team entries may be made in a group. The Arcade gymnasium won the team trophy last year, and Kid Howard promises a squad worthy of defending the title.

The New York Golden Gloves bouts, sponsored by the New York News, now are in progress. Five thousand boys entered the New York meets.

Chicago Five Takes Lead in Forester Pin Tourney

Aurora, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—New leaders appeared in all three events of the Catholic Order of Foresters state bowling tournament today. The Kadel IV. five of Chicago took the lead in the main event with 2,907. E. Bock and J. Mernieck of Hammond, Ind., landed on top in the doubles with 1,174 and J. Weidner of Niles Center went into first place in the singles with 664.

Winter Means Nothing to Gophers; Open Grid Drills

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Forty-five University of Minnesota players started winter football practice in the fieldhouse today with Coach Bernie Bierman as taskmaster.

Working with Lowell Dawson, his back field aide, Bierman separated the squad into four teams and drilled them in some of the offensive fundamentals.

Babe Ruth Motors South to Begin Spring Training

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Heading for St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp of the New York Yankees, Babe Ruth motored out of New York today. He was accompanied by Mrs. Ruth and expects to play golf before other members of the New York club arrive.

Loughran Arrives in Mexico City for Rest

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1.—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia boxer, arrived here tonight for a two week rest. He was accompanied by Malcolm Atterbury, son of Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

HOWELL, HUOT TIE FOR MEDAL IN MIAMI GOLF

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Two bad putts during his 18 hole play today forced Earl Howell, Miami, into a tie with Jules Huot, Quebec, for medal honors in a 54 hole tournament being played to select the last six of 32 entrants for Miami's $5,000 international four ball tournment. Howell and Huot had par 73s for the first day of play. The Miamian had 37—35—72, and Huot 38—34—72.

Two strokes behind the pacemakers were Ray Buck, Detroit; Harry Hampton, Chicago; Harry Rees, Cleveland, and O. W. Forbrick, Port Clinton, O.

Six players were tied at the 75 mark, including Egon Fricke, Detroit; Charley McAllister, Forest Hills, N. Y.; Bob Barnett, Detroit; Henry Jankoski, Saddle River, N. J.; Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. J., and Jock Collins, Dayton, O.

Art Smith, Cincinnati; Charles Rice, Chicago; Walter Bourne, Princeton, N. J.; Jack Thompson, Youngstown, O., and Jim Noonan, Chicago, had 76s; Jim Dante, Madison, N. J.; Frank Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y.; Ralph Kingsrud, Fargo, N. D., and Ralph Stonehouse, Indianapolis, had 77s.

GOLDEN GLOVES

LULLABY II. WINS OVER MABLA IN HIALEAH FEATURE

Howe Entry Pays $13 in Coral Reefs Purse.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Howe stable's Lullaby II. won the Coral Reefs purse for fillies and mares, feature here today. Well ridden by A. Robertson, she dashed into an easy lead and won by two lengths. The surprise of the race was the defeat of Mrs. George W. Loft's Mabla, odds-on favorite, which ran second. Lullaby II. paid $13.10. Jaffa was third, a length away, and paid $27.50 to show.

Lullaby II. hugged the rail all the way, saving much ground, while Mabla was slow leaving the barrier. The time for the five and a half furlongs was 1:05.

Sun Memory Easy Winner.

J. F. Patterson's Sun Memory, Jockey Bejshak up, scored by two lengths over Bacciocco, odds-on favorite, with Mills up, in the fourth race. The six furlong sprint was run in 1:11 2-5. Double Heart was third. The winner paid $8.90.

Sun Memory trailed at the start, while Bacciocco went to the front, setting a fast pace, with The Heathen close up. Mills used up Bacciocco racing Double Heart and The Heathen into submission, permitting Sun Memory to come from behind and pass him. Double Heart was pinched off in the stretch.

Tombereau Scores Again.

J. D. Norris Jr.'s Tombereau won his third race in Florida by scoring in the third in a canter, having five lengths to spare at the finish. He was ridden by the apprentice, V. Arthur. Clean Play was second, and Cock Robin, which was more than 100 to 1 to win, third.

Tombereau sprinted into a commanding lead at the start and led all the way, with Clean Play staggering at the end. The time for the seven furlongs was 1:24 2-5. The winner paid $3.30.

FREDDIE MILLER TO PRESS CLAIM FOR RING TITLE

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Out of the no contest ring fiasco here last week between Freddie Miller, Cincinnati challenger, and Christopher [Bat] Battalino, former world champion featherweight, Hartford, Conn., came a statement from Miller today that he wanted all or nothing.

Battalino lost his title when he failed to make the weight. Miller lost his chance to get it when Referee Lou Bauman stopped the milling in the third round to declare it a no contest fight. Subsequently Battalino was fined $5,000 and suspended indefinitely.

Miller was absolved of any wrongdoing by the Cincinnati Boxing commission, but was given only $250 training expenses. Miller said he would press his claim to the title before Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association.

INDIANA TO BUY SUPPLIES WITH GRID RECEIPTS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The special committee appointed by Gov. Harry G. Leslie to handle Indiana's share of the Big Ten charity football game receipts decided today to use the money to purchase supplies only and not to send any cash to the needy communities. Indiana's share was $15,098.70.

It was decided to spend the money in communities where the wealth is not sufficient to produce enough funds for relief, and where effort to meet local problems are being made.

Midway Arena Offers Mat, Ring Show Tonight

LONDOS SEEKS POSTPONEMENT OF DUSEK BOUT

Promoter Doc Krone will appear before the Illinois athletic commission today to obtain permission to change the date of the Jim Londos-Rudy Dusek match, scheduled for Feb. 11. Krone will ask to postpone the bout until March 11.

Krone was requested to defer the match by Londos because of the commission's recent ruling that he could not use his neck lock in the Dusek match. Londos believes the commission will rescind its order barring the hold.

SHAMROCK DATES ALTERED; PLAY AT HOME ON FRIDAY

The St. Louis Fliers, who have won ings with three games between top and can Hockey league games, will oppose the Shamrocks at the Chicago Stadium Friday night instead of the Buffalo Majors. The Majors have been dropped from the circuit, and their dates will be filled by other members of the league. A revised schedule is being prepared.

The elimination of Buffalo and an unexpected spurt by the Duluth Hornets left the American league standings with three games between top and bottom and at the bottom are last year's champions, the Tulsa Oilers.

The following games are scheduled this week in the American league:

Tonight—Duluth at Kansas City.
Wednesday—St. Louis at Tulsa.
Thursday—Duluth at Kansas City.
Friday—St. Louis at Chicago.

USHERS QUINTET MEETS FLORALS THURSDAY NIGHT

Andy Frain's Ushers' basketball team, which has played 11 games this season without a defeat, meets the Duffy Florals Thursday night at White City. The Florals also are undefeated, and are leading the Midwest league.

BALLYHOO OVER, OLYMPIC GAMES CAN START NOW

years and other nations have developed respectable proficiency in hurling the darning needle.

Still, a halt had to be called somewhere or the United States might have insisted on recognition for baseball, the British might have introduced cricket and the French might have demanded a competition in the savate, or boxing with the feet, or some other distinct peculiarity of the French.

Have No Scoring System.

As a peaceful precaution it has long since been decided that there shall be no official system of scoring points in the Olympic games. Thus there is no official winner of the entire meet and there is never any danger of a warlike outbreak in the Italian press which regards a defeat in a sport event as a casus belli.

However, in recognition of the desire of all nations to win the meet for the good of their pride, an unofficial scoring system consisting of a number of systems has been followed for some years whereby each nation can prove conclusively that its own athletes carried off the highest honors.

Under this system, a first place counts for ten points, a second is good for five points, a third counts for four, a fourth for three, a fifth for two and a sixth for one. Or it may be advisable in certain circumstances to cut down a big lead held by some other nation which has won a number of firsts, in which case a first place is rated at six points instead of ten and the other five places, down to sixth, in the same order.

Or Just Ignore Rivals.

It is also permissible, in the case of a nation competing in only a few events, to ignore its rivals points accumulated in events which the nation concerned did not enter. And, as a final consolation, the nation in question may adjust the relative scores on the basis of relative populations. Under this ingenious system it is a very dumb nation indeed which cannot produce a mathematician to show that she won the Olympic games and the result is, or should be, complete satisfaction and accord.

Up to now international amity has suffered no damage, although a large number of athletes have been quartered close together for several weeks at Lake Placid and this in itself constitutes a new Olympic record.

GROUND HOG TO SING 'ME AND MY SHADOW' TODAY

It's an Old Number, but They Still Go for It.

BY BOB BECKER.

The common woodchuck in America occupies the spotlight today as the American public is asked to swallow hugh chuncks of sugared hokum regarding the importance of this animal as a forecaster of winter weather. This myth, one of the most amusing and entertaining in all outdoor lore, has been handed down the line for many years and still presists.

The truth is, of course, that the groundhog or woodchuck has no idea when the second of February occurs on the calendar. Moreover, even if he did have the ability to take a calendar into his den and an alarm clock to wake him up on the second, whether or not he sees his shadow, cannot by any stretch of the imagination have anything to do with the march of the sun, high pressure areas, low pressure areas and other items which are concerned with the question of weather.

Radio Helps Build Up.

This year the build up of the groundhog myth was even more complete than in previous years, due to the fact that the broadcasting companies issued stories regarding their plans to have a broadcast on the groundhog looking, or not looking, at his shadow. It is likely that the American public will wait a long time to see more attention paid to an animal myth than was given this year to the poor, old woodchuck and his reputed powers of forecasting weather.

In a recent wild game handbook issued by the state of Pennsylvania, considerable space is taken by the writer to spike this groundhog myth. The book says in one place:

"The theory that the groundhog emerges from his winter's den on the second of February to see if the sun will cast his shadow is purely mythical. This myth implies that if the groundhog sees his shadow there will be six weeks more of cold weather, and if not, this day will be the beginning of warm weather."

It's no Groundhog to Farmers.

Around Chicago we have never heard this burrowing animal called anything but groundhog or woodchuck, although farmers and other land owners who raise vegetables have various impolite phrases to apply to this animal which knows how to raid a garden in the most destructive style.

However, in the east some people call them "whistle pigs" which in a way is quite appropriate.

Solly Dukelsky vs. Johnny Phagan.
Lynn Thompson vs. Jimmy Myers.
Freddie Dolph vs. Tom Novack.
George Nielsen vs. Tom Murray.
Al Worznicke vs. George Jonasen.
Two other bouts.

The Illinois athletic commission's leading referees and judges yesterday donated their services for the benefit amateur boxing show sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War next Monday night at Merry Garden arena, Sheffield and Belmont avenues. Tommy Thomas, Davey Miller, Ed Purdy, Phil Collins, and Jabber Young will be third men in the ring on the eight bout card, which will be headlined by matches between George Haberski, Catholic Youth organization champion, and Leo Rodak, intercity Golden Gloves titleholder, and Nick Scialaba, international winner, and Anthony Marcy, C. Y. O. victor. The judges are Ed Klein, Livingston Osborn, and Rube Metz. The entire proceeds of the show will go into the relief fund of the sponsors.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago boxer, leaves tomorrow for Philadelphia to finish training for his battle with Johnny Jadick, junior welterweight champion, next Monday. The match is scheduled for ten rounds at the title weight of 140 pounds. Jadick will be making his first start since he won the crown from Tony Canzoneri.

Henry Firpo is a favorite to defeat Dave Shade of California when the middleweights meet in the main event of Mique Malloy's card at White City Monday. Firpo was a semi-finalist in the recent middleweight championship tournament. Firpo is working out at the Arcade gymnasium and Shade is scheduled to reach town Thursday.

Franta Nekolny, European welterweight titleholder, will fight on the Chicago Stadium program Feb. 18, according to a report last night. His opponent was not disclosed. The card, which will be featured by Jack Dempsey in an exhibition, also will have Frankie Battaglia against a middleweight rival and the two semi-final matches of the light heavyweight title tournament.

Negotiations for a 10 round bout between Christopher [Bat] Battalino, former featherweight champion, and Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., at the Chicago Stadium March 17 are under way. Matchmaker Nate Lewis has offered Petrolle $12,500 and a privilege of 25 per cent of the gate receipts. Jack Hurley, Petrolle's manager, has asked for a $15,000 guarantee. Battalino has accepted terms, but wants the match to be at 139 pounds, one pound less than Petrolle demands.

Loyola U. Seeks 2d Victory Over Millikin Five Tonight

Loyola university basketball team will observe the opening of second semester classes tonight by meeting the James Millikin university five at the Loyola gym. The game will start at 8:15.

The Ramblers will be seeking their thirteenth victory of the season and their second this year over the Decatur team. Loyola won a 30 to 14 game from Millikin in December.

Millikin's lineup will be the same with the exception that Dan Henry has been switched from guard to center. Allan Russell, the only Chicagoan on the squad, may see action as a sub forward. Russell, who played guard on Parker High's five two years ago, was regular quarter back on the Millikin football team.

All the Loyolans successfully passed the midyear examinations.

It is possible that the Ramblers will employ their new offense, a fast passing attack, as well as their usual slow, deliberate style of play. The lineup:

LOYOLA.		MILLIKIN.
Schuhmann	Forward	France
Hogan	Forward	Steinhauer
Wagner	Center	D. Henry
Cavanaugh	Guard	Spillman
Butzen	Guard	Rolinaitis

CLAIM TINY HONORS.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The Western State Teachers' college basketball team, which will make its second invasion of Chicago, Feb. 12, to play Loyola university, probably is the midwest's smallest college five, with an average height of 5 feet 9 2-5 inches.

It was this team of midgets, as they have come to be known this year, which smashed the winning streak of Loyola university. The midgets boast a 36 to 24 victory over the University of Chicago, and two wins over Manchester college of Indiana, an otherwise unbeaten team. The game with Loyola at Chichago is the biggest test that the Hilltop five has left on its card.

BADGERS AWAIT DRILL.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The University of Wisconsin basketball team will return to practice Thursday in preparation for remaining games. The Badgers will meet Marquette on Feb. 8 and Butler on Feb. 10.

Although beaten in four out of their last five starts, the Badgers have been considered a dangerous foe in every game.

Schneller and Pacetti of football fame, and Ken Ryckman, reserve guard of 1930, probably will see action during the remaining games. This trio will help to overcome one of Wisconsin's biggest handicaps—lack of height.

St. Agatha Senior Girls' Five Wins Fourth in Row

St. Agatha's senior girls scored their fourth consecutive victory of the season last night by defeating Precious Blood, 24-2, in the feature game of the west division of the C. Y. O. Girls' Basketball league. Blessed Agnes maintained its second place position by defeating St. Charles, 25-0. Blessed Sacrament scored a 12-11 victory over St. Agatha's juniors in the third game of the evening.

SIMPSON FIVE WINS.

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Simpson defeated Columbia college tonight, 32 to 30. Capt. Schwartz of Columbia led the scoring.

Ruppert All-Stars Play House of David Monday

Ruppert's All-Star indoor baseball team will meet the House of David at the Rainbo Fronton on Monday. Matt Ruppert will pitch for his team and also twirl for the Wallaces in a City league championship game against the Nik Kellers, which will be a preliminary.

Mississippi Lifts Ban on Dempsey and All Is Well

The state of Mississippi has lifted its ban on Jack Dempsey, it was announced yesterday by Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association, upon a receipt of a telegram from Col. R. H. Landry, chairman of the Mississippi commission.

Col. Landry had suspended the former champion because of a reported failure of a promoter, who had put on a show in which Dempsey was the referee, to pay the expenses. At the same time the Mississippi commission had asked that the suspension be placed in effect throughout the member states of the N. B. A.

Dempsey will appear with the Mississippi commissioners in Clinnin's offices for final disposal of the case Saturday.

Leonard Sacks, Dempsey's manager, appeared before Gen. Clinnin yesterday and offered to post a bond but was told it was unnecessary. Sacks also invited the Mississippi commissioners to come to the Chicago conference at Dempsey's expense.

Dempsey is scheduled for a four round exhibition bout at Milwaukee next Monday night and for a similar appearance at the Chicago Stadium on Feb. 18.

A. L. BASEBALL LEADERS RATIFY 1932 SCHEDULE

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—With the formal ratification of the schedule for the championship season of 1932 which will open on April 11 in Washington and on the following day for the remainder of the circuit, the annual schedule meeting of the American league passed quietly into the minutes at the Hotel Commodore today with little more than routine matters occupying the attention of the clubowners during most of the session.

Resolutions, expressing profound regret, were adopted on the recent deaths of William Wrigley, owner of the Cubs; Alfred Austrian, attorney for the White Sox, and George W. Miller, for many years attorney for the American league.

In keeping with the economic policy adopted at the last December meeting, President William Harridge announced that the league's staff of umpires had been reduced to ten with the release of William Campbell, and would remain at that number throughout the season. This means that the league, for the most part, will return to the two-man system of umpiring.

PAIR RIDERS IN SIX DAY GRIND; STARTS SUNDAY

Seven Entrants Making Chicago Debut.

John M. Chapman, manager of Chicago's twenty-seventh international six-day bicycle race, has completed the task of pairing the riders for the grind which will start at 9 o'clock Sunday night at the Stadium. The field is made up of the American stars and leading riders of Europe.

The complete list of teams follows:

Alfred Letourner and Marcel Guimbretiere, France.
Franco Georgetti, Italy, and Freddie Spencer, Plainfield, N. J.
Aturo Bresciani and Avanti Martinetti, Italy.
George Kroschel and Fritz Schenk, Germany.
Steve Wagner and Pete Smessaert, Chicago.
Gregory Flatow and Tony Schaller, Chicago.
Carl Stockholm, Chicago, and Norman Hill, San Jose, Cal.
William Peden, Vancouver, B. C., and Jules Audy, Montreal, Can.
Max Bulla, Austria, and Cor Wals, Holland.
Jean Pijnenburg, Holland, and Adolph Van Nevele, Belgium.
Bobby Walthour, Newark, N. J., and Willie Grimm, Maplewood, N. J.
Harry Horan and Reggie McNamara, Newark, N. J.
Joseph DeVito and Jackie Sheehan, New York.
Prefent De Lille, Belgium, and Mickey Rodak, Chicago.
Charley Ritter, Newark, N. J., and Jimmy Walthour, New York.

Seven of the riders are making their first appearance in a Chicago race. They are Audy, Bresciani, Pijnenburg, Schenk, Bulla, Wals and Van Nevele.

RAILWAY WAGE DECISION HELPS CHICAGO STOCKS

Bendix Moves Up on News of Plant Activity.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The railroad wage decision provided an opportunity for the professional traders to dress up stock prices yesterday which they did without the benefit of public buying.

With a wary public still casting a suspicious eye at the ticker tape, but taking few slips to the order cage there was no expansion in the volume of trading on the Chicago exchange. Thanks to professional maneuvering, however, closing prices represented general improvement over last week's final quotations.

As a salute to the automobile show, which is getting under way here, the sponsors of the motor accessory shares stirred up some activity and bid values up moderately. Bendix moved up to 17½ on the strength of statement by President Vincent Bendix that two of the firm's divisions are operating full blast in order to meet orders from the trade. Other accessory shares trailed with more modest gains.

Utility Issues Improve.

Utility issues were slightly higher with Commonwealth Edison outstanding with a gain of more than a point. The company's quarterly bulletin which has been sent to stockholders states that annual meeting will be held Feb. 29. The quarterly earnings usually contained in the bulletin will not be made public until the annual report covering the full year is made public.

Directors of W. F. Hall Printing company will take no further dividend action until the July meeting according to a letter to stockholders accompanying the quarterly dividend checks. At the July meeting directors will consider a semi-annual dividend, it was stated. The stock is now on a $1.20 annual basis, which heretofore has been paid in quarterly installments.

Charles Cliff, secretary treasurer, said that audited figures for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31 are not available yet, but that preliminary figures indicate net earnings for the year of approximately double dividend requirements. The company's stock was dull yesterday, appearing on the tape at 11 on a 50 share transaction.

Shows Operating Loss.

National Republic Investment Trust's report showing a net operating loss for 1931 of $21,592 has been sent to stockholders. The loss reported includes loss of $197,614 on the sale of securities but not unrealized depreciation. In the preceding year the trust reported a profit of $282,695.

Directors failed to take any action on the preference stock dividend due at this time. In the previous quarter the rate was cut from 50 to 25 cents a share.

Listed stocks are carried at $546,463 as compared with $1,735,020 at the close of 1930. Bond investment was $21,600 against $33,525. The trust's investment of 121,798 shares of National Republic Bancorporation is carried at the cost price of $3,230,075. Other investments are carried at the market as of the close of the year. Total assets at the end of the year were $3,834,926 as compared with $5,209,951 at the close of 1930.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Second hand selling of print cloths was encouraged today by stronger first hands market, and the opportunity to take profits from recent rise.

Buying interest at the opening was distinctly better on finished lines. Rayon demand continues good on fine deniers in viscose yarns. Rayon French crepes for dress purposes are being shown.

Burlaps have been selling better for miscellaneous uses, including a demand for upholstery purposes in the automobile trade. Silk is irregular, with China grades dull. Worsteds and dress goods are in fair demand.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

WILL RAILWAYS START WHEELS OF INDUSTRY?

New Hope Seen from Wage Cut.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Will it be the assurance of a better situation for the railroads that at long last will set trade and industry on the road to improvement? The railroads are probably the largest buyers of diverse materials, and now it would seem that their income is to be augmented by approximately 310 million dollars a year by lower wages and higher freight rates.

Moreover, it is likely that the weaker roads will be relieved from their most pressing financial difficulties both because of larger earnings and loans that will be extended to them by the stronger roads through their own credit organization and the new government Reconstruction Finance corporation. This should have a salutary effect on railroad securities, particularly the senior obligations. This is not to say that railroads which have reduced or omitted dividends will restore the old rates immediately. But the combination of benefits should banish the specter of receiverships and defaults on interest charges.

Stock Market Responds.

The stock market yesterday responded to the news of the reduction in railway wages. There was the view that the steel and equipment industries in particular may benefit. Normally, the railroads spend around 1¾ billion dollars for manufactured goods of various kinds, although they spent only about half of that amount last year. With any pickup in traffic, it is likely the carriers will find it necessary to replace and overhaul considerable equipment and to expand their maintenance expenditures. Moreover, improvement in traffic would produce the added revenue, as well as the incentive, for expansion. There were estimates yesterday that the railroads will start off by placing orders for 250,000 tons of steel in the next fortnight.

"There will be a lot of money spent," James E. Gorman, president of the Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific, said yesterday. "Any one can run a better railroad with funds to purchase adequate equipment than he could otherwise. More should be spent for maintenance and in other directions. There is not much likelihood of new car buying, as the reduction in traffic has left the roads with more cars than they need. In other directions, however, there should be improvement.

"As to the effect of all this on prosperity, I'm not predicting. I'm only hoping, like everybody else, and I do hope that this will bring the turn."

Show More Resistance.

What may be the psychological effect of security prices remains to be seen, of course. There has been much said about prices of securities "scraping bottom," but that has not prevented further recessions. However, it would seem that the stock market last month showed more resistance than in several months. The market value of 100 representative common stocks declined 2.7 per cent in January to $10,334,406,000 at the end of the month, according to the monthly computation of Frazier Jelke & Co. The depreciation of $290,027,000 compares with a drop of $1,974,755,000 in December, a loss of $1,571,694,000 in November, a gain of $1,198,016,000 in October, and a decrease of $5,690,590,000 in September. At the extreme lows of Dec. 17, the group was selling at $9,858,001,000.

In January five of the 13 subgroups advanced and eight subgroups declined. The largest gain in dollars was in the rails, which advanced $123,470,000, or 9.2 per cent. The amusements advanced 19.5 per cent, the railway equipments, 11.5 per cent; the miscellaneous industrials, 2 per cent, and the merchandising stocks, 1.1 per cent.

The largest loss in dollars was in the electrical equipment issues, which depreciated $160,900,000, of 18.9 per cent. Other declines were 7.7 per cent in the motors, 6.3 per cent in the oils, 5.1 per cent in the steels, 3.9 per cent in the chemicals, 3.7 per cent in the utilities, 1.9 per cent in the foods, and 8-10 of 1 per cent in the mines.

Freight Rates Soar Under I.C.C. Control

BY SCRUTATOR.

Leading transportation authorities having agreed, as pointed out the other day in this column, that regulation of railway freight rates by the interstate commerce commission has resulted in breaking the railroads and giving the nation the highest freight rates ever paid, this all-important question arises:

Where do we go from here?

"Equal regulation for all types of carriers" has been the railroad slogan for a year and a half.

At first railway leaders explained that they meant extending the stringent provisions of the transportation act to highway and water carriers. But after viewing the sad mess into which regulation has got the railroads they lately have altered their demands somewhat.

Crazy-Quilt Rate Structure.

They still ask for equalization of regulation, but want less of it. They have discovered that the interstate commerce commission, after having laboriously built up for them a crazy-quilt rate structure which won't move traffic freely on their lines, now can think of no solution except to propose action leading to similar impossible rate structures for other types of transportation.

One could hardly expect a governmental bureau like the interstate commerce commission to suggest any plan that would reduce its own authority.

"If government regulation cannot do any better than it has in the past," says the Railway Age, "if it must year after year practice unconstitutional confiscation of railroad property, make it impossible for the railroads to meet the competition of other means of transportation, and reduce them to virtual insolvency in every depression, then certainly railroad freedom could not cause worse results than railroad regulation."

As pointed out in this column on Dec. 5, 1930, the cure is less regulation for railroads rather than more for their competitors.

Bar to Regulation.

There is one fundamental difference between rail carriers on the one hand and highway and water carriers on the other—a difference which would render futile any attempt to regulate motor trucks and boats as railways are regulated.

A railroad is easily brought under the thumb of a regulatory body because its principal investment is in fixed property. If it doesn't like the rates there is nothing that a railroad can do about it.

Very few trucking companies have any investment other than in motor vehicles, and the water carrier's only investment is in boats. If they don't like the rates to a certain destination they won't go there any more. Further, there is nothing to prevent either ships or trucks being sold or leased into private service not subject to regulation.

A rail carrier accepts all freight that is offered whereas the highway and waterway carriers accept only such freight as is suited to their vehicles and handling methods.

Gets His Rates.

The late W. J. ["Fingy"] Connors, head of the Great Lakes Transit corporation, after the war wanted to raise lake and rail rates on grain from Chicago to the east.

"If those rates don't go into effect," he told the commission, "there won't be any boats."

He got the rates.

Truck and boat operators would welcome some regulation. It would protect them against the competition of irresponsible wildcatters. It would improve their standing in the eyes of the public. But any attempt to extend to them the type of regulation that controls rates, breaks railroads and discourages the movement of goods would result in the discovery that they are about as easy to regulate as a flock of wild geese.

Gen. Outdoor Advertising Reports $1,834,034 Loss

General Outdoor Advertising company, Inc., for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931, reported a net loss of $1,834,034 after expenses, interest, minority interests and after a provision of $2,181,907 for retirements and amortization of advertising display plants. This compares with a net profit of $345,240, equal after 6 per cent preferred dividends to $1.40 a share on 125,000 shares of class A stock in 1930.

Elect Chas. S. Dewey V. P. of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet

Charles S. Dewey, formerly assistant secretary of the treasury and financial adviser to the Polish government, has been elected a vice president and director of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, it was announced yesterday. Mr. Dewey will take charge of finance and will give special attention to the foreign business of the firm, it was stated.

NEW SOUTH WALES DEFAULTS ON BONDS TOTALING $4,750,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 1.—New South Wales today defaulted in her interest and sinking fund payments of $4,750,000 to bondholders in the United States and England. Under the Australian loan council agreement the commonwealth government must assume the overseas debts of New South Wales, including the interest payment of $1,000,000 due today to American holders of New South Wales bonds.

Refuses Loan.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Commonwealth Loan council, which represents all Australian governments, has refused to advance $2,500,000 to the state of New South Wales to meet interest payments due in London and New York.

It was believed the commonwealth government would appeal to the high court to compel New South Wales to meet its obligations. Meanwhile, the monthly returns to New South Wales, due under the revenue clauses of the constitution, would be withheld, it was believed, for application to the state's overseas obligations.

Prices Drop Sharply.

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Bonds of New South Wales and the Australian commonwealth declined sharply today following announcement that the interest on the former's 5 per cent loan of 1957, due today, was not being paid.

Financial obligations of the New South Wales government were defaulted last summer, but the loan council of the Australian commonwealth maintained payments to the state's creditors. A statement said that support had been withdrawn recently by the Australian Loan council because the New South Wales government had failed to conform to agreements designed to obviate the defaults.

The New South Wales issues of 1957 and 1958 dropped from $120 to $140 per $1,000 bond. Australian commonwealth loans, although not in default, declined sympathetically around $60 per bond of $1,000 par value.

January Auto Shipments Show Increase Over 1931

The Buick Motor company division of the General Motors produced and shipped 6,365 cars in January, compared with 11,629 in December, and 6,000 in January, 1931, it was reported yesterday.

Graham-Paige Motors corporation reports shipments of 2,537 cars in January, an increase of 23 per cent over last year and the largest January total since 1929.

January car shipments of the Auburn Automobile company totalled 2,508, E. L. Cord, president, announced. This figure compares with 2,017 cars shipped in January, 1931, and represents an increase of slightly more than 24.3 per cent.

Continental Securities Investments Show Decline

The report of the Continental Securities corporation for the year ended Dec. 31 shows investments carried at market or estimated fair value of $2,933,722. On Dec. 31, 1930, investments carried at cost of $10,425,897 had a market value of $7,369,927. Net profit from interest and dividends was $153,523, compared with $282,659 in 1930. Net loss in 1931 on securities sold was $648,047.

STOCKHOLDERS IN "333" DEFER TO BONDHOLDERS

Reorganization Plan Made Public.

BY AL CHASE.

What is termed a definitely constructive plan to protect the bondholders of the 333 North Michigan Avenue building was announced last night. Under this organization the stockholders of the building corporation have agreed to relinquish their claim to any of the income until the rights of the bondholders shall have been fully satisfied and the bonds retired or paid off. This reorganization plan has been accomplished through the joint efforts of the Greenebaum Sons Investment company, which is the reorganization manager, and the owners of the equity, which are the holders of the common stock in the building corporation.

M. E. GREENEBAUM

"Under the terms of the agreement, every dollar of net income from the building will be secured for the benefit of the bondholders," said Mr. Greenebaum, "and to this end the stockholders have pledged their stock. We expect a ready response to our letter asking them to deposit their bonds with the depositary, the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, so that the plan may be put into operation.

"The provisions of the new arrangement establishes an encouraging precedent for the holders of real estate bonds and indicates the possibilities for the satisfactory adjustment of such problems under proper supervision."

For Bondholders' Benefit.

According to a letter sent last night to the bondholders, the reorganization in effect provides that all earnings from the operation of the property will accrue to the benefit of the bondholders. New income bonds will be issued to replace the original issue of $6,250,000 six per cent bonds, and interest up to 5 per cent will be paid according to the extent of the earnings, as defined in the new trust deed. Excess income above 5 per cent in any year will go toward the retirement of the bonds through purchase in the open market or by redemption at 100.

The plan will, it is stated, if possible avoid expenses incident to receivership and prolonged litigation, and will have the benefit of the present management, sponsored by the present strong group of stockholders, composed of John Helabird, John Root, and others.

Insasmuch as these stockholders have almost $2,000,000 of their own money in the enterprise, their willingness to defer their interests in favor of the bondholders indicates, it is pointed out by Mr. Greenebaum, their faith in the ultimate working out of the problems of the building brought about by present conditions.

Trustee in Possession.

The Central Republic Bank and Trust company, acting as trustee under the old deed, has been in possession of the property since Jan. 7, 1932, and is collecting the income for the benefit of the bondholders. It also is acting as depositary under the reorganization plan.

The new bonds to be issued will be par for par of principal amounts equal to the present bonds, and will be dated Jan. 1, 1932, and will mature Jan. 1, 1947. They are to be secured by a trust deed on the land and building. Interest will be payable out of income, semi-annually, Jan. 1 and July 1. A retroactive arrangement for the payment of any unpaid interest is included in the provisions during the last ten years prior to 1947.

The new plan is to become operative as soon as sufficient of the bonds have been deposited in response to the letter of the reorganization manager sent out last night.

MARSHALL FIELD PAYS PREFERRED DIVIDEND BUT PASSES COMMON

As the result of general depression in merchandising last year, Marshall Field & Co. yesterday discontinued dividends on the common stock, although the usual quarterly dividend on the preferred stock was declared. The company issued a preliminary report for 1931, showing an operating loss of $5,091,000 after all charges. This compares with a net profit of $4,724,728 in 1930, which was equivalent to $1.82 a share on 1,399,987 common shares after provision for dividends on the preferred stock.

"At a meeting of the board of directors, the regular quarterly dividend on preferred stock was declared but no action was taken on the common dividend," President John McKinlay announced. "While the annual audit for 1931 is incomplete, we know the company will show a reduction in total volume of business of $36,300,000 and a net operating loss, after all depreciations, charges, interests and reserves of every description, of $5,091,000.

"Current assets of $54,898,000 are 7.8 times current liabilities. Cash and securities at market values Dec. 31, 1931, amount to $16,451,000. There are no current borrowings. A desire to conserve resources during the present stress of general business conditions prompts the board in passing the common dividend. The annual report to stockholders will be mailed before the end of this month."

COPPER PRICES DECLINE; TOUCH 6¾C PER POUND

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Copper prices sagged again today and offerings were reported at 6¾ cents a pound for domestic shipment. This was a further decline of ¼ of a cent per pound and ½ of a cent a pound under the best prices touched recently after a world curtailment plan had been agreed upon by international producers.

Westinghouse Electric Gets Big Elevator Order

The Westinghouse Electric Elevator company, Chicago, has been awarded a $2,500,000 contract for elevators for the new Radio City project in New York. Frank C. Reed, vice president, said the contract will give employment to a large number of men, both in the company's manufacturing plants and in construction crews for installing the equipment.

The Stone and Webster Engineering corporation has received a contract covering the design and construction of extensions to the Lever Brothers company's plant at Hammond, Ind.

War Specter Lifts Prices in Wheat Pit

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The specter of war in China overshadowed a subsiding crop scare as a leading influence in the wheat market yesterday. Sufficient buying occurred to advance prices as much as 2½c over the finish of Saturday with May touching 61⅜c and July 61⅝c on the advance.

Heavy profit taking and commission house selling, some of which the pit element attributed to the coöperatives, caused a reaction in wheat of around 1½c from the best figures, but the close was at net gains of 1@1¼c, with March at 57½c at the last, while May was 59⅞@60c and July 60¼@60⅜c.

Liverpool ignored the decline in North America on Saturday and wheat there closed ⅛@¼c per bu higher, with May at 5⅝c, or 3⅜c under Chicago at the time.

France Revises Regulations.

A revision in French milling regulations which permits the use of 10 per cent of foreign wheat compared with 3 per cent previously was taken by the trade as indicating a better foreign demand. According to seaboard reports around 750,000 bu Manitobas were taken in all positions, including some grain in store in France. In addition there were sales of small amounts of hard winter afloat to Rotterdam. Winnipeg reported the continent buying futures early, and gained ¾@⅞c for the day. May there closed at 63¼c in Canadian funds which were around 13 per cent discount. Buenos Aires gained ⅞c for the day, with March at 42⅜c.

Forecast for warmer weather over the entire grain belt had a tendency to dampen bullish enthusiasm in wheat, but the trade generally felt it was too early to determine whether the new crop had been damaged or not by the low temperatures over the week end.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

An early advance of 1½c in corn futures, largely in sympathy with wheat, carried the May up to 42c, but the country started to sell cash grain to arrive on a liberal scale as the result of the bulge, local handlers reporting 178,000 bu booked and the market flattened out. Closing trades were at net gains of ⅛@½c, with March, 38c; May, 40¾@40⅞c, and July, 42¾c.

Around 5c under May was paid for No. 3 yellow to arrive, a price that netted the producer somewhat over 25c for his corn at country loading stations in Illinois and Indiana. The bulk of the grain sold was by the latter states. According to Minneapolis messages the demand for cash corn there has let up to a considerable extent. Shipping sales here aggregated 15,000 bu.

Oats were firm early with other grains only to react from the top with the latter and close ¼@⅜c higher, with May at 26¼c and July, 25½@25⅝c.

Outside interest in rye was lacking and the market after advancing early with wheat reacted with that grain.

P.K. Wrigley Made Director of Boulevard Bridge Bank

Election of Philip K. Wrigley yesterday as a director of the Boulevard Bridge bank to succeed his father, the late William Wrigley Jr., was seen as another step of the son's succession to the business power left by his father. Confirmation of the election will be given at an early meeting of stockholders. John F. Hagey, vice president of the First National bank, is chairman of the Boulevard bank and J. DeForest Richards is president.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1.—Wall street's new crop of "war brides" was the center of much speculative attention on the stock exchange today. Powder, steel and aircraft issues were the favorites.

The railroad shares were all steamed up over the $200,000,000 saving scored by the roads on the settlement of their wage dispute with employés and came in for the biggest hand they have received in weeks.

Between them, the two groups were able to pull the list out of the slough of despond in which it has been wallowing for these last ten days or so. Just how long it will stay up and how far it can go remains, of course, to be seen. Bullish interests are hopeful that the young war in the far east will prove the detonation which the market has been needing so long to jar it definitely out of the doldrums. They are not forgetting, of course, the terrible setback which the last big fracas gave it; but this market seems to go contrary to all known rules and so it is hoped may take exactly the opposite course to what it did in 1914 and attempt to do something worth while.

Prices Advance.

This "contrary" tendency of the list was never exemplified more than now. Ever since the Chicago conferences got under way, observers with the welfare of the boys in the back room at heart have been raising a clarion voice occasionally to warn that an announcement of the final settlement was very liable to be followed by a reaction of the carrier shares. It's an old rule of the game—made so by prolonged custom—for stocks with such an issue ahead to sell off when the "good news" comes out. Profit taking by those who took their chance in advance is the secret.

News of the Chicago agreement came Saturday night. Instead of fulfilling the rôle fixed up for them by the professional prognosticators and taking to the lowlands again, however, the rails perked up smartly at the very outset today. Thus, Atchison opened 2½ points above its Saturday close, New York Central was up a point or so, Norfolk and Western 4, Union Pacific 3, and Illinois Central, Rock Island, Baltimore and Ohio and others up from a good sized fraction to more than a point. Realizing slowed up the leaders of the group after the initial advance, but they were not long in getting their second wind and some of them added to their opening gains. Net advances of the group ranged anywhere from a fraction to 4 points, with the closing prices in the main around the best of the day.

Steel Closes at 41.

United States Steel counted itself in on the bright side of the dealings early and when the order came to knock off for the day it was displaying a net gain of 3⅝ points. The closing sale was at 41. Bethlehem, Crucible and other steel issues were vigorous and strong, being helped, of course, by the prospects of more serious war in the far east. Some of the buying in U. S. Steel common was reported to represent covering of short lines put out a week or so ago by traders anticipating a renewal of liquidation on publication of the corporation's report and reduction in its dividend.

Some of the more substantial orders of the day were reputed, however, to be coming from interests close to the company and to be based on anticipations of substantial railroad orders for steel as a result of the successful outcome of the wage parleys.

Among the "war baby" candidates, Du Pont and Atlas Powder both rose more than 2 points and United Aircraft did almost as well.

The whole market got some help from the upturn in wheat due to the war cloud boom.

In spite of the improved tone of the dealings, trading remained almost entirely in the hands of the professionals, with volume around 1,500,000 shares.

STOREY PLACES SANTA FE '31 NET AT $6 A SHARE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 1. — Revising earlier estimates downward, W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, said today that on the basis of preliminary figures net income for 1931 was equivalent to between $6 and $6.50 a share on the common stock. "Other income" of the company for 1931 was below that of the preceding year, amounting to less than $5,000,000, Mr. Storey said.

As far as can be determined, the higher rates recently allowed by the interstate commerce commission will increase annual operating revenue by from $2,500,000 to $4,000,000, Mr. Storey said. On the subject of wage reduction, he said the 10 per cent reduction would mean a saving of between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 annually for the Santa Fe.

Top yesterday, $6.50; average, $5.90.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 30,000; sheep, 16,000.

There was a resumption of the advance in hog prices yesterday when cold weather stayed on and blizzards continued to tie up the movement of stock in some of the principal producing sections of the corn belt. Light weights equaled the highest point since Jan. 7 and were only 30c under the highest spot in ten weeks.

There was a good clearance for better grades at 10@20c advance, and bulk reached the scales before the market turned weak. Part of the gain was erased on closing rounds. However, the general average for the whole day at $4.00 was up 15c, while the peak price at $4.35 showed 20c gain compared with Saturday and was 25c above last Friday's top.

Note Drop in Receipts.

Developments in the hog market since the first of the year have added more color to the theory that last fall's liquidation would cut January and February hog receipts of spring pigs. The January total at the eleven leading markets at 2,942,000 head, shows a decrease of 221,000, or 7 per cent, compared with a year ago. Only three January totals have been lighter since 1915. During the liquidation period, September to December, inclusive, the United States slaughtered 16,330,788 hogs, a gain of 1,396,112 head, or 9 per cent, compared with the same period in 1930.

Little change was reported from the hog futures trade yesterday. May light and heavy grades carried bids of $4.25, while March contracts were offered at 5.00 and bid $4.25. February hogs carried bids of $4.00.

The cattle market went under pressure again when the wholesale trade for dressed beef failed to perform as expected. Some improvement was noted and better volume brought smaller houses into the bidding, but the enhancement did not warrant more than moderate buying, according to larger houses. Their attitude was bearish from the start and when warmer weather was predicted buyers insisted on a 25@50c cut, against a possible setback in beef later.

A scattering of scales of good steers and yearlings were steady, but the bulls cleared slowly and mostly on late afternoon rounds at the reduction. A load of 1,146 lb steers went to Swift at $9.65, the top, but only occasional loads were eligible to more than $8.50. The bulk of steers sold at $5.00@8.50.

Lambs in Deadlock.

A deadlock resulted in the lamb market yesterday when buyers arrived with orders to cut all classes 25c in face of moderate supplies for the time of year. Sellers were equally determined and carried approximately 75 per cent of the supply into the late afternoon rounds until packers finally agreed to last week's closing quotations.

The majority of sales were made a few minutes before the market closed. Bulk of the slaughter lambs of good quality sold at $6.00@6.25, packers paying up to $6.35 and city butchers as high as $6.50 for their best selections.

BUTTER FUTURES LOWER

Slightly improved statistical news failed to aid butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, selling pressure carrying prices off sharply at the close, net losses of ¾c being recorded. Egg futures were quiet, closing ½c lower. The four markets reported in net outward movement of butter for the first time in several days, although the comparison with last year showed a 300,000 lb decrease in the shortage. The weather likewise failed to stimulate material support. Covering at the opening held prices for a time, but the buying decreased later. Eggs were firmer at the start, light receipts and weather conditions prompting fair support, but interest died out later. Sales: Butter, 102 cars; eggs, 9 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 11 cars. COVERING IN LARD

Covering of liberal sized lines of May lard by shorts absorbed the offerings by packers yesterday and closed the futures 5@10c net higher at the best prices of the day. The monthly report given out after the close showed a net increase of stocks of lard in Chicago of 12,370,000 lbs for the month, with a total of 36,439,000 lbs, against 30,693,000 lbs last year. Total stocks of meats are 121,653,000 lbs, against 97,864,000 lbs a month ago, and 124,406,000 lbs last year.

Liverpool lard was unchanged. Export clearances of lard for the week were 10,404,000 lbs against 15,640,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 162,000 lbs against 4,910,000 lbs last year. Hog prices were up sharply, and the fresh pork loin market is said to be higher, around 7¼@8½c. Hog receipts in the west were materially under last week's and last year's. Prices follow:

LATE WEAKNESS IN COTTON

Cotton prices advanced 7@10 points in the Chicago market early yesterday and other markets followed to a moderate extent. Toward the last selling developed which carried prices down and made a close on futures in Chicago of unchanged to 3 points net higher. New Orleans was up 3 points higher to 1 point lower and New York, 1@3 points lower. Spots were unchanged in all markets. New York being 6.85c; New Orleans, 6.65c; Galveston and Houston, 6.60c. Liverpool was 8 points higher.

Stocks of American cotton afloat and in Europe considered small, being 1,457,000 bales, against 1,338,000 bales last year. Movement of cotton into sight in the last week was 389,000 bales, against 433,000 bales previous week and 127,000 bales last year. Rains fell over a good part of the belt during the week-end, which will delay the movement. At the same time there was fair selling in New York.

The Texas acreage reduction law has been declared unconstitutional, but it fell flat as a market factor. Prices follow:

THREE STANDARD OIL COMPANIES MAINTAIN DIVIDEND PAYMENTS

Three large oil companies—Standard of New Jersey, Socony-Vacuum and Standard of Indiana—maintained their dividend rates yesterday. The Standard Oil company of New Jersey declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents and the usual extra of 25 cents. The company has more than 25,000,000 shares outstanding. Extra dividends of 25 cents quarterly have been paid regularly since 1929.

Directors of the Socony-Vacuum corporation, formed last summer by merger of Standard Oil of New York and Vacuum oil companies, declared a dividend of 25 cents. Just after the merger the new corporation paid an initial dividend of 40 cents and on Dec. 15 last made a payment of 25 cents.

Directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana voted a dividend of 25 cents a share. This is the same dividend rate of the third and fourth quarters of 1931. Dr. Max G. Paulus, research chemist, was elected a director to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Gentry Cash in July, last year.

Why pay more than Household's low rate on loans?

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928 and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:
The average monthly cost of a $200 loan repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago

GET THE COST IN DOLLARS BEFORE YOU BORROW.

Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. 20 months to repay. Quick service.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
